

TRAIN CRASH SCENE — Curious onlookers begin to crowd around the remains of a Baltimore and Ohio freight locomotive which rammed into three stationary box cars at the Millikan Avenue crossing shortly after 2 p.m. Tuesday.

Hanoi frees 49 more POWs

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — The Communists freed 49 more American POWs in Hanoi today, including a charter pilot held longer than any other U.S. civilian prisoner in the war.

Among the men freed were nine Americans captured in Laos. A young Canadian missionary captured in Laos also was handed over.

Two big flying hospitals brought the freed men from the North Vietnamese capital to Clark Air Base, the first stop on their trip home.

The 10 prisoners of the Communist Pathet Lao arrived first, in midafternoon. The other 40 Americans, who had been prisoners of North Vietnam, landed three hours later.

The men freed today joined 27 American military men and five civilians released by the Viet Cong in Hanoi Tuesday. Together with 67 POWs to be freed Thursday, they are the last POWs to be released by the Communists under a repatriation program that began Feb. 12.

Hanoi says the 67 being freed Thursday are the last Americans held in Vietnam. When they are handed over, a total of 587 American military men and civilians will have been released since Feb. 12.

The C141 carrying the former Pathet Lao prisoners had to circle Clark Field for 20 minutes because a T33 trainer had blown a tire on landing and was blocking the runway.

Air Force Lt. Col. Walter M. Stischer, 42, of Austin, Tex., the senior military man freed by the Laotians, told the crowd of welcomers: "On behalf of all of us I would like to thank you and all of the people of the United States of America for making our return possible. Thank you."

The 10 men all appeared in good condition. Two of them, Lloyd D. Oppel, 21, a Canadian missionary from British Columbia, and Samuel A. Mattix, 20, an American missionary from Centralia, Wash., waved their arms exuberantly. Oppel and Mattix were captured last Oct. 28 when the Communists overran the town of Kengkok, in southern Laos.

Ernest C. Brace, 41, a charter pilot who had been a Communist captive longer than any other civilian in Indochina, appeared on the verge of tears as he moved down the red carpet shaking hands with the welcoming officials. He smiled, and several of his front teeth were missing.

Brace, whose wife lives in Atlanta, Ga., was captured on May 21, 1965.

Returnees revel in big back pay

The 25-year-old pilot from Milwaukee, Wis., who was shot down April 3, 1972, did some quick mathematics as he and 31 other men flew from Hanoi Tuesday. It was more than $10,000.

Other POWs—pilots held since 1966 and 1967—have found as much as $100,000 built up in their accounts.

But all of them are seeing only $250 in "casual pay" until they return home.

"We don't want them throwing $60,000 or so around here," said an Operation Homecoming official. "We want them to have it when they get back to the States and are able to talk to their families and figure out how they should spend it.

"A lot of these guys are getting a lot of money. But no matter how much they receive I don't think anyone feels it's nearly enough."

The $250 is spent in the Clark Field PX. The POWs buy double-knit suits and cameras to take each other's pictures, send flowers to their wives and buy perfume, jewelry and other gifts for their families.

Some have trouble with even $250.

"I'm going to have to learn how to spend money again," said Maj. Terry J. Uyeyama, 27, of Austin, Tex., as he bought presents for his wife earlier this month.

"It can be like a candy store," said Capt. Lorren H. Torrleson, 32, of Carmichael, Calif. "You're just so overcome you don't know what really to get. We're not used to making decisions on our own."

The civilians freed by the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese have also received back pay from their employers, but Clark officials were unsure about how much. A Department of Labor man from Washington irons out this for the men.

The military POWs do not have to pay federal income tax on the pay they accumulated. Some states have also waived their income tax requirements for the men.

According to Defense Department records, 79 Air Force men who were either prisoners or missing in action accumulated from $50,000 to $100,000 in overseas savings accounts.

Another 247 had between $25,000 and $50,000. One Army Spec. 5 captured during the 1968 Tet offensive had $25,000 in pay waiting for him.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Somewhere in the United States, 120 former Ohio Penitentiary inmates may hold the key to a cancer cure.

The men were used as live guinea pigs for cancer experiments in the mid-1950's, and Dr. Arthur James of Columbus, president of the American Cancer Society, issued an appeal Tuesday for the men to make their whereabouts known.

The appeal was made after Dr. James discovered 40 members of the test group had developed no cancer.

Statistically, one in four adult males should have developed a cancer, said the 61-year-old surgeon. If none of the research group, or even a low percentage, developed cancer over the years, it could mean the experiment has discovered a cancer preventative, James said.

In the experiment, conducted by James and Dr. Chester Southam, a Philadelphia immunologist, inmate volunteers were injected with live, human cancer cells in the period between 1956 and 1959.

"It was found that even though the cancer grew in the arms for a certain period of time, in every case the cancer completely disappeared," James said.

He said the inmates may have developed a resistance to cancer.

"The crux of this project is what percentage of the 120 developed or will develop cancer. If it is a low per cent, then it might tell us a way to prevent cancer," he said.

If a specific virus can be isolated in cancer, then it should be possible to make a vaccine against the virus, similar to vaccines against measles, mumps and polio, he added.

Different strains of cancer were injected consecutively into the arms of the inmates, he explained.

"The second time they were injected, the cancer did not grow as big as the first and disappeared more quickly. That indicated there was a cross-protection from the different cancer cells."

James said he lost contact with the 120 men because neither the researchers nor state prison officials have kept current addresses.

The men have either been paroled or served their sentences and begun new lives around the country, he said.

James said the volunteers were not paid. "They wanted to do it because they thought they were doing it for humanity, and some had experienced cancer in their families."

Brando spurns Oscar; Liza accepts hers

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Marlon Brando has turned down the Academy Award for best actor of 1972, sending an Indian girl to make the refusal because he thinks the film industry does not treat the American Indian properly.

Brando was selected for his portrayal of the gangland boss in "The Godfather," which was named best film of the year by the Motion Picture Academy in ceremonies Tuesday night at the Los Angeles Music Center.

Liza Minnelli, the nightclub singer of "Cabaret," was picked as best actress. The musical is set in Germany.

Sacheen Littlefeather said Brando had sent her to "regretfully" refuse the award. The announcement was greeted by boos, then by scattered applause as she said the refusal was because of treatment of American Indians by the film industry and by television in movie reruns and because of recent happenings at Wounded Knee, S.D. Militant Indians have held the historic village for 29 days.

Miss Minnelli, daughter of the late entertainer Judy Garland, gratefully accepted her award after Brando's refusal of his.

"Thank you very much for this award. You have made me very happy," she said.

This was the second time in two years that an Oscar for best actor was turned down. George C. Scott said in advance in 1971 he would not accept if he won for his performance in "Patton." He won and the golden statuette is still unclaimed.

Brando won an Academy Award in 1954 for "On the Waterfront," and appeared personally to accept the Oscar. He has been nominated six times for best actor.

Miss Littlefeather, who said she represented the Native Americans Affirmative Image Committee, said backstage that Brando "would have been here in person but thought he could be more helpful at Wounded Knee." She declined to answer any questions about whether Brando had

Trains roll after wreck

Tracks have been cleared and repairs nearly completed at the Millikan Avenue crossing of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad where a freight train slammed into the rear of three stationary box cars Tuesday afternoon, injuring three trainmen, and causing an estimated $61,000 damage.

Crews from the local station worked until after 3 a.m. Wednesday to clear the wreckage and be in repairs on the badly damaged tracks. An emergency railroad service company, called in from Frankfort, Ky., used two large bulldozers to set the two locomotives and the cars back on the tracks.

The second locomotive of the 50-car freight train was in running condition and was used to push the damaged diesel engine from the crash area after they were set back on the tracks. Six of the cars following the two locomotives also had to be set back on the tracks before they were moved from the scene.

Workmen said the tracks were usable at the present time but further repairs, including laying new ties and straightening rails, are continuing.

BOB BARNHART, Washington C. H. station manager, said no local trains were delayed or rerouted because of the crash. One of the boxcars knocked off the tracks temporarily blocked the parallel DT&I tracks but was removed by a bulldozer Tuesday night and did not create delays.

Barnhart said the B&O train, southbound No. 94 (Dayton to Chillicothe) was supposed to stop and switch to a side track but had apparently failed to do so.

The actual crash occurred at 2:10 p.m. when the freight train plowed into three cars, one loaded with building materials, parked on the main tracks just north of the Millikan Avenue crossing. City police who made a routine investigation of the accident, said the point of impact was about 250 feet north of the crossing.

All three cars were knocked off the tracks and overturned. The through train continued on and finally came to a stop about halfway over the crossing. Debris and engine parts were scattered the length of the track.

ONE MILLWOOD AVENUE resident reported she had seen the train approaching the crossing "pretty fast" and then heard the crash. She said when she looked out her window all she could see was dust. Other residents in the area heard the noise but no one apparently witnessed the actual crash.

The three trainmen aboard No. 94 at the time of the crash, conductor Harvey C. Fairchild, 56, Miamisburg, Glen W. Huntley, 27, Dayton, fireman, and H. "Doggie" May, of Wellston, engineer, all suffered minor injuries. Fairchild and Huntley were both treated at Memorial Hospital and later released.

According to police, Fairchild said the air brakes on the train had failed as an attempt was made to stop. The other two refused to make a statement to officers.

First wreck for veteran train rider

'PIGEON' WILLIAMSON
In his Pullman Car

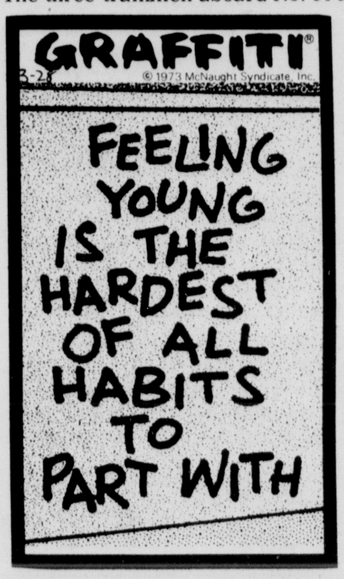

"I didn't have time to be scared," said Marcus "Pigeon" Williamson, a "passenger" on a hopper car in the Baltimore and Ohio freight train that crashed into three stationary cars at the Millikan Avenue crossing Tuesday afternoon.

Williamson, a familiar face to railroadmen in the area, was riding the sixth car behind the second locomotive when the crash occurred. "I guess if you're going to be scared of a train wreck, then you don't have any business riding a train," he commented.

"I heard a loud noise and felt a jolt when the train hit the cars, but it didn't feel that bad," Williamson said. 'I've been riding trains for a long time but this is the first wreck I was ever in."

Williamson, who lives near Jamestown, said he makes it a normal practice to hitch a ride on the freight. "I was on my way to Leesburg to pick up some pigeons. The train goes on to Chillicothe, but I was going to get off here."

Will he continue to hop trains? He probably will. "People get killed all the time in cars, but I'm still here," he smiled. "Besides, I don't even know how to drive a car."

Indian talks being held in 2 places

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (AP) — Hopes for a peaceful settlement of the seige of Wounded Knee hinged today on two negotiating sessions 150 miles apart.

Kent Frizzell, assistant U.S. attorney general, said Tuesday he would meet today with representatives of two separate groups of Indians from Wounded Knee in an effort to negotiate an end to the 29-day-old occupation.

Eckhart appointment faces uncertain vote

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Gov. John Gilligan's appointment of Henry Eckhart as chairman of the Public Utilities Commission headed to an uncertain vote in the Senate today.

The action tended to overshadow a House vote on the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which many legislators contend means nothing in light of recent court decisions assuring women equal treatment.

The Senate Ways and Means Committee, by a 5-to-2 vote, Tuesday voted to reject the appointment of Eckhart. The Rules Committee immediately scheduled a full Senate confirmation vote for today.

Eckhart was two years into his term when he resigned and Gilligan reappointed him to a new six-year term, enabling him to receive a $2,288-a-year pay increase.

Eckhart barely escaped when he appeared before the Senate on his first appointment. The Senate failed to act on his confirmation, letting it become automatic when that session (the 109th) ajourned.

A vote against confirmation, however, would put him out of the $25,168-a-year job. Republicans control the Senate 17-16, with 17 votes needed for confirmation.

There were reports late Tuesday that a couple of Democrats would vote against confirmation. Similar reports indicated that as many Republicans might vote for it.

"I don't know," said Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, chairman of Ways and Means. "We'll know tomorrow."

Gilligan's aides were busy during the afternoon "twisting arms"—as one Democrat put it—to line up support for Eckhart.

Some Democrats, as well as most Republicans, thought Gilligan made a bad political decision in permitting Eckhart to resign in order to get the pay raise and an additional two years.

"It could be though," said one Democratic senator, "that Gilligan doesn't want him anymore. This would be a sure way of getting rid of him."

Maloney referred to the resignation and reappointment as a "political manipulation that does not contribute to increased confidence of the people in their government, and reflects very bad judgement at a time when PUCO

Deaths, Funerals

Mrs. Goldie B. Stuckey

LONDON — Services will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. in the Rader Funeral Home for Mrs. Goldie B. Stuckey, 82, who died unexpectedly Monday morning in her residence on Ohio 56 north of here. The Rev. Forrest Plum and the Rev. Robert Carlson will officiate.

Born in West Virginia, she had spent most of her life in Madison County, and was the widow of Orlando M. Stuckey.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Robert (Jenny Ruth) Stewart, of London; three sons, Richard, of Stoutsville, Elwood, Rt. 5, and Kermit, West Liberty; 10 grandchildren; 2 brothers, Morgan McClaskie, Jeffersonville, and Fred McClaskie, Rt. 1; and a sister, Mrs. Effie Ball, of London.

Burial will be in Lafayette Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home anytime Wednesday evening.

HUGHEY VANCE — Services for Hughey Vance, 67, of Palmer Rd., were held at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home here with the Rev. Ed Sanderson, pastor of the Sugar Creek Baptist Church, officiating. Mr. Vance, a lifelong resident of Fayette County and a retired employe of Midland Grocery Co., died Saturday.

Pallbearers for the burial in Sugar Creek Baptist Cemetery were Gene Mustain, Hayward Johnson, Herman Rodgers, Dwight Martin, Robert Goodson and Gene Donohoe.

MRS. FLORENCE GEIGER — Services for Mrs. Florence Ellis Geiger, 86, of Troy, Mich., were held at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home with the Rev. Cloyce Copley, a retired Methodist minister, officiating. Mrs. Geiger, a native of Fayette County and the widow of Lester Geiger, died Saturday.

EUGENE LANE — Services for Eugene Lane, 69, of Jeffersonville, were held at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Morrow Funeral Home there, with the Rev. Clyde Howell and the Rev. Max Howell officiating. Mr. Lane, a World War II veteran, died in the VA Hospital, Chillicothe, Saturday.

Pallbearers for the burial in Fairview Cemetery were Myron Tyree, Harry M. Tyree, James Smith Sr., Russell and Ted Harris and Gilbert Jones.

MRS. EUNICE SCHWEITZER — Services for Mrs. Eunice Schweitzer, 78, of 29 N. Main St., Jeffersonville, were held at 1 p.m. Saturday in the Morrow Funeral Home there with the Rev. Charles W. Hill, pastor of the Jeffersonville United Methodist Church, officiating. Mr. Schweitzer, the widow of William Schweitzer, died last Wedneseay.

Pallbearers for committal services held Monday in Park Cemetery, Marquette, Mich., were Frank Hoard, Leo Beaduary, Jack McCracken, Leo Brandt, William Burr and William Fetterfoff.

EDWIN BRAMBLETT — Services for Edwin Bramblett, 56, of 732 Yeoman St., were held at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the Ferguson Funeral Home, Van Buren, Ind., with the Rev. Elmer E. Burrall, pastor of the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church here, officiating. Mr. Bramblett died Thursday in Mount Carmel Hospital, Columbus.

Pallbearers for the burial in the Masonic Cemetery in Van Buren were six nephews, Merle and Jerry Bramblett, Ernest, John and Clarence Schamber and Freddy Stuttle. The flag which draped the casket of the World War II veteran was folded by Charles Mallow and Talmadge Taylor of Post 25, American Legion, here and was presented to Mrs. Bramblett. Local arrangements for the services were made by the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home here.

MASONS FOR 65 YEARS — Fred Conner, left, and Glenn H. Brock, center, were presented 65-year pins at the annual past masters night at the Jeffersonville F&AM Lodge 468 Tuesday night by Royce L. Pauley, eighth district deputy grand master, before a gathering of more than 30 Masons and guests. The third degree was exemplified by past masters of the lodge, with David C. Morrow and Russell Hall filling the worshipful masters' chairs. Past Master Lester Allen headed the committee for the cornbread and beans dinner in the Temple dining room.

Legislation, finances sought by regional planning group

The eight-county Central Ohio Regional Planning Study Committee, meeting in Columbus Tuesday night, prepared a letter notifying the governor of the committee's work and asking for enabling legislation making the planning group a legal entity.

The letter also requests the governor to establish regional planning by executive order, and asks that all other agencies coordinate their activities with the committee.

Four proposals for distributing the voting strength among the eight counties were filed for future consideration. All four proposals would give Fayette County six to eight per cent of the vote, with Franklin County receiving between 41 and 45 per cent.

The committee also discussed financing the planning agency through assessments based on population. The authority to assess the counties would be part of the enabling legislation.

Representing Fayette County at the meeting were Carl Janes, J. Herbert Perrill and the Rev. Elmer Burrall, chairman of the eight-county panel.

McCord answers questions on Watergate involvement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Convicted Watergate conspirator James W. McCord Jr. agreed to answer questions under oath today at a closed-door interview with a special Senate investigation committee.

The interview, arranged by the committee late Tuesday, is preliminary to later public hearings on the bugging of Democratic headquarters in the Watergate complex here and other alleged political espionage and sabotage in last year's presidential campaign.

E. Howard Hunt Jr., another of those awaiting sentencing for the Watergate break-in and bugging, was to return again before a federal grand jury today.

Hunt, one of five who pleaded guilty at the start of the Watergate trial last January, spent more than an hour before the grand jury Tuesday. His return indicated he was answering questions, unlike G. Gordon Liddy, another convicted defendant, who refused Monday to answer questions on grounds of possible self-incrimination.

Meanwhile, two key Republican senators urged President Nixon to let White House Counsel John W. Dean III testify before the Watergate panel.

"It's in the best interest of the White House that the whole thing be bared and cleaned up," Sen. John Tower of Texas, chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, told newsmen.

And Sen. Norris Cotton of New Hampshire, head of the Senate Republican Conference, said experience has taught him that it is bad policy to prolong and drag out "some kind of mystery or scandal."

Published reports say McCord told lawyers for the Watergate committee that Dean and former White House aide Jeb Stuart Magruder had prior knowledge of the Watergate wiretapping. The White House and Magruder issued statements of denial.

Nixon has adopted a policy of refusing to allow aides to testify before Congress, citing executive privilege.

Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said Tuesday that a request by two House members to have Dean testify in connection with hearings on executive privilege is being studied. Reps. William S. Moorhead, D-Pa., and John N. Erlenborn, R-Ill., promised that Dean would not be questioned about the Watergate or on anything that would infringe on his confidential relationship with Nixon.

Five persons have pleaded guilty and two—Liddy and McCord—have been found guilty of conspiracy and wiretapping in connection with the Democratic headquarters break-in. Liddy was sentenced to up to 20 years in prison, but Judge John J. Sirica delayed final sentencing of the others while urging them to cooperate in the continuing investigations.

Stolen truck recovered

Sheriff's deputies apprehended the driver of stolen truck Tuesday afternoon but later released him when the truck's owner refused to press charges.

Officers said Charles E. Davis, of 113 E. Paint, had reported his 1952 model pickup truck stolen from the Agrico parking lot, Robinson Rd. just before 1 p.m. Davis said the truck was taken sometime after 8 a.m.

About an hour later Sheriff's Sgt. William Crooks spotted the truck and stopped it at the intersection of Hinde and Temple Streets. The driver of the truck, also an Agrico employe, was taken into custody but later released when Davis failed to file charges.

A 32-foot extension ladder belonging to Sever-Williams Construction Co., was stolen from the Sugar Grove Church, Ohio 41-S, sometime over the weekend. The firm, doing construction work at the church, set the loss at $87.

The coin box on a pay telephone at the Herefordshire Motel, CCC Highway-W, was pried open sometime overnight Monday. Loss of a small amount of change and damage to the phone was set at $46.

"Cabaret" collected eight Oscars, including one for Joel Grey as best supporting actor as the music hall's master of ceremonies.

Bob Fosse, "Cabaret" director, won the best director Oscar. It was his third major award in three days. On Sunday night he had won two Tony awards—Broadway's equivalent of the Oscar—as director and choreographer of the musical "Pippin."

"The Godfather" won three Oscars—for Brando, best film and for best adapted screenplay. The film had been heavily favored to sweep the awards.

Eileen Heckart was named best supporting actress for her role as the possessive mother of a young blind man in "Butterflies Are Free."

"The Morning After," from "The Poseidon Adventure," was selected as best song of the year.

Luis Bunuel's "The Discreet Charm of the Bourgeoisie" was named best foreign language film.

In floor action Tuesday, the Senate passed 28-5 a bill requiring statewide voter registration, now mandatory in 56 counties. Twenty-six counties have no registration and six have only partial.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, said lack of registration in those areas was a carryover from a society where polling place workers were acquainted with all the voters.

Sen. Robert Secrest, D-20 Cambridge, one of those who opposed the bill, said he objected to a provision requiring counties to pay registration costs when it was not needed.

The House approved, 86-0, a bill that would make it illegal to alter the height of auto bumpers more than three inches from the manufacturers' heights.

Rep. James P. Celebrezze, D-4 Cleveland, said the way hotrodders jack up the rear of their autos changes the vehicle's center of gravity and makes them difficult to control.

The bill now goes to the Senate.

The House also passed, 84-1, and sent to the Senate a bill allowing minors to work 10 hours on a day preceding a holiday.

Sen. Ronald M. Mottl, D-24 Parma, introduced a proposed constitutional amendment that would authorize use of higher user taxes for mass transit.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Rain for parts of Ohio is in the forecast for Thursday night following a day of considerable sunshine in the northern counties, the National Weather Service reported today.

Skies remained clear over most of the state Tuesday night and early Wednesday, and around dawn some clouds moved into the extreme southern part of the state. This will spread over most of Ohio during the day although many of the northern counties will have a period of sunshine.

Temperatures during the night were rather chilly and lowered into the 30s and 40s.

A storm in the far southwest moving northwestward and into the Upper Great Lakes on Thursday, will spread some rain into the western Ohio counties later Wednesday and over the remainder of the state tonight. Temperatures this afternoon will climb into the 50s and 60s. Night time readings will be mainly in the 40s.

A chance of showers will prevail on Thursday with continued mild temperatures—in the 50s and 60s over the state.

The weather picture for the next couple of days looks unsettled with occasional periods of rain and continued mild temperatures.

Rain Friday and Saturday, ending Sunday. Highs in the 50s and 60s. Lows from the mid 30s to the mid 40s.

Thais hijack bus

BANGKOK, Thailand, (AP) — A group of armed Thais hijacked a bus and 30 passengers in northeast Thailand today, forced it to drive to Bangkok airport and demanded a plane to fly them to Peking.

Military sources said about "five or six Thais armed with at least one hand grenade and a pistol" were holding the passengers hostage in the bus at the airport.

Stock list levels off

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices began the day sharply upward but by noon leveled off in fairly active trading as profit-takers moved in after a steady price climb that began Monday.

Analysts and brokers were predicting that the rally, which they attributed to unwarranted sharp declines last week, would continue.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 3.76 to 941.15, compared with the 10:30 a.m. figure, which was up 5.35 to 950.26. Tuesday's close was up 17.01 to 944.91, the highest single day gain since Nov. 26, 1971. Advancing stocks held a slim margin over gains on the Big Board, 635 to 574.

Talcott National, up 3 to 17⅜, was the Big Board's most-active stock for the second day.

The NYSE's broad-based index of some 1,400 common stocks was down .23 to 59.30.

U.S. faces trade deficit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. is facing its second consecutive year-end trade deficit, but a Treasury Department official sees signs of improvement ahead.

Paul Volcker, undersecretary for monetary affairs, said Tuesday that the value of exports rose 14 per cent over the past four months, while imports increased 12 per cent. This, Volcker said, points to improvement in the trade picture, despite trade deficits for the months of January and February.

were conducting an investigation into the cause of the crash.

The damaged locomotive was pushed to a side track between the Court and Water street crossings, and the rest of the cars were pulled away by a yard engine Wednesday after the tracks had been sufficiently repaired.

The three cars knocked off the tracks were set upright and placed on a side track at the crash site. The load of building materials lying in the railroad right of way has yet to be salvaged.

Organist, old-time film captivate audience

The audience at Washington Junior High School was not as large as had been hoped for, but what it lacked in size was compensated for with the enthusiastic response to the performance Tuesday night by Lee Erwin, an accomplished organist from New York, and the showing of the old classic horror movie, "Phantom of the Opera," starring Lon Chaney.

But the sponsors could take some consolation from the increase in the audience from 254 last Thursday night to 410 Tuesday night.

While the children in the audience — and there were many — screamed with delight and terror during the showing of "Phantom of the Opera," it was Erwin's rendition of "Moon River" which captivated the audience. The stage lighting simulated clouds and twinkling stars. It was the work of four high school boys, John Hopkins, Dennis Breitigan, Mike Hughes and Tim O'Flynn. Sound effects were by Scott Lanum.

Erwin was the organist for Arthur Godfrey for 25 years and for "Moon River" for many years over WLW radio.

The Miami Trace Folk Singers — the girls in pastel formal dresses and boys in gray blazers — sang three numbers of the "Moon River" sequences, with Erwin accompanying on the pipe organ and Miss Paula Alkire and Mrs. Ralph Yerian at pianos. The three songs were: "The Most Beautiful Girl in the World," "Close to You" and "Today."

THE CHILDREN in the audience, from the Belle Aire, sunnyside and Cherry Hill schools, were impressed by a special portion of the program marking the 50th anniversary of Walt Disney with the organ numbers "Hi Ho" and "When You Wish Upon a Star."

In the audience were about a dozen senior citizens, guests of the First National and Washington Savings banks and the First Federal Savings and Loan Association. Boys and girls from the Children's Home were also guests.

Members of the Junior Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps, in full uniform, served as ushers and stewards at the door.

Don Riber, who was largely responsible for bringing Erwin here from New York, Organist Gaylord Carter from California, the Cincinnati Symphony and Cincinnati Ballet here for performances, said of Tuesday night's entertainment: "Mr. Erwin gave a delightful performance with the artistry that has made him a legend in the field of popular music." Referring to the small turnout, he said, "I wonder where all the people are who complain about X-rated movies."

The proceeds from the programs will be used for the improvement and refurbishing of the pipe organ in the Junior High School as part of the Organ Club's restoration project including a new console.

Opinion And Comment

To safeguard Spaceship Earth

Can it truly be said of mankind that "we are in the grip of a collective insanity that causes us to smash at the conditions that make life possible"? This disquieting assessment is advanced by Norman Cousins, whose record as a perceptive observer of human foibles lends substantial weight to his opinion.

Cousins' thesis is that we are doing our environment grave harm, and that we had better quit being so destructive and "create the mechanisms for managing the affairs of our planet." We had better do this, as he sees it, "if the human race is to continue in a reasonably civilized condition."

The good sense of this is scarcely open to dispute. Over the past few years the American public has been made painfully aware that something is amiss in paradise. In response to widespread apprehension about our deteriorating environment, Congress has been struggling to produce legislative remedies. Also, there is a growing perception that as fellow passengers aboard what Buckminster Fuller calls Spaceship Earth we must join forces internationally to deal with such problems on a global basis.

Cousins seems to be proposing, if not precisely world government, at least a world organization with power to act in such matters. It is a solution that may be anathema to many of us. The fact is that a start has been made, with many nations beginning to collaborate on regulation of such things as dumping at sea.

Perhaps nothing more will be required than a series of firm agreements along this line, with individual nations committed to participating and subject to penalty for non-compliance. But a close eye should be kept on what is done.

If such remedies prove inadequate, more vigorous steps must be taken to preserve our global environment.

THESE DAYS. . .by John Chamberlain

Spreading the property base

John McClaughry, who once tried to outline a program for Senator Charles Percy that would promote home ownership in rebuilt ghetto areas, is a man who won't be pushed out of sight. Frustrated in Washington by the continuing drift to socialism, he took himself to Vermont, thinking thereby to get back among people who believed in self-sufficient individuals. (Not all Vermonters do, but that is another story.)

As a State Representative from 1968 to 1972, he preached his gospel at the small community grassroots. Meanwhile he kept his lines open to Washington, working, with White House encouragement, on an Expanded Ownership Report for the Sabre Foundation. The idea was to present a tissue of ideas to Presidential Assistant John D. Ehrlichman that would help the Nixon Administration spread a genuine property base in this country.

Some of the Sabre Report recommendations involve too much dependence on complicated legislation for my libertarian taste. After all, the easiest and simplest way to spread the property base would be to let people keep more of their own money. But there seems to be no way of lowering taxes, or going over to Milton Friedman's recommendation of a flat-rate, income-tax system, that would still satisfy the myriad hoggish pressure groups in our democracy, so maybe Mr. McClaughry's compensatory intricacies are the best we can hope to get.

MR. McCLAUGHRY is not interested in helping the big corporations to grow bigger in concentrated hands. But he is no enemy of the sort of capital formation that we need to run modern industry. He has a plan for creating government-sponsored intermediary institutions that would provide equity investments for low and middle-income families. He would allow a more favorable tax treatment of profit-sharing trusts. He would completely revise the principle of gift and estate taxation, basing the government's take not on the size of the donor's or the deceased's net worth but on the size of the individual bequests and the net worth of the recipient. He would give all sorts of breaks to home owners, particularly in the lower income brackets. He would require pension plans to provide for "greater vesting and portability." And, to get the whole thing rolling, he would have Nixon call a White House Conference on Expanded Ownership, to be timed with preliminary preparations for our upcoming bicentennial as a nation in 1976.

Mr. McClaughry's program involves making the Internal Revenue Service an even more intimate part of our national life than it now is, which is hardly consonant with the idea that people should be encouraged to take care of themselves. But we have always been a paradoxical nation. The Pre-emption and Homestead Acts of the Nineteenth Century, the Federal Farm Loan Act of 1916, the Home Owners Loan Corp., the National Housing Act, the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, the Small Business Act of 1953, and the tax deductibility of home mortgage income payments are well-known historic examples of government efforts to make people independent of government. We are in the habit of living with such contradictions, and it is perhaps too much to hope that we will change.

I COULD WISH, however, that Mr. McClaughry had reached over the heads of the politicians in his crusade for expanding the private property base. After all, a number of companies have instituted good profit-sharing plans without waiting for the Internal Revenue Service to stick tax-remission carrots under their noses. Some of these companies are among our best profit-makers. Other companies have pension plans that don't cheat those who see fit at some point to change their jobs. In the 1930s I wrote extensively on such property-expanding concepts as the Borsodi Plan for cutting the costs of real estate subdivision. The consumers' cooperative idea is an old 19th century story.

Individuals don't actually need the help of government to the extent that Mr. McClaughry proposes. But since most of them think they do, the McClaughry program will have to suffice until our present climate of opinion changes. It would be nice to think this could happen before our bicentennial year, but it probably will not.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

A suggestion for Congress

In all the stir about the Pentagon Papers, with the continuing argument over their significance which has brought an array of expert — and some not so expert — witnesses to the Ellsberg trial, one tends to think of the Vietnamese War as a private Administration venture.

To put it another way, the documents came from within the Executive branch and reflect various bureaucratic positions. Reading them, one would think that Congress was out of session from roughly 1964 to 1969.

Given the unpopularity of the war as American casualties increased, this represents to the average senator or representative a splendid arrangement. A sneaky President managed to mount a war that eventually had more than 500,000 American troops in Southeast Asia while Congress was looking the other way.

One stumbling block is the Tonkin Gulf Resolution, but the response on that has now become standardized: it was a sudden trick played on an overtrusting legislature.

WELL, THE TIME has come to blow the whistle on this convenient retroactive amnesia. Since it is generally agreed that the Pentagon Papers were over-classified and that the material they contain should — in the interest or freedom of information — be available to the American people, I submit that the moment has arrived to declassify and release to the public and to interested scholars the full texts of the executive hearings held by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in 1964-66.

An executive hearing is closed to the public and has customarily been employed by Senate and House committees when dealing with sensitive security or foreign policy issues. Occasionally — as was done with the executive hearing on the Tonkin Gulf Resolution — a "sanitized" version is released after careful censorship. But such hearings are mostly locked in the committee's safes where — unless another Ellsberg surfaces — they are likely to remain indefinitely.

From 1964 onward there were a number of executive sessions of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. At these meetings Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Ambassador Maxwell Taylor, Assistant Secretary William Bundy, and others death with the senators on a completely frank basis about the bad news from Southeast Asia.

These were, as a number of participants have confirmed, anything but seminars. The senators bored in with hard questions and I have every reason to believe that they got straight answers.

NOTE I AM not saying they got "right" answers. We know a great deal more about Vietnam now than we did in 1964-65, and an honest answer in 1964 may prove in the light of history to have been a gross miscalculation. What I am saying is that the key figures in the Johnson Administration leveled with the senators on the basis of what they knew and believed at the time.

Maybe I am wrong and the record of these closed hearings (of which there must have been more than a dozen) will prove that the Administration did deliberately cozen the Congress. Or perhaps I am right and the record will indicate that, far from keeping key senators in the dark, the latter was furnished with full information and the best estimates of future options then available.

It would also be interesting to read the exchanges between the senators and the witnesses to get a sense of the historical environment of the era.

In any event, the full texts are in the safes of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and there can be no conceivable motive for concealing them from the public.

Let's break them out and discover whether Congress was in session when the crucial decisions on Vietnam were made.

"ALL THIS FUSS FOR A MEATLESS DINNER!"

Hal Boyle . . . Suburbia . . . women's world

By JAMES F. DONOHUE
Associated Press Writer

SCITUATE, Mass. (AP) — A man who works at night and is free to roam suburbia during the day learns quickly that it's a woman's world.

Driving into any small suburban town at 11 a.m. on a weekday he realizes with a little tick of terror that he's alone and awash in a sea of mothers driving station wagons.

All the men are away in the city or in town, tending to their chores. There are some things more dangerous than a preoccupied matron in a station wagon, but they are few.

Even if the suburban night worker stays home in the daylight hours, the telephone is there to remind him of the all-engulfing presence of woman.

It rings. His wife is somewhere in the basement doing laundry or casting spells. He panics, but he has no escape. He answers it.

"Hello," he says.

The worst thing a suburban man can do at 11 a.m. is answer his own telephone. He precipitates a social crisis. He can feel through the receiver the confusion he's caused for the caller, a woman, of course.

"Ah-ooo-er, ah," says the caller. "Is Mrs. Suburbia there?"

"Yes, but she's in the basement in communication with Satan. Maybe I can help you."

"Ah-ooo-er, ah. No. I'd better speak to Mrs. Suburbia."

"I see. All right. Can I tell her who's calling?"

"Ah-ooo-er, ah, this is Mrs. Eek from Central School. I want to talk to her about Cathy, ah-ooo-er, ah, her daughter."

"Maybe I can help," says Suburbia. "I'm Mr. Suburbia."

"Oh?"

"Cath's father."

Suburbia wonders, "Now who did this woman think I was. The milkman? The mailman? Something worse?"

The poor woman is conditioned like a machine to expect a woman on a home telephone at 11 a.m. She just cannot cope with a man.

There are other problems. Store clerks, even men, look at Suburbia at 11 a.m. as if he is out of place at best, or casing the joint.

It's 10 a.m. for everybody else. The day is in full cry, full of alarms, challenges and joys. But it is dawn for Suburbia.

Strange children, over to play, invade his bedroom without shame.

True, there are great advantages to a night schedule. No traffic, no parking problems, the daylight to enjoy oneself.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Pollution fighters along the nation's shores have discovered a new underwater sport — diving for litter.

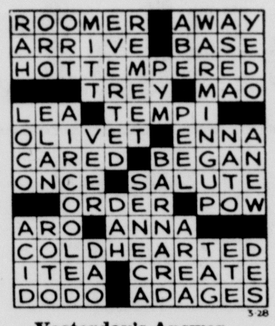

Keep America Beautiful Inc., the national environmental improvement organization, reports that diving clubs in California's San Diego County are enthusiastic participants in a broad-based program to clean up the area's many harbors, bays and beaches.

Thanks in part to the divers, KAB points out, tons of debris have been fished out and many underwater hazards have been eliminated.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: THE GENERATION GAP IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN A UKELELE AND AN ELECTRIC GUITAR.—MITZI GAYNOR

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Will wife's belly dancing perk up tired husband?

DEAR ABBY: I went to my minister because I have been having marital problems with my husband. It had to do with lovemaking. (He wasn't doing any.) I'm 28, and he's 29.

The minister said he really didn't know all that much about the subject, but he sugeted that I take some lessons in belly dancing so I could entertain my husband and maybe that would perk him up a little.

Do you know of any place in Asheville, N.C. that teaches belly dancing?

WILLING TO LEARN

DEAR WILLING: Not off-hand, but look up dance studios in your Yellow Pages, and inquire. (P.S. Ask the minister where HE got the idea.)

DEAR ABBY: If you have ever had this problem in your column, I must have missed it. It is one that several of us share.

We have a dear friend who talks too much. She is bright, attractive, and has many fine qualities, but her endless, detailed monologs are boring and exhausting.

Her husband is intelligent and articulate, but he doesn't get a chance to open his mouth because his wife always has the floor. If someone else is talking, she interrupts and proceeds to dominate the conversation.

She has always been a talker, but lately it's gotten to the point where our husbands don't care to spend an evening listening to her.

If you or any of your readers know how to reach a person with this fault, please tell us. Thank you, and please don't use my name.

NAME WITHHELD

DEAR NAME: The only effective way to reach a non-stop talker is via the direct route. One of her best friends should tell her privately, gently but emphatically that she really should not talk so much, and give others a chance. And since you're the friend who wrote the letter, perhaps you are the one to tell her. It would be an act of kindness.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you because all the etiquette books dodge this question. Is it proper to tip the owner of a barbershop or beauty parlor? I understand if you do, some owners are insulted.

I go regularly to a barbershop, where I tip the employe. However, from time to time, the owner of the shop cuts my hair himself. I know him personally, and know that he makes a good living from the shop, so I never tip him.

My wife tells me that she runs up against the same situation in her beauty shop where the owners sometimes do the work.

What is the corect procedure if ther is one?

PUZZLED IN PHOENIX

DEAR PUZZLED: Offer. If the owner is insulted, he will let you know it, in which case don't "insult" him again.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "C" IN FORT COLLINS, COLO.: Sometimes the easiest way "around" something is though it. So quit looking for angels and DO it!

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, March 28, the 87th day of 1973. There are 278 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1939, the Spanish Civil War ended as Madrid fell to the forces of Francisco Franco.

On this date—

In 1483, the Italian painter Raphael was born in Urbino.

In 1660, King George I of England was born.

In 1930, the name of the Turkish city of Constantinople was changed to Istanbul.

In 1942, during World War II, British naval forces raided the Nazi-occupied French port of St. Nazaire and blew up the harbor installations

In 1971, West Pakistani troops put down an uprising in East Pakistan's capital of Dacca.

Ten years ago: The United States and the Soviet Union were holding informal talks in Washington on the Berlin question. Five years ago: There were clashes between the National Guard in Panama and civilian demonstrators during a government crisis.

One year ago: In Northern Ireland, thousands of Protestants marched on the Parliament in Belfast protesting British rule.

Thought for Today: The heart is never neutral — Earl of Shaftesbury, English statesman, 1621-1683.

Primitive man is believed to have had about two milligrams of lead in his bones. Because of polluted air, modern man is estimated to carry from 100 to 200 millograms in his bones or one-third of the amount some doctor's consider a dangerous level.

Electronic warning for coal miners now

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — To detect perilous conditions and prevent mine disaster, West Virginia University has installed what is believed to be the world's first electronic monitor system for a coal mine.

Technicians have installed sensors at strategic locations in a mine operated by Eastern Associated Coal Corp. near Morgantown. The sensors are connected through data relay stations to the university's engineering sciences building, where a computer analyzes the sensors' findings and signals any danger.

Ohio Perspective

Too much government, party feels

By NEIL BIBLER
Associated Press Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — The average person doesn't go around violating other peoples' rights, said Kay Harroff, chairman of Ohio's Libertarian Party, but governments do it all the time.

That's why, she said, if she could do any one thing she wanted, she would "abolish the federal government."

And getting rid "of as much government as possible," she said is her party's aim.

"Any law which uses force to violate rights — that law's wrong, it's immoral," she said. "All tax laws we oppose."

But a law that "protects rights — laws against trespass, libel, any laws protecting property, that we favor.

"No one has the right to one minute of our lives or one penny of our incomes," she said adding that government lacks them because "you cannot delegate a nonexistant right." The 42-year-old Cleveland businesswoman heads a party with "very active" groups in Cincinnati and Dayton and "not so active" ones in Columbus and Toledo. In keeping with party concepts, local groups are "free to operate pretty much autonomously," she said.

Active in politics for years — she worked in Barry Goldwater's presidential campaign in 1960, for instance, she finds her chairmanship "a very heady thing, being able to take positions without having to check with somebody."

The party wants to run candidates for governor or senator but may have trouble gaining official recognition, she said "Ohio has very heavy election requirements for minority parties."

Elimination of compulsory education laws and "of the tax that goes to support that state monopoly" are likely to be the party's main Ohio issues, she said. She also wants to erase "victimless crime" laws such as those dealing with gambling or with sexual relations between consenting adults.

She also would like to get rid of state licensing of professional people.

Principles, not personalities, interest libertarians, she said. "It's our ideas that are important." And she said it was easier to work with intellectuals than to popularize the principles.

But "people are very basically Libertarians," she said. "If you have no right to walk into your neighbor's house with a gun and take his money to support education, why should you think the state should do it with taxes?"

$1 billion estimated

NEW YORK (AP) — American industry will spend $1 billion on pollution abatement in 1973, according to estimates of he research and management consulting firm of Arthur D. Little Inc. Total expenditures for capital goods b/ U. S. business should total $10 billion during the coming year, the firm said.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — They've been holding sort of an electronic bazaar here this week. It's called the 51st annual convention of the National Association of Broadcasters and it is an amazing scene.

There are scores of hospitality suites and information booths in the convention's two main hotels—the Shoreham and the Sheraton Park—and program vendors are hawking their wares at a furious pace.

New technical developments are being exposed, with engineering salesmen pitching such items as an "FM excitor 2202A," a "digital antenna monitor" and a "drop-out compensator."

There also are hundreds of broadcast executives wandering about, braving hard-sell campaigns with a wan smile while expressing hopes the next elevator shows up before the convention ends.

Almost unnoticed in all this when the convention began Monday morning was a broadcast workshop session called "Woman Power: Use It or Lose It."

It was run by a group called American Women in Radio & Television (AWRT). Monday's session marked the first time AWRT ever had been part of the regular NAB convention schedule.

The 22-year-old organization claims a national membership of 2,800 women in broadcasting and advertising, according to Rose Blyth Kemp, AWRT's president, and vice president of a small Los Angeles college that specializes in broadcast education.

The three AWRT panelists, one of them Miss Kemp, downplayed the negative, accentuated the positive and essentially said sex discrimination in broadcasting is slowly on the way out. As a result they were accused of "smugness" by a woman in the audience of both men and women.

Except for that moment, there was little rancor or bitterness in the proceedings. And there was a pretty interesting claim made by one panelist and two male station managers in the audience.

They said that while small radio stations offer a wide world of opportunities to women, few young women try to gain experience with them before moving on to big-time broadcasting.

"They head mostly to big metropolitan areas to find jobs, rather than out to the small stations that could give them some experience in every phase of the business," the panelist, Mrs. Virginia Pate Wetter, said in an interview.

Wedding in Indiana is announced here

Miss Marcia McGuire, daughter of Mrs. Donald L. Callender, of Gary, Ind., formerly of Wilmington, and Willis H. Glaros, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis N. Glaros, of Munster, Ind., were united in Marriage in the First Methodist Church in Griffith, Ind., Saturday at 4:30 p.m. The Rev. Clarence C. Collins performed the double ring ceremony in which two matching gold and white two-tone rings were used.

Miss McGuire is the granddaughter of Mrs. Robert Osborne and the niece of Mrs. Homer McCoy and Miss Marian Osborn, all of Washington C. H., who were present for the wedding.

The bride's father was the late Mr. George P. McGuire, of Hillsboro. Her stepfather, Mr. Callender, gave her in marriage.

Two large bouquets of yellow gladioli and white mums stood in front of the altar which was adorned with two smaller bouquets of the flowers. White satin bows on the pews lined the aisle.

The bride's gown was a white Victorian style in sata peau trimmed in pea d'ange lace. The neck was high with an inset of English net and the long, full sleeves were trimmed with lace cuffs. The attached chapel length train was bordered, as was the entire full skirt, in the peau d'ange lace.

Her matching lace Julet cap was trimmed in seed pearls and crystals and the veil was made of two finger length tiers and two full length tiers of silk illusion. Her bouquet was Amazon lilies, stephanotis, yellow roses and baby's breath with streamers. The bride wore a diamond and sapphire necklace given by the bridegroom as a birthday present.

Miss Susan McGuire was her sister's maid of honor. The other attendants were Mrs. Peter Hatton and Mrs. John B. Norberg, sorority sisters of the bride, and Miss Elizabeth Glaros, sister of the groom. They wore long green voile gowns with large white flowered patterns and long, full sleeves. Headpiece, to which short green veils were attached, were the same print as the desses and their shoes were matching green.

Louis N. Glaros, brother of the groom, was the best man and Mark Stevens, Skip Hector and David Wickland were the ushers.

Mrs. Callender chose a floor-length gown in apricot chiffon with long sleeves for her daughter's wedding, and the mother of the bridegroom wore a long pink dress. Each wore a white orchid.

A reception and dinner for 225 guests was held at the Carriage Club where green and white colors prevailed. Decorations on the bride's table and tables for the relatives continued in yellow and white. The four-tiered pillar cake was in green and white. Guests had dinner downstairs at the club and went upstairs for an evening of dancing and refreshments.

The couple went on a Caribbean cruise to Nassau and Freeport with a day's stay in Miami, Fla. The bride's traveling costume was a two-piece plaid ensemble with a yellow rose corsage.

The couple will reside at Oxford No. 8, W. Hampton, Hobart, Ind.

Also attending the wedding from the area were Mr. and Mrs. Heber Rosher, of Leesburg, uncle and aunt of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Duane Callender, Bradford and Carma, of Toledo.

The new Mrs. Glaros is a 1968 graduate of Wilmington High School and DePauw University, Green Castle, Ind., where she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. She is presently teaching biology at the high school in Portage, Ind. Her husband was graduated from Indiana University and is an agent with the Prudential Life Insurance Co. in Hammond, Ind.

Class donates to remodel class rooms

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Craig were hosts at the meeting of the Fellowship Class of the Bloomingburg Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Mary Foster, president, read from the Upper Room and the Scripture.

The group voted to give $200 to remodel two class rooms at the church, and $25 to the Meals on Wheels program.

Jack Sollars and Richard Snyder are co-chairmen for the Easter breakfast. Assisting them will be Edgar McFadden, Dan Thompson and Norman Schiering. Mrs. Craig, Mrs. Sollars and Mrs. Donald King will secure teachers, and the class will provide lilies for the church for Easter.

"Praying Hands" was the topic of Mrs. Foster's program.

The next meeting will be April 13 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Writsel. Mrs. Sollars will provide devotions and Mrs. McFadden the program topic.

The Kings assisted the Craigs in the serving of refreshments.

Announce engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Ace Knisley, of Reesville, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Toni, to Dan McCoy, son of Mrs. Thelma McCoy, 126 Fulton St., Wilmington, and the late Mr. McCoy.

Both have graduated from high school and Mr. McCoy is employed in Cincinnati.

An August 10 wedding is being planned.

Class completes plans for Sunrise Service

Devotions consisted of group participation in recitation of Bible verses and singing of hymns.

Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Maughmer and Mr. and Mrs. Everitt Robbins. The refreshment table was centered with a beautiful blue dish filled with flowers.

The next meeting will be April 24 when Mr. and Mrs. Milbourne Flee will be hosts.

August wedding planned

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. McCoy, Rt. 4, announce the engagement of their daughter, Carol Sue, to Byers Wendel Shaw Jr., son of Dr. Byers W. Shaw, 436 Jupiter St.

Miss McCoy, a 1969 graduate of Miami Trace High School, is presently a senior majoring in art education at The Ohio State University. She will be graduated in June.

Mr. Shaw is a 1968 graduate of Washington Senior High School and a 1972 graduate of Kenyon College. He is presently a first year medical student at Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland.

An Aug. 18 wedding is being planned.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Fred James, Mrs. Rollo Marchant, Mrs. Gerald Wheat, Mrs. Frank Sanderson and Mrs. Allen O. McClung were in Columbus Wednesday to attend the Northeast Regional Camp Fire conference and workshop at Ramada Inn South.

Mr. Galloway guest speaker for sorority

Alpha Theta chapter, Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority, met Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Ray Loudner. The program for the social meeting was presented by Mr. Bruce Galloway, commercial manager of Ohio Bell Telephone Co. Using slides and a tape, Mr. Galloway conducted a "Buckeye Q" contest on Ohio history. Participating were Mrs. Jack Merriman, Mrs. Tom Rankin and Mrs. John Bernard. The winner in a close contest was Mrs. John Bernard. All the contestants received gifts.

During the informal business meeting, it was announced that members should bring "Pringle" cans to the next meeting. There will be a meeting Thursday at 7 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Paul Cox for the purpose of making decorations for the ESA benefit in May. Plans were finalized for the mother-daughter banquet at 6:30 p.m. May $5 in Grace United Methodist Church.

The slate of candidates for officers for next year will be presented at the next meeting.

Easter pets discouraged

CHICAGO (AP) — Giving baby rabbits, chicks and ducks for Easter is frowned upon by the American Veterinary Medical Association, which urges parents not to give living animals as toys to children.

A baby rabbit, chick or duck is not likely to survive in the home atmosphere, the association says.

A young child's enthusiasm often results in broken wings and legs. If the animal dies or is injured, it is a traumatic experience for the child.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

THURSDAY, MARCH 29

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Getting what you want — and quickly — may be day's main problem. The answer lies just around the corner. Don't expect it to be obvious, however. You'll have to dig deep.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

An on-and-off day, but you should do well if you stress you innate competence and perseverance. In some matters you'll gain more by taking the unorthodox approach.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Avoid the illogical and close your eyes to the dubious schemes of others — no matter how attractively they may be presented. Let your head rule your "feelings."

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Your management of material resources now comes up for review and, perhaps, criticism. Keep things orderly and in balance. Verify all "information" if you'd stay ahead.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Some detail you overlooked may upset the smooth tenor of your work. Pick up wherever is most practical and go on. Breast-beating is a waste of time.

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

You could misinterpret certain situations now. Carefully analyze the job and involvements of the next few days. You could be misled by your emotions.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

You grasp ideas easily, see benefits to be gained where others only note the obstacles. Use your instincts NOW — and go forward.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Many demands will be made on your time and effort now. There won't be an easy way to handle but, with your optimism, originality and independence of thought, you'll find YOUR way.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Don't negate past fine efforts through thoughtlessness. Attend to all affairs in a quiet, dispassionate manner. Personal relationships should prove rewarding.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Don't shirk responsibility. Accept its challenge. Especially now, when a person in authority has already become intrigued with your potentials.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Your public relations accented now, with emphasis on responses to your efforts and presentation of ideas. Curb any tendency toward aggressiveness. Win your way through tact, diplomacy.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

A step in the right direction can be accelerated later when footing is surer. If you do get a wrong start, switch tactics or change pace. You CAN make it!

YOU BORN TODAY are a highly enthusiastic individual, always intensely active, and with an imagination that visualizes lofty goals — which you CAN attain. Your courage, integrity and gift of leadership are outstanding, and you make fine executives and organizers; are also astute in handling finances — IF you do not act too impulsively. You are highly intuitive, and your love of beauty and color may lead you, almost inevitably, into the art world — where you could attain great success. Aside from your talent for painting, your creative abilities extend to the areas of music and writing. With your dynamic personality and love for the limelight, you would also make an outstanding politician or entertainer. Try to curb the intensely material side of your nature.

Food stamp changes to aid poor

WASHINGTON (AP) — An increase in the value of food stamps is in store for some needy families, but others will derive little or no benefit from new stamp allowances.

Changes in the food stamp program go into effect July 1 and will allow a family of four at the low end of the poverty scale to buy $4 more worth of stamps a month.

Figures released by the Agriculture Department, which announced the food-stamp raises Monday, put the current monthly stamp allowance for a family of four at $112. This will rise to $116, but the cost of purchasing the stamps will remain the same.

The Agriculture Department said the increased benefits were being made in accordance with federal law, which requires an annual adjustment to reflect changes in food prices. With these adjustments, the cost of the program will rise to $2.1 billion in the next fiscal year, up about $140 million.

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — A dancer who earns her living jumping out of a papier mache cake is suing an airline for allegedly losing it.

Brandy, as she is known professionally, filed suit in Santa Clara County Superior Court Monday, asking that Trans World Airlines be made to pay $13,200 for the incident she said occurred on March 15 as she was returning from a New York television appearance.

Brandy charged that her collapsible cake, which she valued at $750, was put on the plane in New York, but was missing when she picked up her luggage in San Francisco.

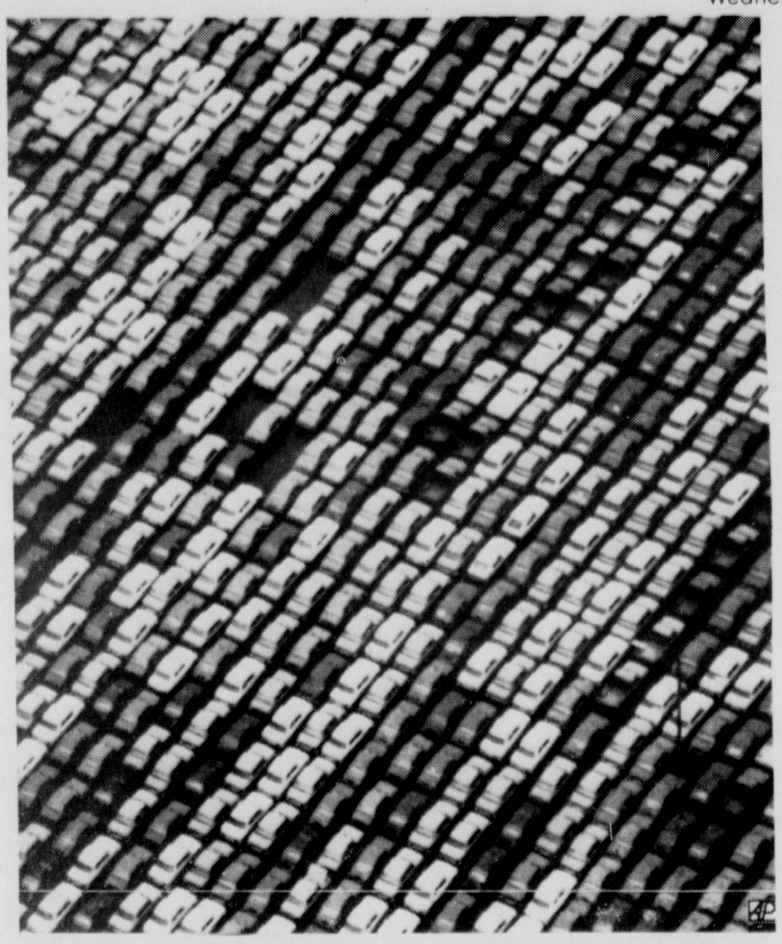

In addition to the price of the cake, Brandy is asking $6,500 to compensate for lost wages from engagements she was forced to cancel, and $6,000 for emotional distress.

Doctor facing audit found dead in office

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Akron police said today that a Bath Township doctor charged with drug violations was found dead in his Akron office by narcotics agents who intended to audit his records.

Police said a scalpel and a razor blade in a surgical clamp were found near the body of Dr. William Rios, 45, and that the death had been ruled a suicide.

Broadcast chief denies any 'deal'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of the National Association of Broadcasters has denied the industry made a deal with the White House to obtain a proposed administration bill that would extend federal licenses to broadcast.

"I don't think any member of this association seriously believes that I or any of our board of directors would sell our free press birthright for a mess of protection pottage," Vincent T. Wasilewski said.

Ohio's Democratic Party plans screening committee

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Democrats plan to name a screening committee similar to one the Republicans have to help select state candidates in 1974.

Party Chairman William H. Lavelle told newsmen Tuesday that his party will not have the same problems, since it already controls three state offices.

Instead, it will be shooting for good candidates for secretary of state, lieutenant governor, U.S. Senate and the Supreme Court, he said.

"I think we've got the best shot at him we've had in any time," Lavelle said. Democrats are expected to blame him for Cuyahoga County election foulups last spring.

Lavelle said he didn't know why Democratic deputy auto registrars complain more to newspapers about kickbacks they make to the party than Republicans did in years past.

"Maybe disgruntled Democrats run to the papers more than disgruntled Republicans," Lavelle said. He said he did not favor any law that would make such contributions illegal.

4-H Round-Up

Officer, adviser conferences set

By JACK SOMMERS
County Extension Agent, 4-H

One of the more important events for 4-H'ers, the annual Officer and Adviser Conference, starts this week. All 4-H club officers have a chance to learn more about their duties as an officer of their 4-H group. Two 7-9 p.m. sessions are planned, one on March 29, at Bloomingburg School, and the second at Washington Junior High School on April 5. The officers need to attend only one of the conferences.

The Officer and Adviser Conference gives the 4-H'ers a chance to learn how to conduct a meeting, take minutes, keep financial records or lead activities in the club meetings, depending on what office they hold. The officers will also have a chance to share ideas with other 4-H'ers in the county.

While the youth are busily learning their responsibilities, their adult advisers will be visiting with one another to discuss important concerns and plan for 1973.

THE TURN-OUT of young sheep judges was outstanding at the Dorset judging contest Saturday. One hundred-fifty 4-H and FFA boys and girls were on hand to judge three classes of excellent Dorsets. Congratulations to the Miami Trace FFA Team that topped the contest. Their score was excellent and the competition was tough.

THIS SATURDAY, 17 boys will be involved in the tractor certification driving test at Jeffersonville Farm Service, Ohio 41-N. The boys passed their written test with flying colors and should do well in the practical exam. To pass the test, they must show their skill in driving a tractor and manure spreader through an obstacle course, back it down a 40-foot alley and return to the shed where they started.

Scoring is based on safety of operation and skill in maneuvering the vehicle through the course. Although we'll be using wood stakes and string to mark off the boundaries, I'm sure the boys won't knock out too many "barn walls" in the 10 minute test.

A NEW PROJECT offered for the first time in 1973 is called "Fishing For Beginners." I think this project is an excellent introduction to conservation and understanding nature. Members who take the project do more than sit idly along a stream with a pole in their hands. They will study the parts of a fish, water safety, fish identification and conservation while learning the basic skills of the popular sport.

Jeannie Anderson, the Key Leaders and I are finishing up our spring organization campaign this week. We hope to have all interested youngsters enrolled in a 4-H group and starting to learn about their favorite project. Thanks to all those who have volunteered to lead clubs and those who have assisted in this effort.

American Cancer Society kicks off Ohio Crusade

Seven members of the Fayette County unit of the American Cancer Society were among the more than 700 American Cancer Society volunteers at the Ohio Union on the OSU campus this week to meet Minnie Pearl, this year's ACS Crusade chairman, and to kick off the 1973 state campaign. The goal of the Ohio Crusade next month is $4 million for research, education and service to cancer patients.

At the meeting from here were unit president Robert E. Minshall and Mrs. Minshall; Elmer N. Reed, a member of the state board, and Mrs. Reed; Mrs. L.C. Johnson, a member of the county board, and Mr. Johnson, and Mrs. Roger F. (Ramona) Miller, 201 River Rd., a cured cancer patient.

Dr. Arthur G. James, a Columbus cancer surgeon and president of the National American Cancer Society, was the meeting's medical speaker. He is a professor of surgery at the Ohio State University School of Medicine and medical director of the Columbus Cancer Clinic. Dr. James spoke on "Progress in Cancer."

Responding to the time worn question on how soon cancer will be cured, Dr. James replied optimistically, "This depends on how soon the American public wants it. The sooner sufficient funds and efforts are made available to permit adequate investigation, the sooner cancer will be irradicated. This is a most intriguing period of time to be working in the field of cancer. You and I should feel proud to be a part of the great effort which is now starting and which I believe will bring an end to the disease that produced much more human suffering than any other one in the world."

Dr. Thomas P. Bowlus, a Toledo surgeon and president of the American Cancer Society's Ohio Division, said: "This was a most inspirational meeting because 80 men and women, cured of cancer for five or more years participated in the event as living testimony that cancer can be cured."

Minnie Pearl, one of the country's best-known comediennes, addressed the audience on a rare serious note saying, "I know cancer can be cured now. In Ohio alone there are over 77,000 men, women, and children alive and well today who guarded their life through early diagnosis and prompt treatment. We can't ignore our health and expect to stay well. It's what you don't know that can hurt you." Because Miss Pearl lost her mother and sister to cancer, she plans on working the rest of her life in fighting the disease to the finish.

WAR ON CANCER — Mrs. Roger F. Miller, right, 201 River Rd., and Minnie Pearl, 1973 ACS Crusade, help kick off the annual Ohio campaign to raise $4 million for research, education and service to cancer patients.

'Dumpy', hard-luck pooch, doesn't lack for sympathy

SALEM, Ohio (AP)—Dumpy the dog may not be homeless for long. Phone calls have poured into Salem over the weekend offering to take in the hard luck stray.

Dumpy was rescued a week ago from a local landfill by two Salem women after he survived gassing in a dog van, being shot by a dog warden and being abandoned for dead.

"He's a determined dog," Mrs. Guiler said. "I think he'll make it."

An Associated Press story on Dumpy's survival brought calls Sunday and today from across the country. Mrs. Guiler, who fielded only a fraction of the calls, said she'd talked to people in New York, Pennsylvania, Florida, Michigan and Louisiana.

"About half of them want the dog, and the other half are disgusted and mad because the dog warden only got a five-day suspension," she said.

The Mahoning County commissioners suspended the deputy dog warden involved Saturday for five days for neglect of duty and conduct unbecoming an officer. The commissioners also ordered the county to use carbon dioxide gassing in the future instead of the exhaust bypass system in the vans.

Dumpy had been thrown in front of a bulldozer after the gassing, but he managed to stagger out of its path. The dog warden then shot him through the chest, but Dumpy managed to find cover behind some trash.

The bulldozer operator said the deputy didn't follow the dog because he didn't want to get his boots muddy and because he was sure the dog would die anyway.

Mrs. Guiler and Joyce Fluharty heard the story later and searched through the dump with flashlights in pouring rain that night until they found the dog.

"Every hair on that dog was on end," Mrs. Guiler said. "His eyes were glazed, and he was nothing but mud and blood. But he didn't try to bite, and he didn't make a sound."

Commodity futures trading involves risks, hard facts

NEW YORK (AP) — In the hectic, risky game of commodity futures trading, factors such as crop reports, weather conditions, government policy, consumer income, eating habits and world trade prospects all figure in the calculations.

Seemingly it is a very real world of hard facts that, if studied and understood, will permit the speculator to forecast accurately the price of frozen chickens or corn or silver or 60 other items up to a year ahead.

But there is an element of unreality too. In only about one per cent of trades does the speculator really want delivery at a future date. He is really trading in risks rather than products; most often he sells out before delivery.

Who does get delivery: Eventually it ends up in the warehouses of processors and distributors who really want and need to buy cocoa, hogs, coffee, bacon, eggs or what have you. Without real buyers, there's be no market.

Producers and processors of commodities trade mainly because they want to stabilize their prices. They are willing to buy and sell at specific prices now—for commodities to be delivered at a future date.

Speculators, who make up the other part of the market, are willing to assume the risk of price fluctuations. They bet that prices will be higher or lower months from now. If right, they collect their reward for taking the risk.

In accepting this risk they relieve the processor or grower or distributor of any doubts about his cost of doing business. He can ascertain expenses months ahead of the time his raw materials are sold or bought.

If you want to probe deeper into the intracies of commodities—and if you play the game you must—you had better be prepared to doubt your intelligence. It can be an incredibly complex game, risky too, but it offers unmatched profits.

It is a market, for instance, that rewarded soybean meal speculators who put up $600 in November 1972 with profits of more than $10,000 when they sold out last month. For $300, iced broiler speculators netted $3,078 in the same time.

Margin makes it possible. With cash on the line being only 5 to 10 per cent of the purchase price—really a performance bond or earnest money—a speculator can develop tremendous leverage. Sometimes it's up, most often down.

There is an old saying in the business that you never buck a trend and that you let your profits run. That is, if you believe prices are going to rise and they fall, sell out. If they continue to rise, stay with it.

Most commodity officials seem to think that about 75 per cent of trades result in losses. Still, those who pick only 25 per cent correctly often make big profits because they jump off their losers quickly and ride their winners.

No surprise then that trading is booming, that a seat on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange costs more than one on the New York Stock Exchange, that volume on the Chicago Board of Trade has more than doubled in five years.

Last year the Board of Trade handled $123 billion in contracts. The Mercantile Exchange produced $66 billion volume. And trading at Kansas City, Winnipeg, Minneapolis, New York and elsewhere pushed the total over $200 billion.

What stocks are to New York, commodities are to Chicago, and both the Board of Trade and the Mercantile Exchange are promoting popular participation. Helping along are some of the big stock houses, such as Merrill Lynch.

The Thundering Herd, as ML is called, might be the world's largest retailer of stocks and bonds but, yes, it is also keenly interested in commodities and even offers a booklet to beginners, "Speculation As a Fine Art."

As viewed by ML, the art may be practiced only if you have $50,000 in liquid assets and $2,000 in risk capital. That would seem to eliminate most people, but there are many other firms that won't ask questions.

Most big stock brokers have memberships on large commodity exchanges, and many, believing that the excitement is here to stay, are seeking to build their commodity business. Other brokers specialize in commodities alone.

GREETINGS, MR. PRESIDENT — Mrs. Bruce Bedford, 90, of Princeton, N. J., shakes hands with President Richard Nixon in Oval Office of White House. Mrs. Bedford said she had met nine Presidents and would like to meet Mr. Nixon who invited her to the White House after learning of her interest.

Meat boycotters set Saturday parade

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—A four-block march by Cincinnati meat boycotters will be staged downtown Saturday.

The rally ill take demonstrators from Garfield Park to Fountain Square, according to Mrs. Jan Hahn, a worker for Fight Inflation Together (FIT).

Mrs. Hahn said plans also call for a protest rally at Riverfront Stadium April 5th when the Reds open the season.

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The Cincinnati Area Council on Aging has applied for a three-year, $2,248,647 grant for feeding Hamilton County senior citizens.

Night-long arson patrols ease fears of Ohio town

LIBERTY CENTER, Ohio (AP) — Volunteers patrol the streets of this northern Henry County community every night so 1,200 residents can go to bed without worrying about arson.

Families retire each night knowing that four fires have erupted in the town since November. State and local investigators point to arson in at least two of the blazes, which have caused a total of $1.5 million damage, but no injuries.

"I don't know if the patrols have been effective, but they make people feel better," said Town Fire Chief Burdette Spiess. "You can go to bed knowing a patrol car is on the streets."

Since 80 residents volunteered to share patroling the town from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. every night, "absolutely nothing has turned up," said School Supt. Jack Slagle.

The first blaze destroyed the 80-year-old high school, except for the cafeteria and the gymnasium. Then, two fires occurred within a month of each other at the town's elementary school. The last fire in January leveled the community's only grain elevator.

Fire Chief Spiess said the two fires at the elementary school were set, "but we don't know for sure at the high school. A faulty electrical wire is the only thing we could come up with.

"I don't know about the grain elevator. It burned so bad that we couldn't tell anything.

He said investigations of the fires are continuing.

"Everybody is edgy," said Slagle, who now works out of a mobile home near the high school ruins. "Everybody wishes the person was caught.

"As far as the investigators and I are concerned, we are certain it is not a student or anyone connected with the school."

Slagle said, "The consensus is that it is somebody close at hand. We're going on the opinion that it is somebody who has a very bad mental condition."

The three school fires caused $1.25 million damage and forced the relocation of high school students in the nearby elementary school. That move pushed 300 first, second and third graders into four area churches, one as far away as four miles from town.

Slagle said 900 students are now crammed into the elementary school, which has a capacity for 650.

Easing the crowding is as much as two years away when a new high school can be completed, he said.

Slagle, his secretary and the clerk of the board of education work in a 65-foot mobile home on the school grounds. "I work in the bedroom, my secretary in the living room and the clerk in the kitchen," he said. Two smaller bedrooms are used for files and mimeographing equipment.

The superintendent said the trailer has been used for meetings, but indicated the quarters were cramped with more than 10 persons.

Because of school work lost to the fires, Slagle said, classes will continue four days beyond the normal school year.

He said, "I think the fires have brought the community much closer together. Everybody is more aware of things going on than before, and they are more observant of things at night."

Spiess said, "We have been scared—the whole community has been scared. It's just one of those things that happen to a small town.

"You read about it in a paper, but you never think it comes home. But it did."

Laws for everybody

MASERU, Lesotho (AP) — The era of the all-powerful tribal chief has passed in Africa and in some countries they are disciplined like civil servants. A Lesotho government bulletin reported that Chief Tumo Majara was recently warned "to mend his ways and ensure that he does not commit an act of misconduct or contravention of the Chieftainship Act for a period of 10 months."

Rotarians told of Laurel Oaks progress

Rotarians were brought up to date Tuesday on changes and progress being made in the development of Laurel Oaks Career Development Campus on what once was the Clinton County Air Force Base near Wilmington.

The slides showed graphically the changes that have been, and still are, being made to adapt the 38 buildings on the 400-acre campus to civilian use. They have been converted into classrooms, laboratories and shops from strictly military use. In the conversion process equipment and other facilities have been installed. Wical commented that there are five miles of streets on the campus.

He cited figures to show that vocational education has been playing second fiddle to the academic education and pointed out that of the $20 billion spent in 1972 for education, only 14 per cent went for vocational training.

He said approximately 500 students are enrolled now in the Laurel Oaks school and predicted that the enrollment will be twice that next year. Among them are 135 students from Fayette County. The day's schedule in general calls for 90 minutes of classroom study and three hours a day in the laboratory, shop or office.

WICAL SAID that, for example, enrollment in the cosmetology course is limited to 25 students and that around 500 had applied. He noted that this means the applicants must be thoroughly screened to reduce the number of students to 25.

Twenty- seven courses are offered this year, and this number will be increased to 34 next year. The instructors have an average of 18 years experience in their fields.

James Ward was the program chairman and the meeting was conducted by President Fred Domenico.

Visiting guests were Ottie Hockman and Lynn Rainsboro, of Mount Sterling, Jerry Ardry of London and Darrell French of Wilmington.

Mount Vernon phones out

MOUNT VERNON, Ohio (AP) — United Telephone Co. crews worked through the night on the huge task of splicing thousands of wires, and a company spokesman said the firm hoped to have normal service restored sometime this morning.

Most local and long distance telephone service here was disrupted Tuesday afternoon when construction workers accidentally severed five major cables. A short time later, emergency service was set up for calls to hospitals, the fire department and law enforcement agencies.

The five cables contained thousands of wires that had to be spliced back together.

"It's a time-consuming job," said Jim Schnell of United Telephone. "The largest cable contained 2,100 pairs of lines."

Plane bomb scare figure sentenced

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A second man has been sentenced in federal court in connection with a plot to extort $200,000 from United Air Lines with a bomb scare last fall.

U.S. District Court Judge William K. Thomas sentenced James M. Binion, 30, of Marmet, W.Va., to two years in prison. He had been convicted by a jury during February.

Speech therapist for area studied

Tentative plans of sharing costs for employing a speech therapist for a five-county area were discussed at the Fayette County Board of Mental Retardation meeting held Tuesday night.

Carl Whitaker, administrator of the Fayette County Progressive School, explained to board members that employing the speech therapist would cost the five counties participating $2,000 each. Adams, Brown, Clinton, Fayette and Highland counties are involved.

Whitaker said the qualified teacher would work one day a week in the community classes for the retarded children in each of the five counties.

It was reported that a five-county council for exceptional children has been formed. Carl Anders, special education teacher at Washington Junior High School, is president of the group, and Paul Grim, special education teacher at Miami Trace High School, is the membership chairman for Fayette County.

KATHY MASSIE has started a "mini Projects" program one day a week at the Fayette County Progressive School in conjunction with the area Extension office. The program includes crafts, cooking and social activities. The children will attend the Shrine Circus in Columbus April 9.

Special Olympics for the retarded children will hold a district meeting in Bucyrus June 2 and a state meeting at Ohio State University June 22-23. The Washington C.H. Jaycees are working on a project for this event of track and field competition for the youngsters.

Whitaker announced the need for a developmental class next fall which will meet 108 mornings a year with 2½ hours of instruction for children ages 3-11. Parents are urged to contact the Progressive School, (335-1391).

Whitaker also said tentative plans have been made for physical education classes for the 25 students in September.

Mrs. Frank Weade, chairman of the board, conducted the meeting, and board members present were Mrs. James Beatty, Mrs. Jane Mossbarger, Mrs. James Wagner, Mrs. Stanley Graumlich and Judge Rollo M. Marchant. Dr. Robert Heiny was absent.

Mrs. Weade announced that the Ohio Association for Retarded Children convention will be held in Cleveland April 26-29. Several board members will attend.

Case dealership will move to modern quarters

Within the next 8 to 10 weeks the Case Power and Equipment dealership will have moved from its present location, 1403 N. North St., to its new headquarters about two miles west of the city on the CCC Highway, John Crummy, manager announces.

Construction of the Armco steel building is under way, with the framework now nearing completion. The building will have approximately 6,000 square feet of floor space and will house the shop, parts department and sales and business offices.

The building, which will front about 100 feet on the highway, is on a four-acre tract which will provide space for parking and display of both new and used equipment, Crummy said.

The Case dealership was established here in January 1969. Since then, Crummy said, the business has outgrown its original facilities on North Street and more space is imperative.

The dealership carries a full line of tractors, tillage tools, backhoes and material-handling equipment.

The staff of nine, including Crummy and Richard Sefton, the business manager, will be increased when the move into the new building is completed.

Kentucky choir to sing Friday at South Side

The chapel choir of Kentucky Christian College, Grayson, Ky., will present a program of sacred music at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the South Side Church of Christ.

The concert here will be one of several to be given on the choir's annual spring tour, the Rev. Charles J. Richmond, pastor, said. From March 27 through April 3 concerts will be presented in Ohio, Indiana and West Virginia. The 34-voice mixed choir travels in its own bus.

The choir, under the direction of Miss La Vern Karns, will present a program which will include such songs as "Go Tell It on the Mountain," "The Lord Is My Shepherd," "How Great Thou Art" and "The Lord Is Coming Back."

Three crashes reported; driver cited

One driver was cited in three traffic mishaps investigated by city police Tuesday. All three involved damage to parked cars.

Damage to the two cars was moderate.

A city school bus was slightly damaged when it scraped the fender of a parked car Tuesday morning while turning from Elm Street onto Washington Avenue.

Police said the bus, driven by Carole E. Aills, 39, of 724 Carolyn Rd., was turning east onto Washington Avenue, from Elm Street when the right rear of the bus scraped the fender of a parked car owned by Naomi B. Waddell, Rt. 2. None of the several children on the bus were injured.

A car driven by Jaqueline D. Boylan, 27, Rt. 2, collided with a parked car owned by John K. Miller, Rt. 2, in the Memorial Hospital lot Tuesday evening. Damage to the two cars was minor.

Jaycee chief blasts rehabilitation bill veto

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Richard "Dick" Couch, state chairman of the Ohio Jaycees, says he "completely refuses to accept" President Nixon's veto of a vocational rehabilitation bill in the areas of mental health and retardation.

Couch said state and national Jaycee members "will be urged to comment and act as to the action of President Nixon in the areas of federal funding for mental health and retardation and vocational programming."

China urges seabed pact on resources, atom subs

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — China has called for development of resources beneath the oceans' floors by an international agency and for a ban on nuclear submarines in international waters.

The proposals were made Tuesday in a U.N. working group that is making preparations for an international conference on law of the sea.

Chinese delegate Sha Pu said the proposed international seabed agency should be "empowered to engage in the direct exploitation of resources and not just handle registration, license-issuing and collection of fees or just supervise and coordinate matters relating to seabed resources."

China appears to be the first government to propose international exploitation of seabed resources. The United States has proposed a treaty establishing an International Seabed Resource Authority, but it would license governments and firms to mine the seabed. Some of the payments to the authority would be used to help developing countries.

Oil and gas are the chief resources now being taken from the seabed. This is being done by private firms licensed by various governments and drilling on the continental shelfs. But deep sea mining of manganese nodules and other minerals and deep sea drilling in international waters is expected to be feasible within a few years.

Sha said that until international machinery is set up to handle such operations 'mommercial exploitation of resources of the international seabed should cease." He accused the United States of jumping the gun on such exploitation.

The international conference on the law of the sea is to open at U.N. headquarters next November.

Showers, storms hit Midcontinent

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers and thunderstorms scattered light rain over the Plains and Mississippi Valley today as wet weather returned to the midcontinent.

Snow fell in the northern and central Rockies as temperatures dipped near freezing. Eight inches of snow blanketed Almosa, Colo., and four inches piled up in parts of Oregon.

Locally heavy snow, driven by strongly gusty winds, whistled through the mountains of the southern Plateau. Flagstaff, Ariz., collected an inch of snow, bringing to 25 inches the cover now on the ground.

Flooding in the Mississippi and Missouri valleys remained a potential hazard to land, homes and inhabitants. Serious flooding was expected along the Mississippi River from the Quincy-Hannibal area in northern Missouri and Illinois through the St. Louis section to New Madrid in southern Missouri.

Both rivers continued to rise Tuesday, and the Coast Guard closed a 200-mile stretch of the Missouri to commercial traffic from its mouth to Boonville, Mo. The Coast Guard said the closing was intended to prevent damage to levees and docks by the wakes of large craft.

It was the first time since 1965 that navigation on the river had been halted, authorities said.

The National Weather Service said the Missouri River is not expected to rise much more than seven feet over flood stage and may crest at St. Charles, Mo., Friday without creating too many addition problems.

Fair skies prevailed from the Ohio Valley to New England and the Middle Atlantic states.

Schedule votes to overturn vo-rehab veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — The crucial vote is likely in the House next week on a $2.6-billion vocational-rehabilitation bill, vetoed by President Nixon to force the year's first showdown on spending with the Democratic-controlled Congress.

The Senate is expected to muster the needed two-thirds vote to override Nixon's veto when it takes up the measure next Tuesday. The House outlook is considered uncertain.

Though both House and Senate passed the bill by lopsided margins, a House move backed by the Nixon administration to reduce it was beaten on a relatively close 213-165 vote.

The measure, a three-year extension of the program that provides grants to the states for the physically and mentally handicapped, was the first of 12 bills vetoed by Nixon last year, after Congress adjourned, to meet the same fate after repassage this year.

This year's bill is $800 million smaller than the one vetoed last year. An authorization measure, it sets the ceiling for the program with actual funds to be provided in a later appropriations bill.

In his veto message Tuesday, Nixon declared that enactment of measures that surpass his budget could lead to a 15-percent increase in personal income taxes.

"If we allow the big spenders to sweep aside budgetary restraints," Nixon said, "we can expect an increase of more than $50 billion in federal spending before the end of fiscal year 1975."

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., chief Senate sponsor, replied that "the President clearly hasn't read this bill and doesn't know what's in it."

He said the vocationa-rehabilitation programs "have proven to be among the most cost-effective of any in the federal government" and added that this year's bill "has met the President more than half way" by cutting $881 million from the 1972 measure.

Decline in livestock prices unlikely to reach consumer

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Will lower prices for hogs and cattle at the slaughterhouse mean cheaper meat on the consumer's table?

Many buyers and livestock executives in the Midwest don't think so.

Hog prices at major markets plummeted Tuesday, giving rise to consumer hopes that there may be some price relief. A threatened boycott of the meat counter for the first week of April and the meatless Tuesdays advocated by some consumer groups have added an unknown element to the market, say market operators.

At the Joliet, Ill, market, hogs were down $2 at the opening and sank $4 later in the buying session. Hogs opened $1.50 to $2 lower on the Interior Iowa-southern Minnesota direct market, while Sioux City prices opened $3 lower.

Most market observers said the declines were the largest in memory.

The director of the American Meat Institute, Allen Johnson, said the consumer boycott is adding confusion to the market. "But it's probably more psychological than real," he added.

Johnson said hog prices were probably due to drop because of their previously record level and an increase of supply last week.

Lee Fowler, a buyer for Farmland Order Buyers in Omaha, Neb., said: "The farmer panicked just slightly. They've let the government and the news media scare them a little" and they may have rushed their hogs to market.

Fowler predicted that increased marketing and subsequent lower prices would last two or three weeks.

Meanwhile, meat packers in Nebraska reported they would curtail slaughtering because of lower demand and fewer cattle available.

Raise not enough for welfare aide

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—A raise of $560 isn't enough to change a Hamilton County welfare official's mind about taking a promotion.

Donald Swallow, the county's assistant welfare director, has refused to take over the duties of retiring director Frederick A. Breyer.

"With all the added responsibilities, he doesn't think it would be worth it," said County Commissioner Robert Wood.

The director's job pays a maximum of $23,500.

Key to schools is recovered

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The keys to Cincinnati's public school system were back in the possession of School Superintendent Donald Waldrip today.

Waldrip reported Tuesday a key chain containing the master key was stolen from his home in the past week.

Police said they recovered the keys from the youth who was among several students visiting the Waldrip home on St. Patrick's Day.

Blaze claims 3 children

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Three young children died as fire swept their frame home on the south edge of Lima early today.

Their mother was hospitalized in critical condition with burns over most of her body and a six-year-old sister of the children who were killed was listed in serious condition.

Identities were being withheld pending notification of next-of-kin.

Authorities said the children's uncle, who lived next door collapsed and died of a heart attack.

The fire was reported about 1:30 a.m.

Sheriff's deputies, who were the first to arrive, reported the building already engulfed in flames.

Meigs teachers stage walkout

POMEROY, Ohio (AP) — Teachers and non-professional workers set up picket lines outside the nine schools in the Meigs County Local School District today in a strike over a contract dispute.

Some 100 members of the Meigs Education Association and about 70 workers represented by the Association of Public Employes voted to strike Tuesday night, accusing the school board of "negotiating in bad faith."

The two groups have been negotiating with the board over a 5.5 per cent wage increase and insurance benefits.

$2,000 raise merely maintains an even keel

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A recent $2,000 raise has enabled the Marvin Menzels to maintain last year's standard of living.

"That should tell you something right there," said Menzel, about his raise and promotion to a product manager at Honeywell Inc., the electronics and computer firm.

"Very few people have that good fortune and if it takes that drastic an increase to maintain your standard of living then I think the stituation is pretty serious." His increase comes to about 13 per cent.

Menzel, his wife Dawn and two children live modestly if not frugally on his new gross income of $17,000. While the Menzels haven't had to make any major cutbacks, except for buying less expensive cuts of meat, neither can remember ever being so conscious of money and prices.

Menzel is planning to replace his 1969 Ford — she has a 1971 Pinto — but not before he does some serious comparison shopping.

"I can't remember when I've been so deliberate about buying a car," said Menzel, 29. "It will probably be a trauma."

Last summer they planted a small vegetable garden for the children to play with. This year they plan to raise vegetables.

Recently they tallied their canceled checks for food from Jan. 1 through March 15 of last year and came up with $299. This year the figure was $380.38.

"But we aren't exactly eating like we were eating last year," said Mrs. Menzel, 25. "You watch more closely. You go from hamburger to the roast. You try to figure out where is the most waste by shrinkage or by bone."

Sirloin steak is now a company-only treat and a weekly menu more than likely will include spaghetti, hash, pork and chile. Sometimes she shops several times in one week because, she said, she can't face spending a large sum of money all at once.

A year ago she shopped at only one grocery store. Now it's two and recently, when she wanted to fill her freezer, she went to three.

For that shopping trip Mrs. Menzel scrutinized four full-page newspaper ads, clipped coupons and made three shopping lists. Before it was all over the excursion took two hours and cost $50.17 for 10 bags of groceries.

Bananas were 10 cents a pound where she bought them; 12 cents elsewhere. The beef steak she bought was 99 cents a pound; $1.59 at another store. She got turkey for 49 cents a pound instead of 59 cents and 79 cents at two other markets.

The Menzels do not keep a formal budget but their joint checking account, which they balance carefully, serves that purpose.

She writes a check for everything, even 72 cents to the newsboy.

Both cars are paid for. In fact, she paid cash for the Pinto and insisted that the car dealer remove the white sidewall tires and radio in order to bring down the cost. Menzel makes all the car repairs.

Their decisions to buy are made carefully. They almost always pay cash and always buy sale items. When they bought their Mediterrean-style bedroom and living room furniture on sale, they persuaded the store to give them a cut on a color television and stereo console, too.

Their only installment payment is on the 25-year, 7¼ per cent mortgage on their $32,000, three-bedroom home on the outskirts of Edina, a prosperous suburb of Minneapolis. Though they could have gotten more house for less money in another suburb, they chose this one in what she calls the "poor man's end of Edina" so the children could go to the area's good schools.

The Menzels have a simple lifestyle, centered around the Lutheran church and their family. They do not drink or smoke.

She has no ambition to have a large house, a swimming pool or membership in the country club, not far from their home. Her most expensive dress cost $40, a purchase she feels guilty about but she rationalizes that she has worn it frequently.

He needs a new suit, a $150 expenditure, and possibly he would like a pool table for their basement recreation room. He will buy the suit. The pool table he can do without.

They do most of the repairs on their home. They remodeled the kitchen for about $1,000, which included the purchase price of a garbage disposal and dishwasher. They had the linoleum floor laid professionally, though they took up the old carpet and did the sanding themselves.

Kristine, 5, attends a morning nursery school which costs $21 a month but so far most of the children's expenses are small. Swimming lessons for Scott, 7, at a municipal pool are only $3 for a course.

One thing she refuses to compromise on is shoes. Scott's cost $17; Kristine's, $15.

Garage sales are big business on the street of pastel-colored ranch-style homes and Mrs. Menzel often buys clothes for the children from neighbors. A winter coat for Scott cost $4. She also got an eight-year-old sewing machine for $50 and she makes some of the children's clothes on it.

She tries to convey good spending habits to the children. When Kristine wants to pick out four packages of candy for her birthday party, she makes her choose only three. She resists the temptation to let the children add items to the grocery cart.

For entertainment, the Menzels go to a movie about once every two months at $2.75 per ticket. This year they have gone to several hockey games on a friend's season tickets. At Christmas they saw the play, "I Do, I Do," at a dinner theater for $8 each. She goes to a ceramics class on Tuesdays which costs $1.50; and to Bible class on Wednesday which costs nothing. Baby sitters are $1 an hour when a neighbor is not available.

Menzel saves through a stock option plan which allows him to buy up to 12 per cent of his salary in Honeywell stock at a reduction. When the stock goes up in price, he sells it and uses that money for major cash expenditures, such as insurance premiums. Each month he also automatically buys a $25 savings bond for the children's education.

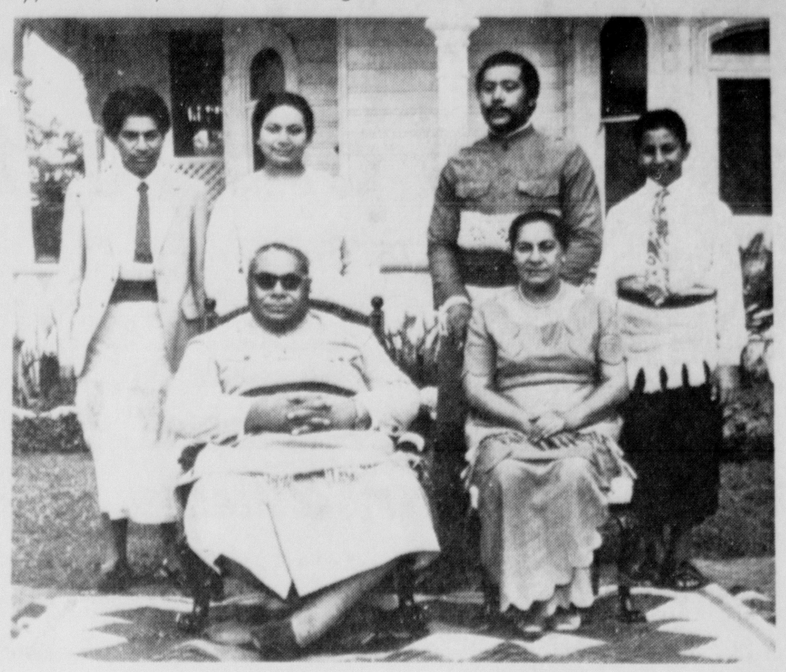

By the end of the year, they may have $1,000 left in savings, not counting the savings bonds.

On last year's vacation they went to visit her parents in Louisville, Ky. This year when Menzel has a business trip to California he plans to take the family to Disneyland.

A deeply religious couple, the Menzels give close to 10 per cent of their income to the church or the various causes that come to their attention. Two weeks ago, a man in church took up a collection for the Indians at Wounded Knee, S.D. Menzel gave $8, every penny in his pocket.

All things considered the Menzels think the cost of living increase may have come along at a time to make them think twice about their spending habits.

"It's probably been a good side effect on the cost of living increase — an increased awareness of how you are spending your money," Menzel said. "We are fortunate in not having to make any major adjustments, to some one as fortunate as we are it could be a blessing. For someone who is on a not too much lower income level than we are, I see nothing but disadvantages ...

WORLD'S BIGGEST KING — Taufa'ahau Tupou IV, seated along with members of the royal family, is the world's biggest king who rules its smallest kingdom, Tonga. King Taufa'ahua, the latest of a royal line dating back a thousand years, wants to unite China, Japan, Southeast Asia and Tonga in a super alliance. "If we don't see this as the ultimate aim," the kind said, "disunity will continue to the state where something really dangerous might happen."

$5,750 ham sets record

At the Future Farmers of America Ham and Bacon auction Monday night, Catalano bought a 12¾-pound ham for $5,750, or $451 per pound.

Buck victory clouds NBA's playoff slate

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers could have made it simple by winning. Instead the Milwaukee Bucks put the National Basketball Association Western Conference playoffs in a mess.

After trailing by 11 points in the first half and nine with eight minutes to play, the Bucks ruined the playoff schedule by coming back to edge the Lakers 85-84 Tuesday night for their 14th consecutive victory, the best ever NBA season-ending winning streak.

The victory wound up Milwaukee's regular season 60-22 and split the season series with the Lakers at 3-3.

Los Angeles is now 59-22 and a victory in their final game tonight over Golden State would leave the Pacific Division champion Lakers with the same season mark as the Bucks—and force a pre-playoff contest Friday night at Milwaukee to determine the best conference record.

At stake is the conference title, home court playoff advantage and the playoff pairings.

Oscar Robertson scored 25 points and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar 24 for Milwaukee while Jim McMillian got 32 for the Lakers, who compiled their lowest point total of the season.

In other NBA games Tuesday night, the Chicago Bulls defeated the Cleveland Cavaliers 121-105; the Detroit Pistons smashed the Baltimore Bullets 112-98; the Boston Celtics tripped the Atlanta Hawks 117-110 and the Houston Rockets stopped the Buffulo Braves 121-111.

In the American Basketball Association, the Utah Stars turned back the Denver Rockets 115-109 and the Indiana Pacers turned back the San Diego Conquistadors 110-107.

Chet Walker and Bob Love combined for 24 points in the third period and drove the Bulls past the Cavaliers. Walker, who finished with 30 points, and Love, who scored 23, ended up with nearly 3,500 points between them for the season.

Dave Bing and Bob Lanier combined for 54 points as Detroit beat sluggish Baltimore. With Bing scoring 10 of his 30 points in the third quarter, the Pistons moved into a 84-68 lead going into the final period. Lanier, who had 24 points, helped Detorit forge a 54-50 halftime lead.

Boston ended its regular season domination over Atlanta by beating the Hawks for the fifth time in six games. John Havlicek had 29 points for the winners while Atlanta's Pete Maravich led all scorers with 30.

WCH cager in state contest

Another marksman!

Another Washington C. H. youngster has earned a berth in the state finals of the Sertoma Charities free throw shooting contest.

Brent Knisley, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Knisley, CCC-Highway-E, finished second in the district free throw shooting contest held at Canal Winchester last weekend and gained a spot in the state contest which will be held at the annual Ohio-Indiana college all-star basketball April 21 at St. John Arena on the Ohio State University campus.

The youth, who joins Bill Hanners, last year's winner, and Randy Jamison as those who have earned state free throw shooting spots, hit 19 of 25 in the district contest in which nine other boys participated. He won the local contest, hitting 20 of 25 free throws.

HONDA MOTORCYCLE TEAM — Dick Runyon (right) Rt. 3, Washington C. H. and Tim Murphy participated in the Springfield Motorcycle Club's AMA-sanctioned motocross race held last weekend in Cedarville. Runyon and Murphy, who were sponsored in the race by the Honda Sports Center in Washington C. H., finished fourth in the first heat which included two professional riders of the 25 entries, but did not finish in the second heat because of a mechanical failure in their XL-250 Honda.

Two records shattered

Injuries plague MT in track lidlifter

Injuries hampered Miami Trace's track team in its season opener Tuesday night against South Central Ohio League buddy Hillsboro and always-tough Springfield Northeastern on the Panther cinderpaths.

Head coach Chuck Wallace's Panthers had nine of its first-line competitors who could not take part in the triangular meet because of sickness or injuries and Miami Trace could not enter two events due to injuries.

SCOL toughie Hillsboro won the meet with 74 points, followed by Springfield Northeastern with 60 and Miami Trace with 25.

TWO MIAMI Trace High School home track records tumbled during the meet as Mark Fehring his 12 feet, six inches in the pole vault to snap the record held by Lusher, of Chillicothe, and Thomas, of Jonathan Alder, of 12 feet.

Jim Buck, of Hillsboro, also set a new home track standard in the 880-yard run with a 2:03.3 finish, breaking the mark held by Washington C.H.'s Bob Osborne of 2:06.3 set a year ago.

Senior co-captain Gardner Cobb was the only Miami Trace trackster to notch a first-place finish in the meet as he won the 440-yard dash in 55.0.

Dennis Dalton placed second in the 100-yard dash, Cobb was the runnerup in the 220-yard dash and Ernie Perry was second in the two-mile run.

The Panthers will travel to Wilmington Thursday.

Jim McGlothlin may start

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds' varsity squad played second fiddle to the B team Tuesday. And before they day was over manager Sparky Anderson found a noteworthy stand-in.

Anderson passed up a trip with the Reds regulars to watch the progress of Jim McGlothlin, who has been thrust into a crucial role now that ace pitcher Gary Nolan is out indefinitely.

Anderson got what he went to see.

McGlothlin, who didn't figure in the Reds' rotation until Nolan developed arm problems last week, became Cincinnati's first hurler to go eight innings this spring with a sparkling six-hit effort.

The red-headed Californian allowed an unearned run in the seventh inning of a 4-1 victory and walked none.

"I've got my chance now and I've got to take advantage of it," said McGlothlin.

Anderson has said improved pitching will play the biggest part in the Reds winning a second straight National League baseball title.

If that's the case, Anderson must have liked what he saw.

Improvement is exactly what McGlothlin has in mind.

"Now I realize I've got to struggle for a job," he said.

Pitching Coach Larry Shepard, who never cracked the major leagues despite four straight 20-victory seasons in the minor leagues, summed it up best.

"He (McGlothlin) is going to have to be mean, sharp, deliberate," he said.

Taylor to stay as OSU coach

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State basketball Coach Fred Taylor announced today he will remain at the university here.

He had been considered for the head basketball coaching job at Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill.

Goldlilocks winner of Latonia feature

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — A quinella returned $2,505 Tuesday night as Judge G.M. and Great Pzazz finished 1-2 at Latonia.

Goldilocks was the winner of the $5,500 feature race, paying $6.80, $3.60 and $2.20. Holding last place most of the way, Goldilocks charged in front late in the stretch for a two-length victory.

Realize was second at $4.60 and $3. Dogma showed at $2.60.

Washington C. H.'s track team got first place finishes from a quartet of performers and two relay teams, but dropped a 71-56 decision to defending South Central Ohio League champion Circleville Tuesday on the Tiger cinders.

Storm captured honors in the 100-yard dash with a 10.5 clocking and won the 220-yard dash in 24.3. The swift senior, who placed second in the Central District Indoor track meet at Ohio State last week, was also a member of the Blue Lions' winning 880-yard relay team. Other members of the team were Chuck Wilson, Rick Johnson and Willis.

WASHINGTON C. H. distance star Bob Osborne notched a first place finish in the 880-yard run with a 2:08 time and Osborne was second in the mile run.

Wilson leaped 19 feet, four and one half inches to win the long jump and sophomore Jeff Brown turned in a 56.9 clocking to win the 440-yard dash.

The Lions' mile relay team of Kevin Terry, John Tatman, Gene Lyons and Randy East finished with a 3:53.2 time for a win.

Johnson was second in the low hurdles, Wilson tied for second with Circleville's Moore in the high jump and Kevin Girton was the runnerup behind SCOL champ Tom Frericks of Circleville in the shot put.

The Lion thinclads will travel to Greenfield McClain Thursday.

THE RESULTS

Logan Elm blanks Lions on two hits

Washington C. H.'s hitting attack, so lively in a doubleheader opener last Saturday afternoon, suddenly went into cold storage Tuesday as a tough Logan Elm team blanked the Blue Lions 11-0 on a mere two hits.

Logan Elm's Marshall, a big right-hander, was touched for a pair of singles in the top half of the first inning, but held head coach Rodger Mickle's Blue Lions hitless the rest of the way in picking up the win.

Marshall, who sent a total of 11 Blue Lion hitters back to the bench with undented wood, sparked Logan Elm's 13-hit attack with a three-run home run in the second inning when the Braves erupted for six runs.

THE SIX-RUN explosion chased Washington C. H.'s Greg McCune from the mound after he had hurled one and a third innings, giving up eight hits. McCune, who suffered the loss, was relieved by Leonard Bick, who pitched four and two-thirds innings, yielding five runs on five hits, fanning six and walking the same number. All of the runs Logan Elm managed off Bick's serves came in the fifth inning.

Junior centerfielder Mark Johnson opened the game with a single and All-South Central Ohio League first-sacker Alan Coppock slapped a single later in the inning, but that was all the Washington C. H. batters could manage.

Washington C. H., now 1-2 on the season, is scheduled to entertain SCOL defending champion Circleville tonight.

Reno to head MT mat club

Gary Cobb was selected vice-president, Donald Dunton, secretary-treasurer, and Glenn Cobb, reporter, at the meeting attended by 46 boys. Head coach Chuck Wallace instructed the group on basic fundamentals of wrestling.

The club, open to boys in grades 4-12, will hold its next meeting at 7:30 p.m. April 10.

Callahan to become Baltimore Colts aide

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Ray Callahan, who resigned as head football coach of the University of Cincinnati after a 2-8 season last fall, has been hired as an assistant coach by the Baltimore Colts, the Colts announced Tuesday.

Callahan had a 20-23 record in four years at Cincinnati. He is 40.

Ticket sale open for Ohio-Indiana tilt

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)— Tickets for the Indiana-Ohio College All-Star Basketball Game April 20 at Hinkle Fieldhouse will go on sale here next Wednesday.

Sponsored by Sertoma Charities, the annual benefit game will feature the top senior players of the two states.

Savings Bank, MT Faculty win in Sabina tournament

The Washington Savings Bank, champions of the Washington C.H. Independent League basketball race, topped the Sabina Bank 70-57 in the opening game as Gary Shaffer scored 25 points and the Miami Trace Faculty team, runnerups in the Washington C.H. cage league, popped the Clinton County National Bank and Trust Co. 101-84 behind a 39-point effort from Mike Henry.

The Miami Trace Faculty team had dropped a 79-69 decision to Superior Carpet, of Wilmington, in Monday night's opening round.

In other action Tuesday, Bell's Welding, of Washington C.H., was sidelined as Herb's Tree Service notched a 73-69 overtime victory. Ed Summers netted 27 points for Bell's Welding, which had been beaten by Porter Hybrids 93-74 in Monday's round.

Mr. Nixon winner at Lebanon Raceway

Mr. Nixon, with 88-year-old Morris Nixon at the reins, won the $4,000 feature race at Lebanon Raceway.

The winner paid $17.80, $8.40 and $3.40. Kay Mon was second, returning $9.60 and $3.20. Speed Darnley showed at $2.20.

Detroit boosts elderly image

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Detroit Tigers, a team often labeled "too old to win," reinforced their elderly image Tuesday by acquiring veteran pitcher Jim Perry, while the San Francisco Giants' pennant hopes received a boost by the outstanding performances turned in by veterans Juan Marichal and Willie McCovey in exhibition baseball Tuesday.

Minnesota sent Perry, 36, to the Tigers in exchange for minor league pitcher Dan Fife, who was 14-7 with Montgomery of the Southern League last year.

Perry, the Cy Young Award winner in 1970 when he compiled a 24-12 record, is the winningest active pitcher in the American League with a career mark of 180-139. The 6-foot-4 left-hander, who'll be entering his 15th major league season, was 13-16 with the third-place Twins last year with a 3.34 earned run average. He earns an estimated $68,000 a year.

Meanwhile, Marichal, the National League's winningest active pitcher with a 227-125 career record, took a giant step on the road to recovery from a season of injuries by hurling seven innings of hitless ball as San Francisco stopped the San Diego Padres on one hit 6-0.

And McCovey, the Giants' slugging first baseman who missed much of last season with a broken right forearm, belted a two-run home run and added an RBI single to provide the offensive power.

In other exhibition games, Cleveland beat Oakland 6-0, Cincinnati edged Los Angeles 5-4, Montreal topped Houston 6-4, St. Louis nipped Pittsburgh 2-1, Boston trimmed the New York Mets 3-2, the Chicago White Sox beat Atlanta 7-3, Kansas City defeated the New York Yankees 4-2, Milwaukee downed California 8-6, Minnesota beat Baltimore 6-3 and Detroit edged Philadelphia 8-7.

After Marichal's seven inninngs, Don Carrithers and Elias Sosa completed the shutout. Sosa gave up San Diego's only hit, a bloop single by Jerry Morales in the ninth inning.

Dick Tidrow limited Oakland to three hits over six innings and relievers Ray Lamb and Rich Hinton finished the shutout, Cleveland's sixth consecutive exhibition triumph.

Larry Stahl scored the winning run for Cincinnati in the eighth inning on Dave Concepcion's single. Montreal's Mike Jorgensen and Ron Fairly collected three hits apiece against Houston.

Ted Simmons two-run double with two out in the first inning provided the support for St. Louis starter Jim Bibby, who went eight innings and held Pittsburgh to two hits.

Bob Montgomery homered and John Curtis pitched six solid innings for Boston. Ed Herrmann rapped out three hits and Buddy Bradford hit a three-run homer for the White Sox.

Kansas City's Steve Busby held the Yankees to three hits in six innings in the Royals' victory. Joe Lahoud hit a tworun homer as Milwaukee rallied for four runs in the seventh inning to defeat California.

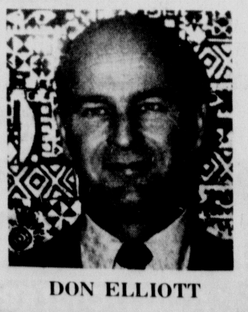

Doubles by Rod Carew and Danny Thompson marked a five-run, eighth-inning rally for Minnesota. Tony Taylor, a former Phillie, had four singles for the Tigers, and the fourth one drove in the winning run in the eighth inning.

A Doctor and His Patients

The relationship between a doctor and his patients is built slowly on faith and mutual understanding.

This structure assures patients of devotion, in addition to the effort to solve their physical, emotional, and, sometimes, even social problems.

A bond that is so vital must, every once in a while, be revitalized so that it never is casually taken for granted.

In order to do so, it is important for patients to project themselves in the lives of the doctor and consider the myriad factors that enter into any advice that he offers.

The doctor and his knowledge represent years of intensive training. Yet he, too, is merely mortal. His own pattern of living presents problems that can be identical with those of his patients.

All physicians have family responsibilities. As parents, their problems are no different from those of their patients.

And illnesses play a role in their lives as acutely as in the lives of their patients.

Emotional upsets and conflicts occur with the same intensity, and demand time-consuming attention.

Yet the doctor is too often expected to be almost superhuman in the control of his own emotions while acting as the stabilizer in the lives of his patients.

One of the great contributions a patient can make in the doctor-patient relationship is to be sensitive and understanding of the pressures on the doctor as he tries to maintain a complete picture of calm objectivity.

The patient has the right to seek relief from his anxieties about illness, in addition to the treatment for his physical complaints.

The doctor's major responsibility is to return his patients to good health, and to assuage the fears and anxieties that are so destructive to the lives of his patients.

The modern, secure doctor is able to say to his patients, "I don't know yet what your problem is, but I will find out." Patients sometimes unreasonably insist that a doctor commit himself immediately to knowing all the answers to all the problems that may arise.

It is often imperative to seek additional advice from specialists before a complex problem is completely understood. Doctors freely seek such additional support, and patients should feel free to ask for such confirmation of a medical opinion.

Open and frank discussion with a doctor about an additional opinion has many advantages. Doctors do not consider it is a reflection on them if a patient and his family ask for consultation with a specialist.

When there is complete faith in the relationship between doctor and patient, the patient asks the doctor to suggest a consultant rather than to find one without the doctor's knowledge.

Then the combined judgment really becomes valuable and the bond between the doctor and patient is solidified.

When any conflict arises between a doctor and his patient it can be clarified and rectified with an attitude of mutual respect. This bond is too vital to be sacrificed by petty misunderstanding.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead - king of diamonds.

This deal occurred in a pair game. At practically every table the contract was two spades, played by South, and the outcome was almost uniformly the same at each table.

West invariably led the king of diamonds, East playing the nine to show a doubleton. West continued with the ace and another diamond, East ruffing the third round of the suit.

East returned the queen of spades at this point, and as a result South wound up with the rest of the tricks. He drew two rounds of trumps, cashed the K-J of clubs, entered dummy with a trump, discarded both his hearts on the A-Q of clubs, and in that way made two spades with two overtricks.

But at one table the East-West pair defended the hand perfectly and South went down two at two spades!

Here, also, West led the king of diamonds but East played the deuce instead of the nine, thus in effect commanding a switch to another suit. West duly obliged by making the obvious hisft of a heart rhough Dummy's king

As a result of this joint effort, the defenders were able to pick the declarer bone-dry. East cashed the A-Q of hearts before returning the diamond nine.

West cashed the A-J and played the fourth round of diamonds, ruffed by declarer in dummy with the nine and overruffed by East with the queen.

Now East put the last nail in the coffin by playing a heart, and there was no way for declarer to stop West from scoring a further trick for the defense in the form of the jack of trumps. So North-South went minus 200 as a result of the inspired defense, and East-West racked up a beautiful top score.

FIFTH GRADE BENGALS

At a meeting March 14, the Jasper School, the fifth grade Bengals elected Garland Fitzpatrick for president; John Patterson, vice president; Kelley Lane, Secretary; Treasurer, Cindy Anders and Teresa Hill for news reporter.

Meetings will be held every Friday at 3:30 p.m.

GIRL SCOUT TROOP

The girls had a flag ceremony for the opening. Mrs. Hixon served refreshments. We took a pattern for a pin cushion, laid it out on felt material and each cut out her own cushion. We plan to stuff them and sew them together at our meeting next week. Tina Anders will serve refreshments at the next meeting.

We discussed our Juliette Lowe program in which we had participated in the Mahan Building at Washington C.H. We had made a bull, a snake and a cat head out of paper mache for our table decorations. We put our Juliette Lowe fund contribution in the cat's head so we could break out Pinata. We did the Mexican hat dance and sang, "Row, Row Your Boat," in Spanish for our part of the program.

Mrs. Hixon baked a Mexican ginger cookie and an almond twist cookie called "Roscoqs de Jeringas" and Mrs. Hanshell made "Visitas," small rich almond cakes given to children who visit another's home during some of the festive season.

Played games until it was time for us to go home.

Present were Tina Anders, Penny Hanshell, Patricia Hixon and Kristin Herdman with Mrs. Howard Hixon as leader.

Bankers called by ITT probers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate subcommittee summoned banking officials today in its probe of alleged U.S. attempts to put an economic squeeze on Chile in 1970 to block the election of President Salvador Allende.

Called as witnesses before the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on multinational corporations were representatives of Chase Manhattan; the Bank of America, and the First National City Bank.

The inquiry is based largely on internal documents from the files of International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. suggesting contacts with the White House, State Department, and Central Intelligence Agency to promote government intervention to forestall expropriation of American property in Chile under an Allende regime.

Physician to locate in WCH

Dr. Kwok-kuen Wong, currently completing his residency requirement at Fairview General Hospital in Cleveland, announced Wednesday his decision to establish a full time practice in Washington C.H.

Dr. Wong is an Ohio licensed physician and will practice in obstetrics and gynecology. He will be located in a new office building at 5 Fayette Center (near the Fayette County Bank) and will officially start his practice on July 1. He has indicated a desire to have a receptionist in the office by June 15 to handle appointments and set up the necessary office files.

According to members of the local medical staff and hospital administrator's office, Dr. Wong is coming to the community with the "highest recommendations."

The physician was born in Hong Kong, completed his internship in Pittsburgh, and has spent the past four years at Fairview General Hospital in Cleveland. Dr. Wong is married (his wife is a registered nurse) and has one son, Kenric.

DONALD P. WOODS, president of The Fayette County Bank and chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Physician Recruitment Committee, and James Dunn, executive vice president, said the project has been a community effort. They expressed their appreciation to the hospital administration and members of the medical staff who have cooperated. Dunn also stated that several local businessmen and individuals have been extremely helpful in the search for physicians.

Dr. Wong first made contact with the community in September, 1972, and has visited here on several occasions to study the prospects for a local practice.

In announcing his decision to locate in Washington C.H., Dr. Wong cited the following factors: he and Mrs. Wong prefer the lifestyle of a smaller, rural community; the community has a definite need for an obstetrician - gynecologist (Fayette Memorial Hospital has averaged 650 births per year in recent years), and he and Mrs. Wong have been "extremely pleased" with the friendliness and courtesy extended by the community.

TRAIN CRASH SCENE — Curious onlookers begin to crowd around the remains of a Baltimore and Ohio freight locomotive which rammed into three stationary box cars at the Millikan Avenue crossing shortly after 2 p.m. Tuesday.

RECORD HERALD

Vol. 115 — No. 90 20 Pages Washington Court House, Ohio 15 Cents Wednesday, March 28, 1973

3 hurt, loss $61,000

Trains roll after wreck

Tracks have been cleared and repairs nearly completed at the Millikan Avenue crossing of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad where a freight train slammed into the rear of three stationary box cars Tuesday afternoon, injuring three trainmen, and causing an estimated $61,000 damage.

Crews from the local station worked until after 3 a.m. Wednesday to clear the wreckage and be in repairs on the badly damaged tracks. An emergency railroad service company, called in from Frankfort, Ky., used two large bulldozers to set the two locomotives and the cars back on the tracks.

The second locomotive of the 50-car freight train was in running condition and was used to push the damaged diesel engine from the crash area after they were set back on the tracks. Six of the cars following the two locomotives also had to be set back on the tracks before they were moved from the scene.

Workmen said the tracks were usable at the present time but further repairs, including laying new ties and straightening rails, are continuing.

BOB BARNHART, Washington C. H. station manager, said no local trains were delayed or rerouted because of the crash. One of the boxcars knocked off the tracks temporarily blocked the parallel DT&I tracks but was removed by a bulldozer Tuesday night and did not create delays.

Barnhart said the B&O train, southbound No. 94 (Dayton to Chillicothe) was supposed to stop and switch to a side track but had apparently failed to do so.

The actual crash occurred at 2:10 p.m. when the freight train plowed into three cars, one loaded with building materials, parked on the main tracks just north of the Millikan Avenue crossing. City police who made a routine investigation of the accident, said the point of impact was about 250 feet north of the crossing.

All three cars were knocked off the tracks and overturned. The through train continued on and finally came to a stop about halfway over the crossing. Debris and engine parts were scattered the length of the track.

ONE MILLWOOD AVENUE resident reported she had seen the train approaching the crossing "pretty fast" and then heard the crash. She said when she looked out her window all she could see was dust. Other residents in the area heard the noise but no one apparently witnessed the actual crash.

The three trainmen aboard No. 94 at the time of the crash, conductor Harvey C. Fairchild, 56, Miamisburg, Glen W. Huntley, 27, Dayton, fireman, and H. "Doggie" May, of Wellston, engineer, all suffered minor injuries. Fairchild and Huntley were both treated at Memorial Hospital and later released.

According to police, Fairchild said the air brakes on the train had failed as an attempt was made to stop. The other two refused to make a statement to officers.

'I'm still here'

In his Pullman Car

"I didn't have time to be scared," said Marcus "Pigeon" Williamson, a "passenger" on a hopper car in the Baltimore and Ohio freight train that crashed into three stationary cars at the Millikan Avenue crossing Tuesday afternoon.

Williamson, a familiar face to railroadmen in the area, was riding the sixth car behind the second locomotive when the crash occurred. "I guess if you're going to be scared of a train wreck, then you don't have any business riding a train," he commented.

"I heard a loud noise and felt a jolt when the train hit the cars, but it didn't feel that bad," Williamson said. 'I've been riding trains for a long time but this is the first wreck I was ever in."

Williamson, who lives near Jamestown, said he makes it a normal practice to hitch a ride on the freight. "I was on my way to Leesburg to pick up some pigeons. The train goes on to Chillicothe, but I was going to get off here."

Will he continue to hop trains? He probably will. "People get killed all the time in cars, but I'm still here," he smiled. "Besides, I don't even know how to drive a car."

67 remain in Red hands

Hanoi frees 49 more POWs

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — The Communists freed 49 more American POWs in Hanoi today, including a charter pilot held longer than any other U.S. civilian prisoner in the war.

Among the men freed were nine Americans captured in Laos. A young Canadian missionary captured in Laos also was handed over.

Two big flying hospitals brought the freed men from the North Vietnamese capital to Clark Air Base, the first stop on their trip home.

The 10 prisoners of the Communist Pathet Lao arrived first, in midafternoon. The other 40 Americans, who had been prisoners of North Vietnam, landed three hours later.

The men freed today joined 27 American military men and five civilians released by the Viet Cong in Hanoi Tuesday. Together with 67 POWs to be freed Thursday, they are the last POWs to be released by the Communists under a repatriation program that began Feb. 12.

Hanoi says the 67 being freed Thursday are the last Americans held in Vietnam. When they are handed over, a total of 587 American military men and civilians will have been released since Feb. 12.

The C141 carrying the former Pathet Lao prisoners had to circle Clark Field for 20 minutes because a T33 trainer had blown a tire on landing and was blocking the runway.

Air Force Lt. Col. Walter M. Stischer, 42, of Austin, Tex., the senior military man freed by the Laotians, told the crowd of welcomers: "On behalf of all of us I would like to thank you and all of the people of the United States of America for making our return possible. Thank you."

The 10 men all appeared in good condition. Two of them, Lloyd D. Oppel, 21, a Canadian missionary from British Columbia, and Samuel A. Mattix, 20, an American missionary from Centralia, Wash., waved their arms exuberantly. Oppel and Mattix were captured last Oct. 28 when the Communists overran the town of Kengkok, in southern Laos.

Ernest C. Brace, 41, a charter pilot who had been a Communist captive longer than any other civilian in Indochina, appeared on the verge of tears as he moved down the red carpet shaking hands with the welcoming officials. He smiled, and several of his front teeth were missing.

Brace, whose wife lives in Atlanta, Ga., was captured on May 21, 1965.

Returnees revel in big back pay

The 25-year-old pilot from Milwaukee, Wis., who was shot down April 3, 1972, did some quick mathematics as he and 31 other men flew from Hanoi Tuesday. It was more than $10,000.

Other POWs—pilots held since 1966 and 1967—have found as much as $100,000 built up in their accounts.

But all of them are seeing only $250 in "casual pay" until they return home.

"We don't want them throwing $60,000 or so around here," said an Operation Homecoming official. "We want them to have it when they get back to the States and are able to talk to their families and figure out how they should spend it.

"A lot of these guys are getting a lot of money. But no matter how much they receive I don't think anyone feels it's nearly enough."

The $250 is spent in the Clark Field PX. The POWs buy double-knit suits and cameras to take each other's pictures, send flowers to their wives and buy perfume, jewelry and other gifts for their families.

Some have trouble with even $250.

"I'm going to have to learn how to spend money again," said Maj. Terry J. Uyeyama, 27, of Austin, Tex., as he bought presents for his wife earlier this month.

"It can be like a candy store," said Capt. Lorren H. Torrleson, 32, of Carmichael, Calif. "You're just so overcome you don't know what really to get. We're not used to making decisions on our own."

The civilians freed by the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese have also received back pay from their employers, but Clark officials were unsure about how much. A Department of Labor man from Washington irons out this for the men.

The military POWs do not have to pay federal income tax on the pay they accumulated. Some states have also waived their income tax requirements for the men.

According to Defense Department records, 79 Air Force men who were either prisoners or missing in action accumulated from $50,000 to $100,000 in overseas savings accounts.

Another 247 had between $25,000 and $50,000. One Army Spec. 5 captured during the 1968 Tet offensive had $25,000 in pay waiting for him.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Somewhere in the United States, 120 former Ohio Penitentiary inmates may hold the key to a cancer cure.

The men were used as live guinea pigs for cancer experiments in the mid-1950's, and Dr. Arthur James of Columbus, president of the American Cancer Society, issued an appeal Tuesday for the men to make their whereabouts known.

The appeal was made after Dr. James discovered 40 members of the test group had developed no cancer.

Statistically, one in four adult males should have developed a cancer, said the 61-year-old surgeon. If none of the research group, or even a low percentage, developed cancer over the years, it could mean the experiment has discovered a cancer preventative, James said.

In the experiment, conducted by James and Dr. Chester Southam, a Philadelphia immunologist, inmate volunteers were injected with live, human cancer cells in the period between 1956 and 1959.

"It was found that even though the cancer grew in the arms for a certain period of time, in every case the cancer completely disappeared," James said.

He said the inmates may have developed a resistance to cancer.

"The crux of this project is what percentage of the 120 developed or will develop cancer. If it is a low per cent, then it might tell us a way to prevent cancer," he said.

If a specific virus can be isolated in cancer, then it should be possible to make a vaccine against the virus, similar to vaccines against measles, mumps and polio, he added.

Different strains of cancer were injected consecutively into the arms of the inmates, he explained.

"The second time they were injected, the cancer did not grow as big as the first and disappeared more quickly. That indicated there was a cross-protection from the different cancer cells."

James said he lost contact with the 120 men because neither the researchers nor state prison officials have kept current addresses.

The men have either been paroled or served their sentences and begun new lives around the country, he said.

James said the volunteers were not paid. "They wanted to do it because they thought they were doing it for humanity, and some had experienced cancer in their families."

Brando spurns Oscar; Liza accepts hers

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Marlon Brando has turned down the Academy Award for best actor of 1972, sending an Indian girl to make the refusal because he thinks the film industry does not treat the American Indian properly.

Brando was selected for his portrayal of the gangland boss in "The Godfather," which was named best film of the year by the Motion Picture Academy in ceremonies Tuesday night at the Los Angeles Music Center.

Liza Minnelli, the nightclub singer of "Cabaret," was picked as best actress. The musical is set in Germany.

Sacheen Littlefeather said Brando had sent her to "regretfully" refuse the award. The announcement was greeted by boos, then by scattered applause as she said the refusal was because of treatment of American Indians by the film industry and by television in movie reruns and because of recent happenings at Wounded Knee, S.D. Militant Indians have held the historic village for 29 days.

MARLON BRANDO

"Thank you very much for this award. You have made me very happy," she said.

This was the second time in two years that an Oscar for best actor was turned down. George C. Scott said in advance in 1971 he would not accept if he won for his performance in "Patton." He won and the golden statuette is still unclaimed.

Brando won an Academy Award in 1954 for "On the Waterfront," and appeared personally to accept the Oscar. He has been nominated six times for best actor.

Miss Littlefeather, who said she represented the Native Americans Affirmative Image Committee, said backstage that Brando "would have been here in person but thought he could be more helpful at Wounded Knee." She declined to answer any questions about whether Brando had

Kent Frizzell, assistant U.S. attorney general, said Tuesday he would meet today with representatives of two separate groups of Indians from Wounded Knee in an effort to negotiate an end to the 29-day-old occupation.

Eckhart appointment faces uncertain vote

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Gov. John Gilligan's appointment of Henry Eckhart as chairman of the Public Utilities Commission headed to an uncertain vote in the Senate today.

The action tended to overshadow a House vote on the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which many legislators contend means nothing in light of recent court decisions assuring women equal treatment.

The Senate Ways and Means Committee, by a 5-to-2 vote, Tuesday voted to reject the appointment of Eckhart. The Rules Committee immediately scheduled a full Senate confirmation vote for today.

Eckhart was two years into his term when he resigned and Gilligan reappointed him to a new six-year term, enabling him to receive a $2,288-a-year pay increase.

Eckhart barely escaped when he appeared before the Senate on his first appointment. The Senate failed to act on his confirmation, letting it become automatic when that session (the 109th) ajourned.

A vote against confirmation, however, would put him out of the $25,168-a-year job. Republicans control the Senate 17-16, with 17 votes needed for confirmation.

There were reports late Tuesday that a couple of Democrats would vote against confirmation. Similar reports indicated that as many Republicans might vote for it.

"I don't know," said Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, chairman of Ways and Means. "We'll know tomorrow."

Gilligan's aides were busy during the afternoon "twisting arms"—as one Democrat put it—to line up support for Eckhart.

Some Democrats, as well as most Republicans, thought Gilligan made a bad political decision in permitting Eckhart to resign in order to get the pay raise and an additional two years.

"It could be though," said one Democratic senator, "that Gilligan doesn't want him anymore. This would be a sure way of getting rid of him."

Maloney referred to the resignation and reappointment as a "political manipulation that does not contribute to increased confidence of the people in their government, and reflects very bad judgement at a time when PUCO

Deaths, Funerals

Mrs. Goldie B. Stuckey

LONDON — Services will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. in the Rader Funeral Home for Mrs. Goldie B. Stuckey, 82, who died unexpectedly Monday morning in her residence on Ohio 56 north of here. The Rev. Forrest Plum and the Rev. Robert Carlson will officiate.

Born in West Virginia, she had spent most of her life in Madison County, and was the widow of Orlando M. Stuckey.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Robert (Jenny Ruth) Stewart, of London; three sons, Richard, of Stoutsville, Elwood, Rt. 5, and Kermit, West Liberty; 10 grandchildren; 2 brothers, Morgan McClaskie, Jeffersonville, and Fred McClaskie, Rt. 1; and a sister, Mrs. Effie Ball, of London.

Burial will be in Lafayette Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home anytime Wednesday evening.

HUGHEY VANCE — Services for Hughey Vance, 67, of Palmer Rd., were held at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home here with the Rev. Ed Sanderson, pastor of the Sugar Creek Baptist Church, officiating. Mr. Vance, a lifelong resident of Fayette County and a retired employe of Midland Grocery Co., died Saturday.

Pallbearers for the burial in Sugar Creek Baptist Cemetery were Gene Mustain, Hayward Johnson, Herman Rodgers, Dwight Martin, Robert Goodson and Gene Donohoe.

MRS. FLORENCE GEIGER — Services for Mrs. Florence Ellis Geiger, 86, of Troy, Mich., were held at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home with the Rev. Cloyce Copley, a retired Methodist minister, officiating. Mrs. Geiger, a native of Fayette County and the widow of Lester Geiger, died Saturday.

Pallbearers for the burial in Washington Cemetery were David Ellis, John, Bob, Greg and Dix Geiger and John Parrish.

EUGENE LANE — Services for Eugene Lane, 69, of Jeffersonville, were held at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Morrow Funeral Home there, with the Rev. Clyde Howell and the Rev. Max Howell officiating. Mr. Lane, a World War II veteran, died in the VA Hospital, Chillicothe, Saturday.

Pallbearers for the burial in Fairview Cemetery were Myron Tyree, Harry M. Tyree, James Smith Sr., Russell and Ted Harris and Gilbert Jones.

MRS. EUNICE SCHWEITZER — Services for Mrs. Eunice Schweitzer, 78, of 29 N. Main St., Jeffersonville, were held at 1 p.m. Saturday in the Morrow Funeral Home there with the Rev. Charles W. Hill, pastor of the Jeffersonville United Methodist Church, officiating. Mr. Schweitzer, the widow of William Schweitzer, died last Wedneseay.

Pallbearers for committal services held Monday in Park Cemetery, Marquette, Mich., were Frank Hoard, Leo Beaduary, Jack McCracken, Leo Brandt, William Burr and William Fetterfoff.

EDWIN BRAMBLETT — Services for Edwin Bramblett, 56, of 732 Yeoman St., were held at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the Ferguson Funeral Home, Van Buren, Ind., with the Rev. Elmer E. Burrall, pastor of the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church here, officiating. Mr. Bramblett died Thursday in Mount Carmel Hospital, Columbus.

Pallbearers for the burial in the Masonic Cemetery in Van Buren were six nephews, Merle and Jerry Bramblett, Ernest, John and Clarence Schamber and Freddy Stuttle. The flag which draped the casket of the World War II veteran was folded by Charles Mallow and Talmadge Taylor of Post 25, American Legion, here and was presented to Mrs. Bramblett. Local arrangements for the services were made by the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home here.

In floor action Tuesday, the Senate passed 28-5 a bill requiring statewide voter registration, now mandatory in 56 counties. Twenty-six counties have no registration and six have only partial.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, said lack of registration in those areas was a carryover from a society where polling place workers were acquainted with all the voters.

Sen. Robert Secrest, D-20 Cambridge, one of those who opposed the bill, said he objected to a provision requiring counties to pay registration costs when it was not needed.

The House approved, 86-0, a bill that would make it illegal to alter the height of auto bumpers more than three inches from the manufacturers' heights.

Rep. James P. Celebrezze, D-4 Cleveland, said the way hotrodders jack up the rear of their autos changes the vehicle's center of gravity and makes them difficult to control.

The bill now goes to the Senate.

The House also passed, 84-1, and sent to the Senate a bill allowing minors to work 10 hours on a day preceding a holiday.

Sen. Ronald M. Mottl, D-24 Parma, introduced a proposed constitutional amendment that would authorize use of higher user taxes for mass transit.

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Renee Risko, 3, was killed Tuesday when struck by a car being backed out of the driveway of her home by her father, James Risko, an Ohio Highway Patrolman stationed at the Mansfield post.

MASONS FOR 65 YEARS — Fred Conner, left, and Glenn H. Brock, center, were presented 65-year pins at the annual past masters night at the Jeffersonville F&AM Lodge 468 Tuesday night by Royce L. Pauley, eighth district deputy grand master, before a gathering of more than 30 Masons and guests. The third degree was exemplified by past masters of the lodge, with David C. Morrow and Russell Hall filling the worshipful masters' chairs. Past Master Lester Allen headed the committee for the cornbread and beans dinner in the Temple dining room.

Legislation, finances sought by regional planning group

The eight-county Central Ohio Regional Planning Study Committee, meeting in Columbus Tuesday night, prepared a letter notifying the governor of the committee's work and asking for enabling legislation making the planning group a legal entity.

The letter also requests the governor to establish regional planning by executive order, and asks that all other agencies coordinate their activities with the committee.

Four proposals for distributing the voting strength among the eight counties were filed for future consideration. All four proposals would give Fayette County six to eight per cent of the vote, with Franklin County receiving between 41 and 45 per cent.

The committee also discussed financing the planning agency through assessments based on population. The authority to assess the counties would be part of the enabling legislation.

Representing Fayette County at the meeting were Carl Janes, J. Herbert Perrill and the Rev. Elmer Burrall, chairman of the eight-county panel.

McCord answers questions on Watergate involvement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Convicted Watergate conspirator James W. McCord Jr. agreed to answer questions under oath today at a closed-door interview with a special Senate investigation committee.

The interview, arranged by the committee late Tuesday, is preliminary to later public hearings on the bugging of Democratic headquarters in the Watergate complex here and other alleged political espionage and sabotage in last year's presidential campaign.

E. Howard Hunt Jr., another of those awaiting sentencing for the Watergate break-in and bugging, was to return again before a federal grand jury today.

Hunt, one of five who pleaded guilty at the start of the Watergate trial last January, spent more than an hour before the grand jury Tuesday. His return indicated he was answering questions, unlike G. Gordon Liddy, another convicted defendant, who refused Monday to answer questions on grounds of possible self-incrimination.

Meanwhile, two key Republican senators urged President Nixon to let White House Counsel John W. Dean III testify before the Watergate panel.

"It's in the best interest of the White House that the whole thing be bared and cleaned up," Sen. John Tower of Texas, chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, told newsmen.

And Sen. Norris Cotton of New Hampshire, head of the Senate Republican Conference, said experience has taught him that it is bad policy to prolong and drag out "some kind of mystery or scandal."

Published reports say McCord told lawyers for the Watergate committee that Dean and former White House aide Jeb Stuart Magruder had prior knowledge of the Watergate wiretapping. The White House and Magruder issued statements of denial.

Nixon has adopted a policy of refusing to allow aides to testify before Congress, citing executive privilege.

Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said Tuesday that a request by two House members to have Dean testify in connection with hearings on executive privilege is being studied. Reps. William S. Moorhead, D-Pa., and John N. Erlenborn, R-Ill., promised that Dean would not be questioned about the Watergate or on anything that would infringe on his confidential relationship with Nixon.

Five persons have pleaded guilty and two—Liddy and McCord—have been found guilty of conspiracy and wiretapping in connection with the Democratic headquarters break-in. Liddy was sentenced to up to 20 years in prison, but Judge John J. Sirica delayed final sentencing of the others while urging them to cooperate in the continuing investigations.

Stolen truck recovered

Sheriff's deputies apprehended the driver of stolen truck Tuesday afternoon but later released him when the truck's owner refused to press charges.

Officers said Charles E. Davis, of 113 E. Paint, had reported his 1952 model pickup truck stolen from the Agrico parking lot, Robinson Rd. just before 1 p.m. Davis said the truck was taken sometime after 8 a.m.

About an hour later Sheriff's Sgt. William Crooks spotted the truck and stopped it at the intersection of Hinde and Temple Streets. The driver of the truck, also an Agrico employe, was taken into custody but later released when Davis failed to file charges.

A 32-foot extension ladder belonging to Sever-Williams Construction Co., was stolen from the Sugar Grove Church, Ohio 41-S, sometime over the weekend. The firm, doing construction work at the church, set the loss at $87.

The coin box on a pay telephone at the Herefordshire Motel, CCC Highway-W, was pried open sometime overnight Monday. Loss of a small amount of change and damage to the phone was set at $46.

"Cabaret" collected eight Oscars, including one for Joel Grey as best supporting actor as the music hall's master of ceremonies.

Bob Fosse, "Cabaret" director, won the best director Oscar. It was his third major award in three days. On Sunday night he had won two Tony awards—Broadway's equivalent of the Oscar—as director and choreographer of the musical "Pippin."

"The Godfather" won three Oscars—for Brando, best film and for best adapted screenplay. The film had been heavily favored to sweep the awards.

Eileen Heckart was named best supporting actress for her role as the possessive mother of a young blind man in "Butterflies Are Free."

"The Morning After," from "The Poseidon Adventure," was selected as best song of the year.

Luis Bunuel's "The Discreet Charm of the Bourgeoisie" was named best foreign language film.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Rain for parts of Ohio is in the forecast for Thursday night following a day of considerable sunshine in the northern counties, the National Weather Service reported today.

Skies remained clear over most of the state Tuesday night and early Wednesday, and around dawn some clouds moved into the extreme southern part of the state. This will spread over most of Ohio during the day although many of the northern counties will have a period of sunshine.

Temperatures during the night were rather chilly and lowered into the 30s and 40s.

A storm in the far southwest moving northwestward and into the Upper Great Lakes on Thursday, will spread some rain into the western Ohio counties later Wednesday and over the remainder of the state tonight. Temperatures this afternoon will climb into the 50s and 60s. Night time readings will be mainly in the 40s.

A chance of showers will prevail on Thursday with continued mild temperatures—in the 50s and 60s over the state.

Rain Friday and Saturday, ending Sunday. Highs in the 50s and 60s. Lows from the mid 30s to the mid 40s.

Thais hijack bus

BANGKOK, Thailand, (AP) — A group of armed Thais hijacked a bus and 30 passengers in northeast Thailand today, forced it to drive to Bangkok airport and demanded a plane to fly them to Peking.

Military sources said about "five or six Thais armed with at least one hand grenade and a pistol" were holding the passengers hostage in the bus at the airport.

Stock list levels off

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices began the day sharply upward but by noon leveled off in fairly active trading as profit-takers moved in after a steady price climb that began Monday.

Analysts and brokers were predicting that the rally, which they attributed to unwarranted sharp declines last week, would continue.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 3.76 to 941.15, compared with the 10:30 a.m. figure, which was up 5.35 to 950.26. Tuesday's close was up 17.01 to 944.91, the highest single day gain since Nov. 26, 1971. Advancing stocks held a slim margin over gains on the Big Board, 635 to 574.

Talcott National, up 3 to 17⅜, was the Big Board's most-active stock for the second day.

The NYSE's broad-based index of some 1,400 common stocks was down .23 to 59.30.

U.S. faces trade deficit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. is facing its second consecutive year-end trade deficit, but a Treasury Department official sees signs of improvement ahead.

Paul Volcker, undersecretary for monetary affairs, said Tuesday that the value of exports rose 14 per cent over the past four months, while imports increased 12 per cent. This, Volcker said, points to improvement in the trade picture, despite trade deficits for the months of January and February.

were conducting an investigation into the cause of the crash.

The damaged locomotive was pushed to a side track between the Court and Water street crossings, and the rest of the cars were pulled away by a yard engine Wednesday after the tracks had been sufficiently repaired.

The three cars knocked off the tracks were set upright and placed on a side track at the crash site. The load of building materials lying in the railroad right of way has yet to be salvaged.

Organist, old-time film captivate audience

The audience at Washington Junior High School was not as large as had been hoped for, but what it lacked in size was compensated for with the enthusiastic response to the performance Tuesday night by Lee Erwin, an accomplished organist from New York, and the showing of the old classic horror movie, "Phantom of the Opera," starring Lon Chaney.

But the sponsors could take some consolation from the increase in the audience from 254 last Thursday night to 410 Tuesday night.

While the children in the audience — and there were many — screamed with delight and terror during the showing of "Phantom of the Opera," it was Erwin's rendition of "Moon River" which captivated the audience. The stage lighting simulated clouds and twinkling stars. It was the work of four high school boys, John Hopkins, Dennis Breitigan, Mike Hughes and Tim O'Flynn. Sound effects were by Scott Lanum.

Erwin was the organist for Arthur Godfrey for 25 years and for "Moon River" for many years over WLW radio.

The Miami Trace Folk Singers — the girls in pastel formal dresses and boys in gray blazers — sang three numbers of the "Moon River" sequences, with Erwin accompanying on the pipe organ and Miss Paula Alkire and Mrs. Ralph Yerian at pianos. The three songs were: "The Most Beautiful Girl in the World," "Close to You" and "Today."

THE CHILDREN in the audience, from the Belle Aire, sunnyside and Cherry Hill schools, were impressed by a special portion of the program marking the 50th anniversary of Walt Disney with the organ numbers "Hi Ho" and "When You Wish Upon a Star."

In the audience were about a dozen senior citizens, guests of the First National and Washington Savings banks and the First Federal Savings and Loan Association. Boys and girls from the Children's Home were also guests.

Don Riber, who was largely responsible for bringing Erwin here from New York, Organist Gaylord Carter from California, the Cincinnati Symphony and Cincinnati Ballet here for performances, said of Tuesday night's entertainment: "Mr. Erwin gave a delightful performance with the artistry that has made him a legend in the field of popular music." Referring to the small turnout, he said, "I wonder where all the people are who complain about X-rated movies."

The proceeds from the programs will be used for the improvement and refurbishing of the pipe organ in the Junior High School as part of the Organ Club's restoration project including a new console.

To safeguard Spaceship Earth

Can it truly be said of mankind that "we are in the grip of a collective insanity that causes us to smash at the conditions that make life possible"? This disquieting assessment is advanced by Norman Cousins, whose record as a perceptive observer of human foibles lends substantial weight to his opinion.

Cousins' thesis is that we are doing our environment grave harm, and that we had better quit being so destructive and "create the mechanisms for managing the affairs of our planet." We had better do this, as he sees it, "if the human race is to continue in a reasonably civilized condition."

The good sense of this is scarcely open to dispute. Over the past few years the American public has been made painfully aware that something is amiss in paradise. In response to widespread apprehension about our deteriorating environment, Congress has been struggling to produce legislative remedies. Also, there is a growing perception that as fellow passengers aboard what Buckminster Fuller calls Spaceship Earth we must join forces internationally to deal with such problems on a global basis.

Cousins seems to be proposing, if not precisely world government, at least a world organization with power to act in such matters. It is a solution that may be anathema to many of us. The fact is that a start has been made, with many nations beginning to collaborate on regulation of such things as dumping at sea.

Perhaps nothing more will be required than a series of firm agreements along this line, with individual nations committed to participating and subject to penalty for non-compliance. But a close eye should be kept on what is done.

If such remedies prove inadequate, more vigorous steps must be taken to preserve our global environment.

THESE DAYS. . .by John Chamberlain

Spreading the property base

John McClaughry, who once tried to outline a program for Senator Charles Percy that would promote home ownership in rebuilt ghetto areas, is a man who won't be pushed out of sight. Frustrated in Washington by the continuing drift to socialism, he took himself to Vermont, thinking thereby to get back among people who believed in self-sufficient individuals. (Not all Vermonters do, but that is another story.)

As a State Representative from 1968 to 1972, he preached his gospel at the small community grassroots. Meanwhile he kept his lines open to Washington, working, with White House encouragement, on an Expanded Ownership Report for the Sabre Foundation. The idea was to present a tissue of ideas to Presidential Assistant John D. Ehrlichman that would help the Nixon Administration spread a genuine property base in this country.

Some of the Sabre Report recommendations involve too much dependence on complicated legislation for my libertarian taste. After all, the easiest and simplest way to spread the property base would be to let people keep more of their own money. But there seems to be no way of lowering taxes, or going over to Milton Friedman's recommendation of a flat-rate, income-tax system, that would still satisfy the myriad hoggish pressure groups in our democracy, so maybe Mr. McClaughry's compensatory intricacies are the best we can hope to get.

MR. McCLAUGHRY is not interested in helping the big corporations to grow bigger in concentrated hands. But he is no enemy of the sort of capital formation that we need to run modern industry. He has a plan for creating government-sponsored intermediary institutions that would provide equity investments for low and middle-income families. He would allow a more favorable tax treatment of profit-sharing trusts. He would completely revise the principle of gift and estate taxation, basing the government's take not on the size of the donor's or the deceased's net worth but on the size of the individual bequests and the net worth of the recipient. He would give all sorts of breaks to home owners, particularly in the lower income brackets. He would require pension plans to provide for "greater vesting and portability." And, to get the whole thing rolling, he would have Nixon call a White House Conference on Expanded Ownership, to be timed with preliminary preparations for our upcoming bicentennial as a nation in 1976.

Mr. McClaughry's program involves making the Internal Revenue Service an even more intimate part of our national life than it now is, which is hardly consonant with the idea that people should be encouraged to take care of themselves. But we have always been a paradoxical nation. The Pre-emption and Homestead Acts of the Nineteenth Century, the Federal Farm Loan Act of 1916, the Home Owners Loan Corp., the National Housing Act, the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, the Small Business Act of 1953, and the tax deductibility of home mortgage income payments are well-known historic examples of government efforts to make people independent of government. We are in the habit of living with such contradictions, and it is perhaps too much to hope that we will change.

I COULD WISH, however, that Mr. McClaughry had reached over the heads of the politicians in his crusade for expanding the private property base. After all, a number of companies have instituted good profit-sharing plans without waiting for the Internal Revenue Service to stick tax-remission carrots under their noses. Some of these companies are among our best profit-makers. Other companies have pension plans that don't cheat those who see fit at some point to change their jobs. In the 1930s I wrote extensively on such property-expanding concepts as the Borsodi Plan for cutting the costs of real estate subdivision. The consumers' cooperative idea is an old 19th century story.

Individuals don't actually need the help of government to the extent that Mr. McClaughry proposes. But since most of them think they do, the McClaughry program will have to suffice until our present climate of opinion changes. It would be nice to think this could happen before our bicentennial year, but it probably will not.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

A suggestion for Congress

In all the stir about the Pentagon Papers, with the continuing argument over their significance which has brought an array of expert — and some not so expert — witnesses to the Ellsberg trial, one tends to think of the Vietnamese War as a private Administration venture.

To put it another way, the documents came from within the Executive branch and reflect various bureaucratic positions. Reading them, one would think that Congress was out of session from roughly 1964 to 1969.

Given the unpopularity of the war as American casualties increased, this represents to the average senator or representative a splendid arrangement. A sneaky President managed to mount a war that eventually had more than 500,000 American troops in Southeast Asia while Congress was looking the other way.

One stumbling block is the Tonkin Gulf Resolution, but the response on that has now become standardized: it was a sudden trick played on an overtrusting legislature.

WELL, THE TIME has come to blow the whistle on this convenient retroactive amnesia. Since it is generally agreed that the Pentagon Papers were over-classified and that the material they contain should — in the interest or freedom of information — be available to the American people, I submit that the moment has arrived to declassify and release to the public and to interested scholars the full texts of the executive hearings held by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in 1964-66.

An executive hearing is closed to the public and has customarily been employed by Senate and House committees when dealing with sensitive security or foreign policy issues. Occasionally — as was done with the executive hearing on the Tonkin Gulf Resolution — a "sanitized" version is released after careful censorship. But such hearings are mostly locked in the committee's safes where — unless another Ellsberg surfaces — they are likely to remain indefinitely.

From 1964 onward there were a number of executive sessions of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. At these meetings Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Ambassador Maxwell Taylor, Assistant Secretary William Bundy, and others death with the senators on a completely frank basis about the bad news from Southeast Asia.

These were, as a number of participants have confirmed, anything but seminars. The senators bored in with hard questions and I have every reason to believe that they got straight answers.

NOTE I AM not saying they got "right" answers. We know a great deal more about Vietnam now than we did in 1964-65, and an honest answer in 1964 may prove in the light of history to have been a gross miscalculation. What I am saying is that the key figures in the Johnson Administration leveled with the senators on the basis of what they knew and believed at the time.

Maybe I am wrong and the record of these closed hearings (of which there must have been more than a dozen) will prove that the Administration did deliberately cozen the Congress. Or perhaps I am right and the record will indicate that, far from keeping key senators in the dark, the latter was furnished with full information and the best estimates of future options then available.

It would also be interesting to read the exchanges between the senators and the witnesses to get a sense of the historical environment of the era.

In any event, the full texts are in the safes of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and there can be no conceivable motive for concealing them from the public.

Let's break them out and discover whether Congress was in session when the crucial decisions on Vietnam were made.

"ALL THIS FUSS FOR A MEATLESS DINNER!"

Hal Boyle . . . Suburbia . . . women's world

By JAMES F. DONOHUE
Associated Press Writer

SCITUATE, Mass. (AP) — A man who works at night and is free to roam suburbia during the day learns quickly that it's a woman's world.

Driving into any small suburban town at 11 a.m. on a weekday he realizes with a little tick of terror that he's alone and awash in a sea of mothers driving station wagons.

All the men are away in the city or in town, tending to their chores. There are some things more dangerous than a preoccupied matron in a station wagon, but they are few.

Even if the suburban night worker stays home in the daylight hours, the telephone is there to remind him of the all-engulfing presence of woman.

It rings. His wife is somewhere in the basement doing laundry or casting spells. He panics, but he has no escape. He answers it.

"Hello," he says.

The worst thing a suburban man can do at 11 a.m. is answer his own telephone. He precipitates a social crisis. He can feel through the receiver the confusion he's caused for the caller, a woman, of course.

"Ah-ooo-er, ah," says the caller. "Is Mrs. Suburbia there?"

"Yes, but she's in the basement in communication with Satan. Maybe I can help you."

"Ah-ooo-er, ah. No. I'd better speak to Mrs. Suburbia."

"I see. All right. Can I tell her who's calling?"

"Oh?"

"Cath's father."

Suburbia wonders, "Now who did this woman think I was. The milkman? The mailman? Something worse?"

The poor woman is conditioned like a machine to expect a woman on a home telephone at 11 a.m. She just cannot cope with a man.

There are other problems. Store clerks, even men, look at Suburbia at 11 a.m. as if he is out of place at best, or casing the joint.

It's 10 a.m. for everybody else. The day is in full cry, full of alarms, challenges and joys. But it is dawn for Suburbia.

Strange children, over to play, invade his bedroom without shame.

True, there are great advantages to a night schedule. No traffic, no parking problems, the daylight to enjoy oneself.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Pollution fighters along the nation's shores have discovered a new underwater sport — diving for litter.

Keep America Beautiful Inc., the national environmental improvement organization, reports that diving clubs in California's San Diego County are enthusiastic participants in a broad-based program to clean up the area's many harbors, bays and beaches.

Thanks in part to the divers, KAB points out, tons of debris have been fished out and many underwater hazards have been eliminated.

Bald firemen safest

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — Shinheads make the best firemen, according to New Zealand's Fire Services Council.

Breathing apparatus should not be worn by firemen with beards or sideburns, the council has told district fire authorities.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Will wife's belly dancing perk up tired husband?

DEAR ABBY: I went to my minister because I have been having marital problems with my husband. It had to do with lovemaking. (He wasn't doing any.) I'm 28, and he's 29.

The minister said he really didn't know all that much about the subject, but he suggeted that I take some lessons in belly dancing so I could entertain my husband and maybe that would perk him up a little.

Do you know of any place in Asheville, N.C. that teaches belly dancing?

WILLING TO LEARN

DEAR WILLING: Not off-hand, but look up dance studios in your Yellow Pages, and inquire. (P.S. Ask the minister where HE got the idea.)

DEAR ABBY: If you have ever had this problem in your column, I must have missed it. It is one that several of us share.

We have a dear friend who talks too much. She is bright, attractive, and has many fine qualities, but her endless, detailed monologs are boring and exhausting.

Her husband is intelligent and articulate, but he doesn't get a chance to open his mouth because his wife always has the floor. If someone else is talking, she interrupts and proceeds to dominate the conversation.

She has always been a talker, but lately it's gotten to the point where our husbands don't care to spend an evening listening to her.

If you or any of your readers know how to reach a person with this fault, please tell us. Thank you, and please don't use my name.

NAME WITHHELD

DEAR NAME: The only effective way to reach a non-stop talker is via the direct route. One of her best friends should tell her privately, gently but emphatically that she really should not talk so much, and give others a chance. And since you're the friend who wrote the letter, perhaps you are the one to tell her. It would be an act of kindness.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you because all the etiquette books dodge this question. Is it proper to tip the owner of a barbershop or beauty parlor? I understand if you do, some owners are insulted.

I go regularly to a barbershop, where I tip the employe. However, from time to time, the owner of the shop cuts my hair himself. I know him personally, and know that he makes a good living from the shop, so I never tip him.

My wife tells me that she runs up against the same situation in her beauty shop where the owners sometimes do the work.

What is the corect procedure if ther is one?

PUZZLED IN PHOENIX

DEAR PUZZLED: Offer. If the owner is insulted, he will let you know it, in which case don't "insult" him again.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "C" IN FORT COLLINS, COLO.: Sometimes the easiest way "around" something is though it. So quit looking for angels and DO it!

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Electronic warning for coal miners now

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — To detect perilous conditions and prevent mine disaster, West Virginia University has installed what is believed to be the world's first electronic monitor system for a coal mine.

Technicians have installed sensors at strategic locations in a mine operated by Eastern Associated Coal Corp. near Morgantown. The sensors are connected through data relay stations to the university's engineering sciences building, where a computer analyzes the sensors' findings and signals any danger.

Ohio Perspective
Too much government, party feels

By NEIL BIBLER
Associated Press Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — The average person doesn't go around violating other peoples' rights, said Kay Harroff, chairman of Ohio's Libertarian Party, but governments do it all the time.

That's why, she said, if she could do any one thing she wanted, she would "abolish the federal government."

And getting rid "of as much government as possible," she said is her party's aim.

"Any law which uses force to violate rights — that law's wrong, it's immoral," she said. "All tax laws we oppose."

But a law that "protects rights — laws against trespass, libel, any laws protecting property, that we favor.

"No one has the right to one minute of our lives or one penny of our incomes," she said adding that government lacks them because "you cannot delegate a nonexistant right." The 42-year-old Cleveland businesswoman heads a party with "very active" groups in Cincinnati and Dayton and "not so active" ones in Columbus and Toledo. In keeping with party concepts, local groups are "free to operate pretty much autonomously," she said.

Active in politics for years — she worked in Barry Goldwater's presidential campaign in 1960, for instance, she finds her chairmanship "a very heady thing, being able to take positions without having to check with somebody."

The party wants to run candidates for governor or senator but may have trouble gaining official recognition, she said "Ohio has very heavy election requirements for minority parties."

Elimination of compulsory education laws and "of the tax that goes to support that state monopoly" are likely to be the party's main Ohio issues, she said. She also wants to erase "victimless crime" laws such as those dealing with gambling or with sexual relations between consenting adults.

She also would like to get rid of state licensing of professional people.

Principles, not personalities, interest libertarians, she said. "It's our ideas that are important." And she said it was easier to work with intellectuals than to popularize the principles.

But "people are very basically Libertarians," she said. "If you have no right to walk into your neighbor's house with a gun and take his money to support education, why should you think the state should do it with taxes?"

$1 billion estimated

NEW YORK (AP) — American industry will spend $1 billion on pollution abatement in 1973, according to estimates of he research and management consulting firm of Arthur D. Little Inc. Total expenditures for capital goods by U. S. business should total $10 billion during the coming year, the firm said.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — They've been holding sort of an electronic bazaar here this week. It's called the 51st annual convention of the National Association of Broadcasters and it is an amazing scene.

There are scores of hospitality suites and information booths in the convention's two main hotels—the Shoreham and the Sheraton Park—and program vendors are hawking their wares at a furious pace.

New technical developments are being exposed, with engineering salesmen pitching such items as an "FM excitor 2202A," a "digital antenna monitor" and a "drop-out compensator."

There also are hundreds of broadcast executives wandering about, braving hard-sell campaigns with a wan smile while expressing hopes the next elevator shows up before the convention ends.

Almost unnoticed in all this when the convention began Monday morning was a broadcast workshop session called "Woman Power: Use It or Lose It."

It was run by a group called American Women in Radio & Television (AWRT). Monday's session marked the first time AWRT ever had been part of the regular NAB convention schedule.

The 22-year-old organization claims a national membership of 2,800 women in broadcasting and advertising, according to Rose Blyth Kemp, AWRT's president, and vice president of a small Los Angeles college that specializes in broadcast education.

The three AWRT panelists, one of them Miss Kemp, downplayed the negative, accentuated the positive and essentially said sex discrimination in broadcasting is slowly on the way out. As a result they were accused of "smugness" by a woman in the audience of both men and women.

Except for that moment, there was little rancor or bitterness in the proceedings. And there was a pretty interesting claim made by one panelist and two male station managers in the audience.

They said that while small radio stations offer a wide world of opportunities to women, few young women try to gain experience with them before moving on to big-time broadcasting.

"They head mostly to big metropolitan areas to find jobs, rather than out to the small stations that could give them some experience in every phase of the business," the panelist, Mrs. Virginia Pate Wetter, said in an interview.

Wedding in Indiana is announced here

Miss Marcia McGuire, daughter of Mrs. Donald L. Callender, of Gary, Ind., formerly of Wilmington, and Willis H. Glaros, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis N. Glaros, of Munster, Ind., were united in Marriage in the First Methodist Church in Griffith, Ind., Saturday at 4:30 p.m. The Rev. Clarence C. Collins performed the double ring ceremony in which two matching gold and white two-tone rings were used.

Miss McGuire is the granddaughter of Mrs. Robert Osborne and the niece of Mrs. Homer McCoy and Miss Marian Osborn, all of Washington C. H., who were present for the wedding.

The bride's father was the late Mr. George P. McGuire, of Hillsboro. Her stepfather, Mr. Callender, gave her in marriage.

Two large bouquets of yellow gladioli and white mums stood in front of the altar which was adorned with two smaller bouquets of the flowers. White satin bows on the pews lined the aisle.

The bride's gown was a white Victorian style in sata peau trimmed in pea d'ange lace. The neck was high with an inset of English net and the long, full sleeves were trimmed with lace cuffs. The attached chapel length train was bordered, as was the entire full skirt, in the peau d'ange lace.

Her matching lace Julet cap was trimmed in seed pearls and crystals and the veil was made of two finger length tiers and two full length tiers of silk illusion. Her bouquet was Amazon lilies, stephanotis, yellow roses and baby's breath with streamers. The bride wore a diamond and sapphire necklace given by the bridegroom as a birthday present.

Miss Susan McGuire was her sister's maid of honor. The other attendants were Mrs. Peter Hatton and Mrs. John B. Norberg, sorority sisters of the bride, and Miss Elizabeth Glaros, sister of the groom. They wore long green voile gowns with large white flowered patterns and long, full sleeves. Headpiece, to which short green veils were attached, were the same print as the desses and their shoes were matching green.

Louis N. Glaros, brother of the groom, was the best man and Mark Stevens, Skip Hector and David Wickland were the ushers.

Mrs. Callender chose a floor-length gown in apricot chiffon with long sleeves for her daughter's wedding, and the mother of the bridegroom wore a long pink dress. Each wore a white orchid.

A reception and dinner for 225 guests was held at the Carriage Club where green and white colors prevailed. Decorations on the bride's table and tables for the relatives continued in yellow and white. The four-tiered pillar cake was in green and white. Guests had dinner downstairs at the club and went upstairs for an evening of dancing and refreshments.

The couple went on a Caribbean cruise to Nassau and Freeport with a day's stay in Miami, Fla. The bride's traveling costume was a two-piece plaid ensemble with a yellow rose corsage.

The couple will reside at Oxford No. 8, W. Hampton, Hobart, Ind.

Also attending the wedding from the area were Mr. and Mrs. Heber Rosher, of Leesburg, uncle and aunt of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Duane Callender, Bradford and Carma, of Toledo.

The new Mrs. Glaros is a 1968 graduate of Wilmington High School and DePauw University, Green Castle, Ind., where she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. She is presently teaching biology at the high school in Portage, Ind. Her husband was graduated from Indiana University and is an agent with the Prudential Life Insurance Co. in Hammond, Ind.

Class donates to remodel class rooms

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Craig were hosts at the meeting of the Fellowship Class of the Bloomingburg Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Mary Foster, president, read from the Upper Room and the Scripture.

The group voted to give $200 to remodel two class rooms at the church, and $25 to the Meals on Wheels program.

Jack Sollars and Richard Snyder are co-chairmen for the Easter breakfast. Assisting them will be Edgar McFadden, Dan Thompson and Norman Schiering. Mrs. Craig, Mrs. Sollars and Mrs. Donald King will secure teachers, and the class will provide lilies for the church for Easter.

"Praying Hands" was the topic of Mrs. Foster's program.

The next meeting will be April 13 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Writsel. Mrs. Sollars will provide devotions and Mrs. McFadden the program topic.

The Kings assisted the Craigs in the serving of refreshments.

Announce engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Ace Knisley, of Reesville, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Toni, to Dan McCoy, son of Mrs. Thelma McCoy, 126 Fulton St., Wilmington, and the late Mr. McCoy.

Both have graduated from high school and Mr. McCoy is employed in Cincinnati.

An August 10 wedding is being planned.

Class completes plans for Sunrise Service

Devotions consisted of group participation in recitation of Bible verses and singing of hymns.

Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Maughmer and Mr. and Mrs. Everitt Robbins. The refreshment table was centered with a beautiful blue dish filled with flowers.

The next meeting will be April 24 when Mr. and Mrs. Milbourne Flee will be hosts.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. McCoy, Rt. 4, announce the engagement of their daughter, Carol Sue, to Byers Wendel Shaw Jr., son of Dr. Byers W. Shaw, 436 Jupiter St.

Miss McCoy, a 1969 graduate of Miami Trace High School, is presently a senior majoring in art education at The Ohio State University. She will be graduated in June.

Mr. Shaw is a 1968 graduate of Washington Senior High School and a 1972 graduate of Kenyon College. He is presently a first year medical student at Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland.

An Aug. 18 wedding is being planned.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Fred James, Mrs. Rollo Marchant, Mrs. Gerald Wheat, Mrs. Frank Sanderson and Mrs. Allen O. McClung were in Columbus Wednesday to attend the Northeast Regional Camp Fire conference and workshop at Ramada Inn South.

Mr. Galloway guest speaker for sorority

Alpha Theta chapter, Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority, met Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Ray Loudner. The program for the social meeting was presented by Mr. Bruce Galloway, commercial manager of Ohio Bell Telephone Co. Using slides and a tape, Mr. Galloway conducted a "Buckeye Q" contest on Ohio history. Participating were Mrs. Jack Merriman, Mrs. Tom Rankin and Mrs. John Bernard. The winner in a close contest was Mrs. John Bernard. All the contestants received gifts.

During the informal business meeting, it was announced that members should bring "Pringle" cans to the next meeting. There will be a meeting Thursday at 7 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Paul Cox for the purpose of making decorations for the ESA benefit in May. Plans were finalized for the mother-daughter banquet at 6:30 p.m. May $5 in Grace United Methodist Church.

The slate of candidates for officers for next year will be presented at the next meeting.

Easter pets discouraged

CHICAGO (AP) — Giving baby rabbits, chicks and ducks for Easter is frowned upon by the American Veterinary Medical Association, which urges parents not to give living animals as toys to children.

A baby rabbit, chick or duck is not likely to survive in the home atmosphere, the association says.

A young child's enthusiasm often results in broken wings and legs. If the animal dies or is injured, it is a traumatic experience for the child.

MISS MARY A. HOPKINS

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice B. Hopkins, 660 Warren Ave., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mary Ann, to Phillip W. Bowers, of Columbus, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Wayne Bowers, of Chillicothe and formerly of Greenfield.

Miss Hopkins, a 1970 graduate of Washington Senior High School, is a senior at Riverside Methodist School of Nursing in Columbus.

Her fiance is a 1968 graduate of McClain High School and attended Morehead State University and the University of Cincinnati. He is presently employed as an outside salesman for the Col-Mer Co. of Columbus.

The first United States gold coins were struck in 1795. The last appeared in 1933.

Two students presented at Taft Hall

Mrs. R.E. Willis presented two junior high students in a piano recital in the music room at Taft Museum, Cincinnati, Sunday afternoon.

Jennifer Cox played three movements of Sonatina Opus 36-number 3 by Clementi. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Cox, Gardner Court.

Cassandra Delay played Introduction and Fugato by C. Harris. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Delay, of near Mount Sterling.

Parents and grandparents accompanied Mrs. Willis and the students to Cincinnati for the special occasion.

A total of over 50 billion empty cans, 30 billion glass containers, 4 million tons of plastics and 1 million TV sets, is said to be a conservative estimate of some of the trash that is disposed of in the U.S. annually.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

THURSDAY, MARCH 29

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Getting what you want — and quickly — may be day's main problem. The answer lies just around the corner. Don't expect it to be obvious, however. You'll have to dig deep.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

An on-and-off day, but you should do well if you stress you innate competence and perseverance. In some matters you'll gain more by taking the unorthodox approach.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Avoid the illogical and close your eyes to the dubious schemes of others — no matter how attractively they may be presented. Let your head rule your "feelings."

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Your management of material resources now comes up for review and, perhaps, criticism. Keep things orderly and in balance. Verify all "information" if you'd stay ahead.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Some detail you overlooked may upset the smooth tenor of your work. Pick up wherever is most practical and go on. Breast-beating is a waste of time.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

You could misinterpret certain situations now. Carefully analyze the job and involvements of the next few days. You could be misled by your emotions.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

You grasp ideas easily, see benefits to be gained where others only note the obstacles. Use your instincts NOW — and go forward.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Many demands will be made on your time and effort now. There won't be an easy way to handle but, with your optimism, originality and independence of thought, you'll find YOUR way.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Don't negate past fine efforts through thoughtlessness. Attend to all affairs in a quiet, dispassionate manner. Personal relationships should prove rewarding.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Don't shirk responsibility. Accept its challenge. Especially now, when a person in authority has already become intrigued with your potentials.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Your public relations accented now, with emphasis on responses to your efforts and presentation of ideas. Curb any tendency toward aggressiveness. Win your way through tact, diplomacy.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

A step in the right direction can be accelerated later when footing is surer. If you do get a wrong start, switch tactics or change pace. You CAN make it!

YOU BORN TODAY are a highly enthusiastic individual, always intensely active, and with an imagination that visualizes lofty goals — which you CAN attain. Your courage, integrity and gift of leadership are outstanding, and you make fine executives and organizers; are also astute in handling finances — IF you do not act too impulsively. You are highly intuitive, and your love of beauty and color may lead you, almost inevitably, into the art world — where you could attain great success. Aside from your talent for painting, your creative abilities extend to the areas of music and writing. With your dynamic personality and love for the limelight, you would also make an outstanding politician or entertainer. Try to curb the intensely material side of your nature.

Food stamp changes to aid poor

WASHINGTON (AP) — An increase in the value of food stamps is in store for some needy families, but others will derive little or no benefit from new stamp allowances.

Changes in the food stamp program go into effect July 1 and will allow a family of four at the low end of the poverty scale to buy $4 more worth of stamps a month.

Figures released by the Agriculture Department, which announced the food-stamp raises Monday, put the current monthly stamp allowance for a family of four at $112. This will rise to $116, but the cost of purchasing the stamps will remain the same.

The Agriculture Department said the increased benefits were being made in accordance with federal law, which requires an annual adjustment to reflect changes in food prices. With these adjustments, the cost of the program will rise to $2.1 billion in the next fiscal year, up about $140 million.

Brandy, as she is known professionally, filed suit in Santa Clara County Superior Court Monday, asking that Trans World Airlines be made to pay $13,200 for the incident she said occurred on March 15 as she was returning from a New York television appearance.

Brandy charged that her collapsible cake, which she valued at $750, was put on the plane in New York, but was missing when she picked up her luggage in San Francisco.

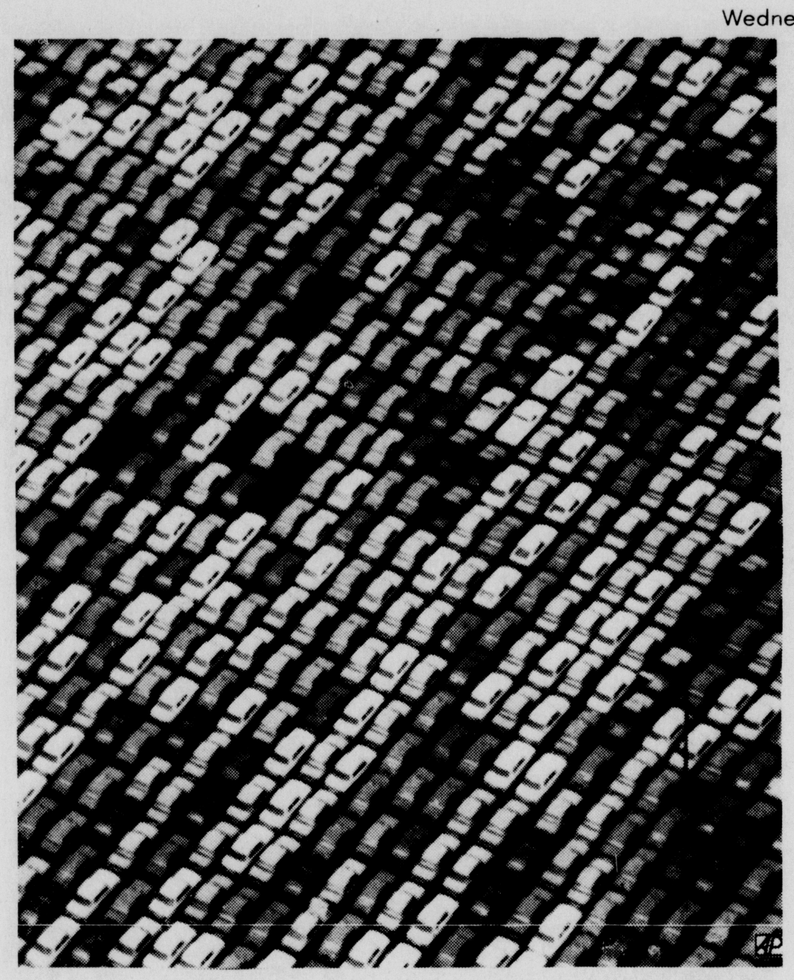

In addition to the price of the cake, Brandy is asking $6,500 to compensate for lost wages from engagements she was forced to cancel, and $6,000 for emotional distress.

Doctor facing audit found dead in office

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Akron police said today that a Bath Township doctor charged with drug violations was found dead in his Akron office by narcotics agents who intended to audit his records.

Police said a scalpel and a razor blade in a surgical clamp were found near the body of Dr. William Rios, 45, and that the death had been ruled a suicide.

Broadcast chief denies any 'deal'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of the National Association of Broadcasters has denied the industry made a deal with the White House to obtain a proposed administration bill that would extend federal licenses to broadcast.

"I don't think any member of this association seriously believes that I or any of our board of directors would sell our free press birthright for a mess of protection pottage," Vincent T. Wasilewski said.

Ohio's Democratic Party plans screening committee

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Democrats plan to name a screening committee similar to one the Republicans have to help select state candidates in 1974.

Party Chairman William H. Lavelle told newsmen Tuesday that his party will not have the same problems, since it already controls three state offices.

Instead, it will be shooting for good candidates for secretary of state, lieutenant governor, U.S. Senate and the Supreme Court, he said.

"I think we've got the best shot at him we've had in any time," Lavelle said. Democrats are expected to blame him for Cuyahoga County election foulups last spring.

Lavelle said he didn't know why Democratic deputy auto registrars complain more to newspapers about kickbacks they make to the party than Republicans did in years past.

"Maybe disgruntled Democrats run to the papers more than disgruntled Republicans," Lavelle said. He said he did not favor any law that would make such contributions illegal.

4-H Round-Up

Officer, adviser conferences set

By JACK SOMMERS
County Extension Agent, 4-H

One of the more important events for 4-H'ers, the annual Officer and Adviser Conference, starts this week. All 4-H club officers have a chance to learn more about their duties as an officer of their 4-H group. Two 7-9 p.m. sessions are planned, one on March 29, at Bloomingburg School, and the second at Washington Junior High School on April 5. The officers need to attend only one of the conferences.

The Officer and Adviser Conference gives the 4-H'ers a chance to learn how to conduct a meeting, take minutes, keep financial records or lead activities in the club meetings, depending on what office they hold. The officers will also have a chance to share ideas with other 4-H'ers in the county.

While the youth are busily learning their responsibilities, their adult advisers will be visiting with one another to discuss important concerns and plan for 1973.

THE TURN-OUT of young sheep judges was outstanding at the Dorset judging contest Saturday. One hundred-fifty 4-H and FFA boys and girls were on hand to judge three classes of excellent Dorsets. Congratulations to the Miami Trace FFA Team that topped the contest. Their score was excellent and the competition was tough.

THIS SATURDAY, 17 boys will be involved in the tractor certification driving test at Jeffersonville Farm Service, Ohio 41-N. The boys passed their written test with flying colors and should do well in the practical exam. To pass the test, they must show their skill in driving a tractor and manure spreader through an obstacle course, back it down a 40-foot alley and return to the shed where they started.

Scoring is based on safety of operation and skill in maneuvering the vehicle through the course. Although we'll be using wood stakes and string to mark off the boundaries, I'm sure the boys won't knock out too many "barn walls" in the 10 minute test.

A NEW PROJECT offered for the first time in 1973 is called "Fishing For Beginners." I think this project is an excellent introduction to conservation and understanding nature. Members who take the project do more than sit idly along a stream with a pole in their hands. They will study the parts of a fish, water safety, fish identification and conservation while learning the basic skills of the popular sport.

Jeannie Anderson, the Key Leaders and I are finishing up our spring organization campaign this week. We hope to have all interested youngsters enrolled in a 4-H group and starting to learn about their favorite project. Thanks to all those who have volunteered to lead clubs and those who have assisted in this effort.

American Cancer Society kicks off Ohio Crusade

Seven members of the Fayette County unit of the American Cancer Society were among the more than 700 American Cancer Society volunteers at the Ohio Union on the OSU campus this week to meet Minnie Pearl, this year's ACS Crusade chairman, and to kick off the 1973 state campaign. The goal of the Ohio Crusade next month is $4 million for research, education and service to cancer patients.

At the meeting from here were unit president Robert E. Minshall and Mrs. Minshall; Elmer N. Reed, a member of the state board, and Mrs. Reed; Mrs. L.C. Johnson, a member of the county board, and Mr. Johnson, and Mrs. Roger F. (Ramona) Miller, 201 River Rd., a cured cancer patient.

Dr. Arthur G. James, a Columbus cancer surgeon and president of the National American Cancer Society, was the meeting's medical speaker. He is a professor of surgery at the Ohio State University School of Medicine and medical director of the Columbus Cancer Clinic. Dr. James spoke on "Progress in Cancer."

Responding to the time worn question on how soon cancer will be cured, Dr. James replied optimistically, "This depends on how soon the American public wants it. The sooner sufficient funds and efforts are made available to permit adequate investigation, the sooner cancer will be irradicated. This is a most intriguing period of time to be working in the field of cancer. You and I should feel proud to be a part of the great effort which is now starting and which I believe will bring an end to the disease that produced much more human suffering than any other one in the world."

Dr. Thomas P. Bowlus, a Toledo surgeon and president of the American Cancer Society's Ohio Division, said: "This was a most inspirational meeting because 80 men and women, cured of cancer for five or more years participated in the event as living testimony that cancer can be cured."

Minnie Pearl, one of the country's best-known comediennes, addressed the audience on a rare serious note saying, "I know cancer can be cured now. In Ohio alone there are over 77,000 men, women, and children alive and well today who guarded their life through early diagnosis and prompt treatment. We can't ignore our health and expect to stay well. It's what you don't know that can hurt you." Because Miss Pearl lost her mother and sister to cancer, she plans on working the rest of her life in fighting the disease to the finish.

WAR ON CANCER — Mrs. Roger F. Miller, right, 201 River Rd., and Minnie Pearl, 1973 ACS Crusade, help kick off the annual Ohio campaign to raise $4 million for research, education and service to cancer patients.

'Dumpy', hard-luck pooch, doesn't lack for sympathy

SALEM, Ohio (AP)—Dumpy the dog may not be homeless for long. Phone calls have poured into Salem over the weekend offering to take in the hard luck stray.

Dumpy was rescued a week ago from a local landfill by two Salem women after he survived gassing in a dog van, being shot by a dog warden and being abandoned for dead.

"He's a determined dog," Mrs. Guiler said. "I think he'll make it."

An Associated Press story on Dumpy's survival brought calls Sunday and today from across the country. Mrs. Guiler, who fielded only a fraction of the calls, said she'd talked to people in New York, Pennsylvania, Florida, Michigan and Louisiana.

"About half of them want the dog, and the other half are disgusted and mad because the dog warden only got a five-day suspension," she said.

The Mahoning County commissioners suspended the deputy dog warden involved Saturday for five days for neglect of duty and conduct unbecoming an officer. The commissioners also ordered the county to use carbon dioxide gassing in the future instead of the exhaust bypass system in the vans.

Dumpy had been thrown in front of a bulldozer after the gassing, but he managed to stagger out of its path. The dog warden then shot him through the chest, but Dumpy managed to find cover behind some trash.

The bulldozer operator said the deputy didn't follow the dog because he didn't want to get his boots muddy and because he was sure the dog would die anyway.

Mrs. Guiler and Joyce Fluharty heard the story later and searched through the dump with flashlights in pouring rain that night until they found the dog.

"Every hair on that dog was on end," Mrs. Guiler said. "His eyes were glazed, and he was nothing but mud and blood. But he didn't try to bite, and he didn't make a sound."

Commodity futures trading involves risks, hard facts

NEW YORK (AP) — In the hectic, risky game of commodity futures trading, factors such as crop reports, weather conditions, government policy, consumer income, eating habits and world trade prospects all figure in the calculations.

Seemingly it is a very real world of hard facts that, if studied and understood, will permit the speculator to forecast accurately the price of frozen chickens or corn or silver or 60 other items up to a year ahead.

But there is an element of unreality too. In only about one per cent of trades does the speculator really want delivery at a future date. He is really trading in risks rather than products; most often he sells out before delivery.

Who does get delivery: Eventually it ends up in the warehouses of processors and distributors who really want and need to buy cocoa, hogs, coffee, bacon, eggs or what have you. Without real buyers, there's be no market.

Producers and processors of commodities trade mainly because they want to stabilize their prices. They are willing to buy and sell at specific prices now—for commodities to be delivered at a future date.

Speculators, who make up the other part of the market, are willing to assume the risk of price fluctuations. They bet that prices will be higher or lower months from now. If right, they collect their reward for taking the risk.

In accepting this risk they relieve the processor or grower or distributor of any doubts about his cost of doing business. He can ascertain expenses months ahead of the time his raw materials are sold or bought.

If you want to probe deeper into the intracies of commodities—and if you play the game you must—you had better be prepared to doubt your intelligence. It can be an incredibly complex game, risky too, but it offers unmatched profits.

It is a market, for instance, that rewarded soybean meal speculators who put up $600 in November 1972 with profits of more than $10,000 when they sold out last month. For $300, iced broiler speculators netted $3,078 in the same time.

Margin makes it possible. With cash on the line being only 5 to 10 per cent of the purchase price—really a performance bond or earnest money—a speculator can develop tremendous leverage. Sometimes it's up, most often down.

There is an old saying in the business that you never buck a trend and that you let your profits run. That is, if you believe prices are going to rise and they fall, sell out. If they continue to rise, stay with it.

Most commodity officials seem to think that about 75 per cent of trades result in losses. Still, those who pick only 25 per cent correctly often make big profits because they jump off their losers quickly and ride their winners.

No surprise then that trading is booming, that a seat on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange costs more than one on the New York Stock Exchange, that volume on the Chicago Board of Trade has more than doubled in five years.

Last year the Board of Trade handled $123 billion in contracts. The Mercantile Exchange produced $66 billion volume. And trading at Kansas City, Winnipeg, Minneapolis, New York and elsewhere pushed the total over $200 billion.

What stocks are to New York, commodities are to Chicago, and both the Board of Trade and the Mercantile Exchange are promoting popular participation. Helping along are some of the big stock houses, such as Merrill Lynch.

The Thundering Herd, as ML is called, might be the world's largest retailer of stocks and bonds but, yes, it is also keenly interested in commodities and even offers a booklet to beginners, "Speculation As a Fine Art."

As viewed by ML, the art may be practiced only if you have $50,000 in liquid assets and $2,000 in risk capital. That would seem to eliminate most people, but there are many other firms that won't ask questions.

Most big stock brokers have memberships on large commodity exchanges, and many, believing that the excitement is here to stay, are seeking to build their commodity business. Other brokers specialize in commodities alone.

Rotarians told of Laurel Oaks progress

Rotarians were brought up to date Tuesday on changes and progress being made in the development of Laurel Oaks Career Development Campus on what once was the Clinton County Air Force Base near Wilmington.

The slides showed graphically the changes that have been, and still are, being made to adapt the 38 buildings on the 400-acre campus to civilian use. They have been converted into classrooms, laboratories and shops from strictly military use. In the conversion process equipment and other facilities have been installed. Wical commented that there are five miles of streets on the campus.

He cited figures to show that vocational education has been playing second fiddle to the academic education and pointed out that of the $20 billion spent in 1972 for education, only 14 per cent went for vocational training.

He said approximately 500 students are enrolled now in the Laurel Oaks school and predicted that the enrollment will be twice that next year. Among them are 135 students from Fayette County. The day's schedule in general calls for 90 minutes of classroom study and three hours a day in the laboratory, shop or office.

WICAL SAID that, for example, enrollment in the cosmetology course is limited to 25 students and that around 500 had applied. He noted that this means the applicants must be thoroughly screened to reduce the number of students to 25.

Twenty- seven courses are offered this year, and this number will be increased to 34 next year. The instructors have an average of 18 years experience in their fields.

Mount Vernon phones out

MOUNT VERNON, Ohio (AP) — United Telephone Co. crews worked through the night on the huge task of splicing thousands of wires, and a company spokesman said the firm hoped to have normal service restored sometime this morning.

Most local and long distance telephone service here was disrupted Tuesday afternoon when construction workers accidentally severed five major cables. A short time later, emergency service was set up for calls to hospitals, the fire department and law enforcement agencies.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A second man has been sentenced in federal court in connection with a plot to extort $200,000 from United Air Lines with a bomb scare last fall.

U.S. District Court Judge William K. Thomas sentenced James M. Binion, 30, of Marmet, W.Va., to two years in prison. He had been convicted by a jury during February.

GREETINGS, MR. PRESIDENT — Mrs. Bruce Bedford, 90, of Princeton, N. J., shakes hands with President Richard Nixon in Oval Office of White House. Mrs. Bedford said she had met nine Presidents and would like to meet Mr. Nixon who invited her to the White House after learning of her interest.

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—A four-block march by Cincinnati meat boycotters will be staged downtown Saturday.

The rally ill take demonstrators from Garfield Park to Fountain Square, according to Mrs. Jan Hahn, a worker for Fight Inflation Together (FIT).

Mrs. Hahn said plans also call for a protest rally at Riverfront Stadium April 5th when the Reds open the season.

Seek federal grant

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The Cincinnati Area Council on Aging has applied for a three-year, $2,248,647 grant for feeding Hamilton County senior citizens.

Night-long arson patrols ease fears of Ohio town

LIBERTY CENTER, Ohio (AP) — Volunteers patrol the streets of this northern Henry County community every night so 1,200 residents can go to bed without worrying about arson.

Families retire each night knowing that four fires have erupted in the town since November. State and local investigators point to arson in at least two of the blazes, which have caused a total of $1.5 million damage, but no injuries.

"I don't know if the patrols have been effective, but they make people feel better," said Town Fire Chief Burdette Spiess. "You can go to bed knowing a patrol car is on the streets."

Since 80 residents volunteered to share patroling the town from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. every night, "absolutely nothing has turned up," said School Supt. Jack Slagle.

The first blaze destroyed the 80-year-old high school, except for the cafeteria and the gymnasium. Then, two fires occurred within a month of each other at the town's elementary school. The last fire in January leveled the community's only grain elevator.

Fire Chief Spiess said the two fires at the elementary school were set, "but we don't know for sure at the high school. A faulty electrical wire is the only thing we could come up with.

"I don't know about the grain elevator. It burned so bad that we couldn't tell anything.

He said investigations of the fires are continuing.

"Everybody is edgy," said Slagle, who now works out of a mobile home near the high school ruins. "Everybody wishes the person was caught.

"As far as the investigators and I are concerned, we are certain it is not a student or anyone connected with the school."

Slagle said, "The consensus is that it is somebody close at hand. We're going on the opinion that it is somebody who has a very bad mental condition."

The three school fires caused $1.25 million damage and forced the relocation of high school students in the nearby elementary school. That move pushed 300 first, second and third graders into four area churches, one as far away as four miles from town.

Slagle said 900 students are now crammed into the elementary school, which has a capacity for 650.

Easing the crowding is as much as two years away when a new high school can be completed, he said.

Slagle, his secretary and the clerk of the board of education work in a 65-foot mobile home on the school grounds. "I work in the bedroom, my secretary in the living room and the clerk in the kitchen," he said. Two smaller bedrooms are used for files and mimeographing equipment.

The superintendent said the trailer has been used for meetings, but indicated the quarters were cramped with more than 10 persons.

Because of school work lost to the fires, Slagle said, classes will continue four days beyond the normal school year.

He said, "I think the fires have brought the community much closer together. Everybody is more aware of things going on than before, and they are more observant of things at night."

Spiess said, "We have been scared—the whole community has been scared. It's just one of those things that happen to a small town.

"You read about it in a paper, but you never think it comes home. But it did."

Laws for everybody

MASERU, Lesotho (AP) — The era of the all-powerful tribal chief has passed in Africa and in some countries they are disciplined like civil servants. A Lesotho government bulletin reported that Chief Tumo Majara was recently warned "to mend his ways and ensure that he does not commit an act of misconduct or contravention of the Chieftainship Act for a period of 10 months."

Speech therapist for area studied

Tentative plans of sharing costs for employing a speech therapist for a five-county area were discussed at the Fayette County Board of Mental Retardation meeting held Tuesday night.

Carl Whitaker, administrator of the Fayette County Progressive School, explained to board members that employing the speech therapist would cost the five counties participating $2,000 each. Adams, Brown, Clinton, Fayette and Highland counties are involved.

Whitaker said the qualified teacher would work one day a week in the community classes for the retarded children in each of the five counties.

It was reported that a five-county council for exceptional children has been formed. Carl Anders, special education teacher at Washington Junior High School, is president of the group, and Paul Grim, special education teacher at Miami Trace High School, is the membership chairman for Fayette County.

KATHY MASSIE has started a "mini Projects" program one day a week at the Fayette County Progressive School in conjunction with the area Extension office. The program includes crafts, cooking and social activities. The children will attend the Shrine Circus in Columbus April 9.

Special Olympics for the retarded children will hold a district meeting in Bucyrus June 2 and a state meeting at Ohio State University June 22-23. The Washington C.H. Jaycees are working on a project for this event of track and field competition for the youngsters.

Whitaker announced the need for a developmental class next fall which will meet 108 mornings a year with 2½ hours of instruction for children ages 3-11. Parents are urged to contact the Progressive School, (335-1391).

Whitaker also said tentative plans have been made for physical education classes for the 25 students in September.

Mrs. Frank Weade, chairman of the board, conducted the meeting, and board members present were Mrs. James Beatty, Mrs. Jane Mossbarger, Mrs. James Wagner, Mrs. Stanley Graumlich and Judge Rollo M. Marchant. Dr. Robert Heiny was absent.

Mrs. Weade announced that the Ohio Association for Retarded Children convention will be held in Cleveland April 26-29. Several board members will attend.

Case dealership will move to modern quarters

Within the next 8 to 10 weeks the Case Power and Equipment dealership will have moved from its present location, 1403 N. North St., to its new headquarters about two miles west of the city on the CCC Highway, John Crummy, manager announces.

Construction of the Armco steel building is under way, with the framework now nearing completion. The building will have approximately 6,000 square feet of floor space and will house the shop, parts department and sales and business offices.

The building, which will front about 100 feet on the highway, is on a four-acre tract which will provide space for parking and display of both new and used equipment, Crummy said.

The Case dealership was established here in January 1969. Since then, Crummy said, the business has outgrown its original facilities on North Street and more space is imperative.

The dealership carries a full line of tractors, tillage tools, backhoes and material-handling equipment.

The chapel choir of Kentucky Christian College, Grayson, Ky., will present a program of sacred music at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the South Side Church of Christ.

The concert here will be one of several to be given on the choir's annual spring tour, the Rev. Charles J. Richmond, pastor, said. From March 27 through April 3 concerts will be presented in Ohio, Indiana and West Virginia. The 34-voice mixed choir travels in its own bus.

The choir, under the direction of Miss La Vern Karns, will present a program which will include such songs as "Go Tell It on the Mountain," "The Lord Is My Shepherd," "How Great Thou Art" and "The Lord Is Coming Back."

Three crashes reported; driver cited

One driver was cited in three traffic mishaps investigated by city police Tuesday. All three involved damage to parked cars.

Damage to the two cars was moderate.

A city school bus was slightly damaged when it scraped the fender of a parked car Tuesday morning while turning from Elm Street onto Washington Avenue.

Police said the bus, driven by Carole E. Aills, 39, of 724 Carolyn Rd., was turning east onto Washington Avenue, from Elm Street when the right rear of the bus scraped the fender of a parked car owned by Naomi B. Waddell, Rt. 2. None of the several children on the bus were injured.

A car driven by Jaqueline D. Boylan, 27, Rt. 2, collided with a parked car owned by John K. Miller, Rt. 2, in the Memorial Hospital lot Tuesday evening. Damage to the two cars was minor.

Jaycee chief blasts rehabilitation bill veto

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Richard "Dick" Couch, state chairman of the Ohio Jaycees, says he "completely refuses to accept" President Nixon's veto of a vocational rehabilitation bill in the areas of mental health and retardation.

Couch said state and national Jaycee members "will be urged to comment and act as to the action of President Nixon in the areas of federal funding for mental health and retardation and vocational programming."

China urges seabed pact on resources, atom subs

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — China has called for development of resources beneath the oceans' floors by an international agency and for a ban on nuclear submarines in international waters.

The proposals were made Tuesday in a U.N. working group that is making preparations for an international conference on law of the sea.

Chinese delegate Sha Pu said the proposed international seabed agency should be "empowered to engage in the direct exploitation of resources and not just handle registration, license-issuing and collection of fees or just supervise and coordinate matters relating to seabed resources."

China appears to be the first government to propose international exploitation of seabed resources. The United States has proposed a treaty establishing an International Seabed Resource Authority, but it would license governments and firms to mine the seabed. Some of the payments to the authority would be used to help developing countries.

Oil and gas are the chief resources now being taken from the seabed. This is being done by private firms licensed by various governments and drilling on the continental shelfs. But deep sea mining of manganese nodules and other minerals and deep sea drilling in international waters is expected to be feasible within a few years.

Sha said that until international machinery is set up to handle such operations 'mommercial exploitation of resources of the international seabed should cease." He accused the United States of jumping the gun on such exploitation.

The international conference on the law of the sea is to open at U.N. headquarters next November.

Showers, storms hit Midcontinent

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers and thunderstorms scattered light rain over the Plains and Mississippi Valley today as wet weather returned to the midcontinent.

Snow fell in the northern and central Rockies as temperatures dipped near freezing. Eight inches of snow blanketed Almosa, Colo., and four inches piled up in parts of Oregon.

Locally heavy snow, driven by strongly gusty winds, whistled through the mountains of the southern Plateau. Flagstaff, Ariz., collected an inch of snow, bringing to 25 inches the cover now on the ground.

Flooding in the Mississippi and Missouri valleys remained a potential hazard to land, homes and inhabitants. Serious flooding was expected along the Mississippi River from the Quincy-Hannibal area in northern Missouri and Illinois through the St. Louis section to New Madrid in southern Missouri.

Both rivers continued to rise Tuesday, and the Coast Guard closed a 200-mile stretch of the Missouri to commercial traffic from its mouth to Boonville, Mo. The Coast Guard said the closing was intended to prevent damage to levees and docks by the wakes of large craft.

It was the first time since 1965 that navigation on the river had been halted, authorities said.

The National Weather Service said the Missouri River is not expected to rise much more than seven feet over flood stage and may crest at St. Charles, Mo., Friday without creating too many addition problems.

Fair skies prevailed from the Ohio Valley to New England and the Middle Atlantic states.

Schedule votes to overturn vo-rehab veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — The crucial vote is likely in the House next week on a $2.6-billion vocational-rehabilitation bill, vetoed by President Nixon to force the year's first showdown on spending with the Democratic-controlled Congress.

The Senate is expected to muster the needed two-thirds vote to override Nixon's veto when it takes up the measure next Tuesday. The House outlook is considered uncertain.

Though both House and Senate passed the bill by lopsided margins, a House move backed by the Nixon administration to reduce it was beaten on a relatively close 213-165 vote.

The measure, a three-year extension of the program that provides grants to the states for the physically and mentally handicapped, was the first of 12 bills vetoed by Nixon last year, after Congress adjourned, to meet the same fate after repassage this year.

This year's bill is $800 million smaller than the one vetoed last year. An authorization measure, it sets the ceiling for the program with actual funds to be provided in a later appropriations bill.

In his veto message Tuesday, Nixon declared that enactment of measures that surpass his budget could lead to a 15-percent increase in personal income taxes.

"If we allow the big spenders to sweep aside budgetary restraints," Nixon said, "we can expect an increase of more than $50 billion in federal spending before the end of fiscal year 1975."

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., chief Senate sponsor, replied that "the President clearly hasn't read this bill and doesn't know what's in it."

He said the vocationa-rehabilitation programs "have proven to be among the most cost-effective of any in the federal government" and added that this year's bill "has met the President more than half way" by cutting $881 million from the 1972 measure.

Decline in livestock prices unlikely to reach consumer

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Many buyers and livestock executives in the Midwest don't think so.

Hog prices at major markets plummeted Tuesday, giving rise to consumer hopes that there may be some price relief. A threatened boycott of the meat counter for the first week of April and the meatless Tuesdays advocated by some consumer groups have added an unknown element to the market, say market operators.

At the Joliet, Ill, market, hogs were down $2 at the opening and sank $4 later in the buying session. Hogs opened $1.50 to $2 lower on the Interior Iowa-southern Minnesota direct market, while Sioux City prices opened $3 lower.

Most market observers said the declines were the largest in memory.

The director of the American Meat Institute, Allen Johnson, said the consumer boycott is adding confusion to the market. "But it's probably more psychological than real," he added.

Johnson said hog prices were probably due to drop because of their previously record level and an increase of supply last week.

Lee Fowler, a buyer for Farmland Order Buyers in Omaha, Neb., said: "The farmer panicked just slightly. They've let the government and the news media scare them a little" and they may have rushed their hogs to market.

Fowler predicted that increased marketing and subsequent lower prices would last two or three weeks.

Meanwhile, meat packers in Nebraska reported they would curtail slaughtering because of lower demand and fewer cattle available.

Raise not enough for welfare aide

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—A raise of $560 isn't enough to change a Hamilton County welfare official's mind about taking a promotion.

Donald Swallow, the county's assistant welfare director, has refused to take over the duties of retiring director Frederick A. Breyer.

"With all the added responsibilities, he doesn't think it would be worth it," said County Commissioner Robert Wood.

The director's job pays a maximum of $23,500.

Key to schools is recovered

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The keys to Cincinnati's public school system were back in the possession of School Superintendent Donald Waldrip today.

Waldrip reported Tuesday a key chain containing the master key was stolen from his home in the past week.

Police said they recovered the keys from the youth who was among several students visiting the Waldrip home on St. Patrick's Day.

Blaze claims 3 children

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Three young children died as fire swept their frame home on the south edge of Lima early today.

Their mother was hospitalized in critical condition with burns over most of her body and a six-year-old sister of the children who were killed was listed in serious condition.

Identities were being withheld pending notification of next-of-kin.

Authorities said the children's uncle, who lived next door collapsed and died of a heart attack.

The fire was reported about 1:30 a.m.

Sheriff's deputies, who were the first to arrive, reported the building already engulfed in flames.

Meigs teachers stage walkout

POMEROY, Ohio (AP) — Teachers and non-professional workers set up picket lines outside the nine schools in the Meigs County Local School District today in a strike over a contract dispute.

Some 100 members of the Meigs Education Association and about 70 workers represented by the Association of Public Employes voted to strike Tuesday night, accusing the school board of "negotiating in bad faith."

The two groups have been negotiating with the board over a 5.5 per cent wage increase and insurance benefits.

$2,000 raise merely maintains an even keel

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A recent $2,000 raise has enabled the Marvin Menzels to maintain last year's standard of living.

"That should tell you something right there," said Menzel, about his raise and promotion to a product manager at Honeywell Inc., the electronics and computer firm.

"Very few people have that good fortune and if it takes that drastic an increase to maintain your standard of living then I think the stituation is pretty serious." His increase comes to about 13 per cent.

Menzel, his wife Dawn and two children live modestly if not frugally on his new gross income of $17,000. While the Menzels haven't had to make any major cutbacks, except for buying less expensive cuts of meat, neither can remember ever being so conscious of money and prices.

Menzel is planning to replace his 1969 Ford — she has a 1971 Pinto — but not before he does some serious comparison shopping.

"I can't remember when I've been so deliberate about buying a car," said Menzel, 29. "It will probably be a trauma."

Last summer they planted a small vegetable garden for the children to play with. This year they plan to raise vegetables.

Recently they tallied their canceled checks for food from Jan. 1 through March 15 of last year and came up with $299. This year the figure was $380.38.

"But we aren't exactly eating like we were eating last year," said Mrs. Menzel, 25. "You watch more closely. You go from hamburger to the roast. You try to figure out where is the most waste by shrinkage or by bone."

Sirloin steak is now a company-only treat and a weekly menu more than likely will include spaghetti, hash, pork and chile. Sometimes she shops several times in one week because, she said, she can't face spending a large sum of money all at once.

A year ago she shopped at only one grocery store. Now it's two and recently, when she wanted to fill her freezer, she went to three.

For that shopping trip Mrs. Menzel scrutinized four full-page newspaper ads, clipped coupons and made three shopping lists. Before it was all over the excursion took two hours and cost $50.17 for 10 bags of groceries.

Bananas were 10 cents a pound where she bought them; 12 cents elsewhere. The beef steak she bought was 99 cents a pound; $1.59 at another store. She got turkey for 49 cents a pound instead of 59 cents and 79 cents at two other markets.

The Menzels do not keep a formal budget but their joint checking account, which they balance carefully, serves that purpose.

She writes a check for everything, even 72 cents to the newsboy.

Both cars are paid for. In fact, she paid cash for the Pinto and insisted that the car dealer remove the white sidewall tires and radio in order to bring down the cost. Menzel makes all the car repairs.

Their decisions to buy are made carefully. They almost always pay cash and always buy sale items. When they bought their Mediterrean-style bedroom and living room furniture on sale, they persuaded the store to give them a cut on a color television and stereo console, too.

Their only installment payment is on the 25-year, 7¼ per cent mortgage on their $32,000, three-bedroom home on the outskirts of Edina, a prosperous suburb of Minneapolis. Though they could have gotten more house for less money in another suburb, they chose this one in what she calls the "poor man's end of Edina" so the children could go to the area's good schools.

The Menzels have a simple lifestyle, centered around the Lutheran church and their family. They do not drink or smoke.

She has no ambition to have a large house, a swimming pool or membership in the country club, not far from their home. Her most expensive dress cost $40, a purchase she feels guilty about but she rationalizes that she has worn it frequently.

He needs a new suit, a $150 expenditure, and possibly he would like a pool table for their basement recreation room. He will buy the suit. The pool table he can do without.

They do most of the repairs on their home. They remodeled the kitchen for about $1,000, which included the purchase price of a garbage disposal and dishwasher. They had the linoleum floor laid professionally, though they took up the old carpet and did the sanding themselves.

Kristine, 5, attends a morning nursery school which costs $21 a month but so far most of the children's expenses are small. Swimming lessons for Scott, 7, at a municipal pool are only $3 for a course.

One thing she refuses to compromise on is shoes. Scott's cost $17; Kristine's, $15.

Garage sales are big business on the street of pastel-colored ranch-style homes and Mrs. Menzel often buys clothes for the children from neighbors. A winter coat for Scott cost $4. She also got an eight-year-old sewing machine for $50 and she makes some of the children's clothes on it.

She tries to convey good spending habits to the children. When Kristine wants to pick out four packages of candy for her birthday party, she makes her choose only three. She resists the temptation to let the children add items to the grocery cart.

For entertainment, the Menzels go to a movie about once every two months at $2.75 per ticket. This year they have gone to several hockey games on a friend's season tickets. At Christmas they saw the play, "I Do, I Do," at a dinner theater for $8 each. She goes to a ceramics class on Tuesdays which costs $1.50; and to Bible class on Wednesday which costs nothing. Baby sitters are $1 an hour when a neighbor is not available.

Menzel saves through a stock option plan which allows him to buy up to 12 per cent of his salary in Honeywell stock at a reduction. When the stock goes up in price, he sells it and uses that money for major cash expenditures, such as insurance premiums. Each month he also automatically buys a $25 savings bond for the children's education.

By the end of the year, they may have $1,000 left in savings, not counting the savings bonds.

On last year's vacation they went to visit her parents in Louisville, Ky. This year when Menzel has a business trip to California he plans to take the family to Disneyland.

A deeply religious couple, the Menzels give close to 10 per cent of their income to the church or the various causes that come to their attention. Two weeks ago, a man in church took up a collection for the Indians at Wounded Knee, S.D. Menzel gave $8, every penny in his pocket.

All things considered the Menzels think the cost of living increase may have come along at a time to make them think twice about their spending habits.

"It's probably been a good side effect on the cost of living increase — an increased awareness of how you are spending your money," Menzel said. "We are fortunate in not having to make any major adjustments, to some one as fortunate as we are it could be a blessing. For someone who is on a not too much lower income level than we are, I see nothing but disadvantages ...

WORLD'S BIGGEST KING — Taufa'ahau Tupou IV, seated along with members of the royal family, is the world's biggest king who rules its smallest kingdom, Tonga. King Taufa'ahua, the latest of a royal line dating back a thousand years, wants to unite China, Japan, Southeast Asia and Tonga in a super alliance. "If we don't see this as the ultimate aim," the kind said, "disunity will continue to the state where something really dangerous might happen."

$5,750 ham sets record

At the Future Farmers of America Ham and Bacon auction Monday night, Catalano bought a 12¾-pound ham for $5,750, or $451 per pound.

Buck victory clouds NBA's playoff slate

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers could have made it simple by winning. Instead the Milwaukee Bucks put the National Basketball Association Western Conference playoffs in a mess.

After trailing by 11 points in the first half and nine with eight minutes to play, the Bucks ruined the playoff schedule by coming back to edge the Lakers 85-84 Tuesday night for their 14th consecutive victory, the best ever NBA season-ending winning streak.

The victory wound up Milwaukee's regular season 60-22 and split the season series with the Lakers at 3-3.

Los Angeles is now 59-22 and a victory in their final game tonight over Golden State would leave the Pacific Division champion Lakers with the same season mark as the Bucks—and force a pre-playoff contest Friday night at Milwaukee to determine the best conference record.

At stake is the conference title, home court playoff advantage and the playoff pairings.

Oscar Robertson scored 25 points and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar 24 for Milwaukee while Jim McMillian got 32 for the Lakers, who compiled their lowest point total of the season.

In other NBA games Tuesday night, the Chicago Bulls defeated the Cleveland Cavaliers 121-105; the Detroit Pistons smashed the Baltimore Bullets 112-98; the Boston Celtics tripped the Atlanta Hawks 117-110 and the Houston Rockets stopped the Buffulo Braves 121-111.

In the American Basketball Association, the Utah Stars turned back the Denver Rockets 115-109 and the Indiana Pacers turned back the San Diego Conquistadors 110-107.

Chet Walker and Bob Love combined for 24 points in the third period and drove the Bulls past the Cavaliers. Walker, who finished with 30 points, and Love, who scored 23, ended up with nearly 3,500 points between them for the season.

Dave Bing and Bob Lanier combined for 54 points as Detroit beat sluggish Baltimore. With Bing scoring 10 of his 30 points in the third quarter, the Pistons moved into a 84-68 lead going into the final period. Lanier, who had 24 points, helped Detorit forge a 54-50 halftime lead.

Boston ended its regular season domination over Atlanta by beating the Hawks for the fifth time in six games. John Havlicek had 29 points for the winners while Atlanta's Pete Maravich led all scorers with 30.

WCH cager in state contest

Another Washington C. H. youngster has earned a berth in the state finals of the Sertoma Charities free throw shooting contest.

Brent Knisley, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Knisley, CCC-Highway-E, finished second in the district free throw shooting contest held at Canal Winchester last weekend and gained a spot in the state contest which will be held at the annual Ohio-Indiana college all-star basketball April 21 at St. John Arena on the Ohio State University campus.

The youth, who joins Bill Hanners, last year's winner, and Randy Jamison as those who have earned state free throw shooting spots, hit 19 of 25 in the district contest in which nine other boys participated. He won the local contest, hitting 20 of 25 free throws.

HONDA MOTORCYCLE TEAM — Dick Runyon (right) Rt. 3, Washington C. H. and Tim Murphy participated in the Springfield Motorcycle Club's AMA-sanctioned motocross race held last weekend in Cedarville. Runyon and Murphy, who were sponsored in the race by the Honda Sports Center in Washington C. H., finished fourth in the first heat which included two professional riders of the 25 entries, but did not finish in the second heat because of a mechanical failure in their XL-250 Honda.

Two records shattered

Injuries plague MT in track lidlifter

Injuries hampered Miami Trace's track team in its season opener Tuesday night against South Central Ohio League buddy Hillsboro and always-tough Springfield Northeastern on the Panther cinderpaths.

Head coach Chuck Wallace's Panthers had nine of its first-line competitors who could not take part in the triangular meet because of sickness or injuries and Miami Trace could not enter two events due to injuries.

SCOL toughie Hillsboro won the meet with 74 points, followed by Springfield Northeastern with 60 and Miami Trace with 25.

TWO MIAMI Trace High School home track records tumbled during the meet as Mark Fehring his 12 feet, six inches in the pole vault to snap the record held by Lusher, of Chillicothe, and Thomas, of Jonathan Alder, of 12 feet.

Jim Buck, of Hillsboro, also set a new home track standard in the 880-yard run with a 2:03.3 finish, breaking the mark held by Washington C.H.'s Bob Osborne of 2:06.3 set a year ago.

Senior co-captain Gardner Cobb was the only Miami Trace trackster to notch a first-place finish in the meet as he won the 440-yard dash in 55.0.

Dennis Dalton placed second in the 100-yard dash, Cobb was the runnerup in the 220-yard dash and Ernie Perry was second in the two-mile run.

The Panthers will travel to Wilmington Thursday.

Jim McGlothlin may start

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds' varsity squad played second fiddle to the B team Tuesday. And before they day was over manager Sparky Anderson found a noteworthy stand-in.

Anderson passed up a trip with the Reds regulars to watch the progress of Jim McGlothlin, who has been thrust into a crucial role now that ace pitcher Gary Nolan is out indefinitely.

Anderson got what he went to see.

McGlothlin, who didn't figure in the Reds' rotation until Nolan developed arm problems last week, became Cincinnati's first hurler to go eight innings this spring with a sparkling six-hit effort.

The red-headed Californian allowed an unearned run in the seventh inning of a 4-1 victory and walked none.

"I've got my chance now and I've got to take advantage of it," said McGlothlin.

Anderson has said improved pitching will play the biggest part in the Reds winning a second straight National League baseball title.

If that's the case, Anderson must have liked what he saw.

Improvement is exactly what McGlothlin has in mind.

"Now I realize I've got to struggle for a job," he said.

Pitching Coach Larry Shepard, who never cracked the major leagues despite four straight 20-victory seasons in the minor leagues, summed it up best.

"He (McGlothlin) is going to have to be mean, sharp, deliberate," he said.

Taylor to stay as OSU coach

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State basketball Coach Fred Taylor announced today he will remain at the university here.

He had been considered for the head basketball coaching job at Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill.

Goldilocks winner of Latonia feature

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — A quinella returned $2,505 Tuesday night as Judge G.M. and Great Pzazz finished 1-2 at Latonia.

Goldilocks was the winner of the $5,500 feature race, paying $6.80, $3.60 and $2.20. Holding last place most of the way, Goldilocks charged in front late in the stretch for a two-length victory.

Realize was second at $4.60 and $3. Dogma showed at $2.60.

Callahan to become Baltimore Colts aide

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Ray Callahan, who resigned as head football coach of the University of Cincinnati after a 2-8 season last fall, has been hired as an assistant coach by the Baltimore Colts, the Colts announced Tuesday.

Callahan had a 20-23 record in four years at Cincinnati. He is 40.

Ticket sale open for Ohio-Indiana tilt

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)— Tickets for the Indiana-Ohio College All-Star Basketball Game April 20 at Hinkle Fieldhouse will go on sale here next Wednesday.

Sponsored by Sertoma Charities, the annual benefit game will feature the top senior players of the two states.

Savings Bank, MT Faculty win in Sabina tournament

The Washington Savings Bank, champions of the Washington C.H. Independent League basketball race, topped the Sabina Bank 70-57 in the opening game as Gary Shaffer scored 25 points and the Miami Trace Faculty team, runnerups in the Washington C.H. cage league, popped the Clinton County National Bank and Trust Co. 101-84 behind a 39-point effort from Mike Henry.

The Miami Trace Faculty team had dropped a 79-69 decision to Superior Carpet, of Wilmington, in Monday night's opening round.

In other action Tuesday, Bell's Welding, of Washington C.H., was sidelined as Herb's Tree Service notched a 73-69 overtime victory. Ed Summers netted 27 points for Bell's Welding, which had been beaten by Porter Hybrids 93-74 in Monday's round.

Washington C. H.'s track team got first place finishes from a quartet of performers and two relay teams, but dropped a 71-56 decision to defending South Central Ohio League champion Circleville Tuesday on the Tiger cinders.

Storm captured honors in the 100-yard dash with a 10.5 clocking and won the 220-yard dash in 24.3. The swift senior, who placed second in the Central District Indoor track meet at Ohio State last week, was also a member of the Blue Lions' winning 880-yard relay team. Other members of the team were Chuck Wilson, Rick Johnson and Willis.

WASHINGTON C. H. distance star Bob Osborne notched a first place finish in the 880-yard run with a 2:08 time and Osborne was second in the mile run.

Wilson leaped 19 feet, four and one half inches to win the long jump and sophomore Jeff Brown turned in a 56.9 clocking to win the 440-yard dash.

The Lions' mile relay team of Kevin Terry, John Tatman, Gene Lyons and Randy East finished with a 3:53.2 time for a win.

Johnson was second in the low hurdles, Wilson tied for second with Circleville's Moore in the high jump and Kevin Girton was the runnerup behind SCOL champ Tom Frericks of Circleville in the shot put.

The Lion thinclads will travel to Greenfield McClain Thursday.

Mr. Nixon winner at Lebanon Raceway

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — It was Win with Nixons Night at Lebanon Raceway Tuesday night.

Mr. Nixon, with 88-year-old Morris Nixon at the reins, won the $4,000 feature race at Lebanon Raceway.

The winner paid $17.80, $8.40 and $3.40. Kay Mon was second, returning $9.60 and $3.20. Speed Darnley showed at $2.20.

Logan Elm blanks Lions on two hits

Washington C. H.'s hitting attack, so lively in a doubleheader opener last Saturday afternoon, suddenly went into cold storage Tuesday as a tough Logan Elm team blanked the Blue Lions 11-0 on a mere two hits.

Logan Elm's Marshall, a big right-hander, was touched for a pair of singles in the top half of the first inning, but held head coach Rodger Mickle's Blue Lions hitless the rest of the way in picking up the win.

Marshall, who sent a total of 11 Blue Lion hitters back to the bench with undented wood, sparked Logan Elm's 13-hit attack with a three-run home run in the second inning when the Braves erupted for six runs.

THE SIX-RUN explosion chased Washington C. H.'s Greg McCune from the mound after he had hurled one and a third innings, giving up eight hits. McCune, who suffered the loss, was relieved by Leonard Bick, who pitched four and two-thirds innings, yielding five runs on five hits, fanning six and walking the same number. All of the runs Logan Elm managed off Bick's serves came in the fifth inning.

Junior centerfielder Mark Johnson opened the game with a single and All-South Central Ohio League first-sacker Alan Coppock slapped a single later in the inning, but that was all the Washington C. H. batters could manage.

Washington C. H., now 1-2 on the season, is scheduled to entertain SCOL defending champion Circleville tonight.

Reno to head MT mat club

Gary Cobb was selected vice-president, Donald Dunton, secretary-treasurer, and Glenn Cobb, reporter, at the meeting attended by 46 boys. Head coach Chuck Wallace instructed the group on basic fundamentals of wrestling.

The club, open to boys in grades 4-12, will hold its next meeting at 7:30 p.m. April 10.

Detroit boosts elderly image

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Detroit Tigers, a team often labeled "too old to win," reinforced their elderly image Tuesday by acquiring veteran pitcher Jim Perry, while the San Francisco Giants' pennant hopes received a boost by the outstanding performances turned in by veterans Juan Marichal and Willie McCovey in exhibition baseball Tuesday.

Minnesota sent Perry, 36, to the Tigers in exchange for minor league pitcher Dan Fife, who was 14-7 with Montgomery of the Southern League last year.

Perry, the Cy Young Award winner in 1970 when he compiled a 24-12 record, is the winningest active pitcher in the American League with a career mark of 180-139. The 6-foot-4 left-hander, who'll be entering his 15th major league season, was 13-16 with the third-place Twins last year with a 3.34 earned run average. He earns an estimated $68,000 a year.

Meanwhile, Marichal, the National League's winningest active pitcher with a 227-125 career record, took a giant step on the road to recovery from a season of injuries by hurling seven innings of hitless ball as San Francisco stopped the San Diego Padres on one hit 6-0.

And McCovey, the Giants' slugging first baseman who missed much of last season with a broken right forearm, belted a two-run home run and added an RBI single to provide the offensive power.

In other exhibition games, Cleveland beat Oakland 6-0, Cincinnati edged Los Angeles 5-4, Montreal topped Houston 6-4, St. Louis nipped Pittsburgh 2-1, Boston trimmed the New York Mets 3-2, the Chicago White Sox beat Atlanta 7-3, Kansas City defeated the New York Yankees 4-2, Milwaukee downed California 8-6, Minnesota beat Baltimore 6-3 and Detroit edged Philadelphia 8-7.

After Marichal's seven inninngs, Don Carrithers and Elias Sosa completed the shutout. Sosa gave up San Diego's only hit, a bloop single by Jerry Morales in the ninth inning.

Dick Tidrow limited Oakland to three hits over six innings and relievers Ray Lamb and Rich Hinton finished the shutout, Cleveland's sixth consecutive exhibition triumph.

Larry Stahl scored the winning run for Cincinnati in the eighth inning on Dave Concepcion's single. Montreal's Mike Jorgensen and Ron Fairly collected three hits apiece against Houston.

Ted Simmons two-run double with two out in the first inning provided the support for St. Louis starter Jim Bibby, who went eight innings and held Pittsburgh to two hits.

Bob Montgomery homered and John Curtis pitched six solid innings for Boston. Ed Herrmann rapped out three hits and Buddy Bradford hit a three-run homer for the White Sox.

Kansas City's Steve Busby held the Yankees to three hits in six innings in the Royals' victory. Joe Lahoud hit a tworun homer as Milwaukee rallied for four runs in the seventh inning to defeat California.

Doubles by Rod Carew and Danny Thompson marked a five-run, eighth-inning rally for Minnesota. Tony Taylor, a former Phillie, had four singles for the Tigers, and the fourth one drove in the winning run in the eighth inning.

U. S. Navy Air Atlantic Fleet Band

Students, faculty hear Navy band

By LORA BROOKS

Students and faculty members at Miami Trace High School enjoyed an assembly recently presented by Ambassador, the unit band of the Naval Air Atlantic Fleet stationed at Norfolk, Virginia, and directed by Chief Earl Benge.

Fly in the Soup, a smaller rock band, also played. The latter was held by singer Tom Dale who also played trombone in the Ambassador.

The program began with a tune called "Heat." Then a trumpet trio played "Bugler's Holiday," which is frequently heard on WCHO. After painist Greg Duncan sang "God Bless the Child," Fly in the Soup entertained by playing "Lucretia" and "I Believe in Music." Almost all of the band members played at least two instruments.

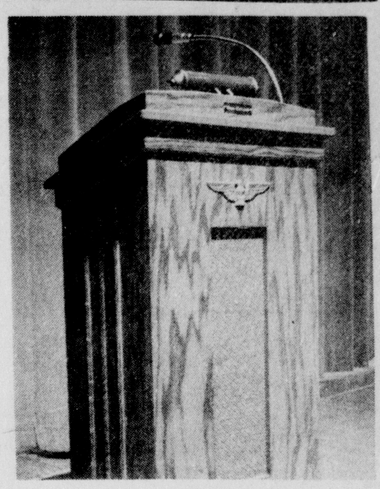

Two favorites closed the assembly. Don Ward played the trumpet lead in "MacArthur Park," and the Ambassadors concluded with their version of a medley from the ever-popular "Jesus Christ Superstar."

All the performers were available afterward in the music department to any band students wishing to speak to them before they left. The group has been all over the world and is currently touring the United States. It was in Central Ohio until March 27, when it went to Milwaukee.

New podium donated for MT auditorium

By BARBARA MARVIN

In 1971, the graduating class decided to make a contribution toward the purchase of a podium to be used in the high school auditorium as its gift to Miami Trace High School. The fund was completed last year with money donated by the class of 1972.

Made of solid oak, the podium is embellished with an eagle emblem and contains a podium light and a built-in sound system. Principal Curtis E. Fleisher commented that one advantage of this sound system is that it can be used for small groups such as a PTO in the auditorium and cafeteria as a substitute for the more complicated systems in these rooms. The podium is simple to operate and easy to store, as it is on castors.

Miami Trace High School would like to thank the classes of 1971 and 1972 for their generous donation. A plate has been placed on the front of the podium giving credit to these classes.

State completes work on new travel booklet

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state Department of Economic and Community Development has finished work on a 64-page travel guide to Ohio.

Some 800,000 copies have been printed at a total cost of between $120,000 and $160,000. It will be distributed at travel information centers and roadside rest stops.

Iron-steel design seminar scheduled

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The American Iron and Steel Institute will sponsor a design seminar here Thursday the institute announced today.

The seminar will include presentations by five speakers, and exhibits of steel products and architechural designs.

VICKI WICKENSIMER

LYNNE RAPP

Seniors of week

By EMILY BEAL

Vicki Wickensimer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Wickensimer, Rt. 2, Washington C. H. She is an active member of several clubs, including serving as historian of Future Nurses and being a member of FHA, Bowling Club, AFS and senior choir.

Vicki also works in the high school office first period. Besides her school activities, she is president of the Stitch and Stew 4-H Club and vice president for personnel in the Junior Achievement program.

In her spare time, Vicki sews, draws, and bowls. Senior homemaking is her favorite course this year. Although her plans for next year are still indefinite, she feels, "I will miss seeing my friends the most. I really missed them last year when I lived in New Jersey, and I'm glad I got to move back this year so I can graduate with them."

LYNNE RAPP, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Rapp, is another active senior. She is assistant head majorette, secretary of marching band, secretary of AFS, treasurer of FTA and a member of Y-Teens. Currently she is a dancer in "Guys and Dolls." On Wednesday mornings, Lynne reads the announcements.

As a nine-year 4-H member, Lynne belongs to the Country Cousins and Marion Marvels 4-H Clubs. She attends the Bloomingburg Methodist Church, where she is a member of the UMYF. Her many hobbies include water skiing, swimming, sewing, watching football and basketball games, and twirling her baton. She lives on Bloomingburg-New Holland Road.

"It's really great to be a senior, but the year has gone too fast," is the way Lynne sums up this year. Next fall she will attend Ohio State University.

New trophy case eyed by MT club

By RANDY KIRK

On March 20 the Varisty M club was brought to order by President Jeff Spears. The advisor, Mr. Charles Wallace, and the Varsity M members unanimously decided to build a new trophy case beside the coat check room.

A committee consisting of Gardner Cobb, Glenn Gifford, Tony Grooms, Muff Jones, and Jeff Spears was appointed to contact the Sever Williams Construction Co., the firm which constructed the school, for an estimate on the cost of materials and labor.

Lillian Gish's papers, given to the manuscript collection of the Library of Congress, show that she carefully annotated her scripts to achieve precisely the effects she wanted.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A Doctor and His Patients

The relationship between a doctor and his patients is built slowly on faith and mutual understanding.

This structure assures patients of devotion, in addition to the effort to solve their physical, emotional, and, sometimes, even social problems.

A bond that is so vital must, every once in a while, be revitalized so that it never is casually taken for granted.

In order to do so, it is important for patients to project themselves in the lives of the doctor and consider the myriad factors that enter into any advice that he offers.

The doctor and his knowledge represent years of intensive training. Yet he, too, is merely mortal. His own pattern of living presents problems that can be identical with those of his patients.

All physicians have family responsibilities. As parents, their problems are no different from those of their patients.

And illnesses play a role in their lives as acutely as in the lives of their patients.

Emotional upsets and conflicts occur with the same intensity, and demand time-consuming attention.

Yet the doctor is too often expected to be almost superhuman in the control of his own emotions while acting as the stabilizer in the lives of his patients.

One of the great contributions a patient can make in the doctor-patient relationship is to be sensitive and understanding of the pressures on the doctor as he tries to maintain a complete picture of calm objectivity.

The patient has the right to seek relief from his anxieties about illness, in addition to the treatment for his physical complaints.

The doctor's major responsibility is to return his patients to good health, and to assuage the fears and anxieties that are so destructive to the lives of his patients.

The modern, secure doctor is able to say to his patients, "I don't know yet what your problem is, but I will find out." Patients sometimes unreasonably insist that a doctor commit himself immediately to knowing all the answers to all the problems that may arise.

It is often imperative to seek additional advice from specialists before a complex problem is completely understood. Doctors freely seek such additional support, and patients should feel free to ask for such confirmation of a medical opinion.

Open and frank discussion with a doctor about an additional opinion has many advantages. Doctors do not consider it is a reflection on them if a patient and his family ask for consultation with a specialist.

When there is complete faith in the relationship between doctor and patient, the patient asks the doctor to suggest a consultant rather than to find one without the doctor's knowledge.

Then the combined judgment really becomes valuable and the bond between the doctor and patient is solidified.

When any conflict arises between a doctor and his patient it can be clarified and rectified with an attitude of mutual respect. This bond is too vital to be sacrificed by petty misunderstanding.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead - king of diamonds.

This deal occurred in a pair game. At practically every table the contract was two spades, played by South, and the outcome was almost uniformly the same at each table.

West invariably led the king of diamonds, East playing the nine to show a doubleton. West continued with the ace and another diamond, East ruffing the third round of the suit.

East returned the queen of spades at this point, and as a result South wound up with the rest of the tricks. He drew two rounds of trumps, cashed the K-J of clubs, entered dummy with a trump, discarded both his hearts on the A-Q of clubs, and in that way made two spades with two overtricks.

But at one table the East-West pair defended the hand perfectly and South went down two at two spades!

Here, also, West led the king of diamonds but East played the deuce instead of the nine, thus in effect commanding a switch to another suit. West duly obliged by making the obvious hisft of a heart rhough Dummy's king

As a result of this joint effort, the defenders were able to pick the declarer bone-dry. East cashed the A-Q of hearts before returning the diamond nine.

West cashed the A-J and played the fourth round of diamonds, ruffed by declarer in dummy with the nine and overruffed by East with the queen.

Now East put the last nail in the coffin by playing a heart, and there was no way for declarer to stop West from scoring a further trick for the defense in the form of the jack of trumps. So North-South went minus 200 as a result of the inspired defense, and East-West racked up a beautiful top score.

FIFTH GRADE BENGALS

At a meeting March 14, the Jasper School, the fifth grade Bengals elected Garland Fitzpatrick for president; John Patterson, vice president; Kelley Lane, Secretary; Treasurer, Cindy Anders and Teresa Hill for news reporter.

Meetings will be held every Friday at 3:30 p.m.

GIRL SCOUT TROOP

The girls had a flag ceremony for the opening. Mrs. Hixon served refreshments. We took a pattern for a pin cushion, laid it out on felt material and each cut out her own cushion. We plan to stuff them and sew them together at our meeting next week. Tina Anders will serve refreshments at the next meeting.

We discussed our Juliette Lowe program in which we had participated in the Mahan Building at Washington C.H. We had made a bull, a snake and a cat head out of paper mache for our table decorations. We put our Juliette Lowe fund contribution in the cat's head so we could break out Pinata. We did the Mexican hat dance and sang, "Row, Row Your Boat," in Spanish for our part of the program.

Mrs. Hixon baked a Mexican ginger cookie and an almond twist cookie called "Roscoqs de Jeringas" and Mrs. Hanshell made "Visitas," small rich almond cakes given to children who visit another's home during some of the festive season.

Played games until it was time for us to go home.

Donald P. Woods, Dr. Wong, James Dunn

Physician to locate in WCH

Dr. Kwok-kuen Wong, currently completing his residency requirement at Fairview General Hospital in Cleveland, announced Wednesday his decision to establish a full time practice in Washington C.H.

Dr. Wong is an Ohio licensed physician and will practice in obstetrics and gynecology. He will be located in a new office building at 5 Fayette Center (near the Fayette County Bank) and will officially start his practice on July 1. He has indicated a desire to have a receptionist in the office by June 15 to handle appointments and set up the necessary office files.

According to members of the local medical staff and hospital administrator's office, Dr. Wong is coming to the community with the "highest recommendations."

The physician was born in Hong Kong, completed his internship in Pittsburgh, and has spent the past four years at Fairview General Hospital in Cleveland. Dr. Wong is married (his wife is a registered nurse) and has one son, Kenric.

DONALD P. WOODS, president of The Fayette County Bank and chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Physician Recruitment Committee, and James Dunn, executive vice president, said the project has been a community effort. They expressed their appreciation to the hospital administration and members of the medical staff who have cooperated. Dunn also stated that several local businessmen and individuals have been extremely helpful in the search for physicians.

Dr. Wong first made contact with the community in September, 1972, and has visited here on several occasions to study the prospects for a local practice.

In announcing his decision to locate in Washington C.H., Dr. Wong cited the following factors: he and Mrs. Wong prefer the lifestyle of a smaller, rural community; the community has a definite need for an obstetrician - gynecologist (Fayette Memorial Hospital has averaged 650 births per year in recent years), and he and Mrs. Wong have been "extremely pleased" with the friendliness and courtesy extended by the community.

Bankers called by ITT probers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate subcommittee summoned banking officials today in its probe of alleged U.S. attempts to put an economic squeeze on Chile in 1970 to block the election of President Salvador Allende.

Called as witnesses before the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on multinational corporations were representatives of Chase Manhattan; the Bank of America, and the First National City Bank.

The inquiry is based largely on internal documents from the files of International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. suggesting contacts with the White House, State Department, and Central Intelligence Agency to promote government intervention to forestall expropriation of American property in Chile under an Allende regime.

Ted E. Joslin, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Joslin, 620 Willabar Dr., has been adjudged to be a juvenile traffic fender by Juvenile Court Judge Rollo M. Marchant. The youth was charged by city police with driving an unsafe vehicle. The court approved driving sanctions imposed by the parents and ordered the youth to attend the Defensive Driving Course.

DIVORCE GRANTED

Martha E. Robinson, Rt. 2, Washington C.H., has been granted a divorce from Jack R. Robinson, 624 Columbus Ave., on grounds of neglect. The plaintiff's former name of Martha E. Lindsay was restored. The parties were married Nov. 24, 1972, in Newport, Ky.

DIVORCE ASKED

Donald Funk, Rt. 1, New Holland, has filed suit in Fayette County Common Pleas Court for a divorce against Lexie V. Funk, Columbus, on grounds of neglect and cruelty. The parties were married July 25, 1970.

Virginia J. Puckett, 764 McLean St., has filed suit for divorce in Common Pleas Court against Chester M. Puckett, same address, on grounds of extreme cruelty. The parties were married April 18, 1948, at Carlisle, Pa., and have one minor child, according to the petition. The plaintiff asks for a divorce judgment, temporary child custody, temporary and permanent alimony and child support and a property settlement.

Patricia P. Nelson, 320½ Broadway, has filed suit for divorce in Common Pleas Court against James D. Nelson, Rt. 3, Washington C. H., on grounds of gross neglect of duty. The parties were married Oct. 28, 1961, at Washington C. H. and have four minor children, according to the petition. The plaintiff seeks a divorce judgment, temporary and permanent alimony custody and support of the minor children and a restraining order.

A previous divorce suit, styled Patricia P. Nelson against James D. Nelson, has been dismissed on motion of the plaintiff

DAMAGES SOUGHT

154 North Corp., of Columbus, has filed suit in Fayette County Common Pleas Court against Fay Thomas Junk and Blanche Junk, 141 Eastview. According to the petition, the plaintiff purchased a 393-acre farm from the defendants and was to have obtained possession on Feb. 15, 1973.

The plaintiff charges that Thomas Junk, son of the defendants, has possession of the real estate. The corporation alleges it will lose $40,000 in 1973 if possession is not obtained in the immediate future.

The plaintiff asks $10,000 for damages accruing from Feb. 15 until the date of suit, plus $110 per day from the date of the suit until possession of the real estate is obtained.
